Mrs. Adnah Nelhart was beautifully gowned in pink broadcloth and wore diamond ornaments. She carried a large bunch of violets.

In the dining room the Misses Cobb, Miss May Page, Miss Mandell, Miss Nelhart and Miss Mabel Gaffield assisted. Music was furnished by an orchestra beginning with a waltz and ending with a march.

—A large and friendly audience gathered in Elliot Hall, Wednesday evening, to witness the musical entertainment of the Newton Serenaders. The circle was a good one and some of its members introduced amusing features. The solos in the first part were well received, especially those of Mr. F. E. A. Holmes, Mr. Holmes and Hugh Campbell. The comic songs of the end men were decidedly humorous. Mr. Pressey's "Sarah Jane Matilda," and Mr. Burgher's "Climb up old chimney," were well received. At the conclusion of Mr. Cooldidge's song, "Wing my Wing," a jockeying entered and sang "Little Alabama Goin'" in a very catchy manner.

The solos of the remainder of a bouquet. The finale by the circle was entitled, "Popular songs in a popular way," and introduced many of the latest melodies. It proved one of the most pleasing features of the entertainment. The jokes of the end men contained considerable local color and the bits and personalities were good naturedly received by the audience. Two members of the Corey Hill Banjo and Mandolin quartet introduced selections, Mr. B. E. Fox sang "Swim out O'Grady," and "Gilhooley's Violet Tea" in costume. Mr. G. P. Fernald, styled the colored prima donna, gave a very clever impersonation of an opera singer. Mr. E. W. Emerson, the well known humorist, kept the audience in a continual state of mirth. A monologue by Mr. Cooldidge was apparently very much appreciated. The performance was closed with an instrumental number by members of the Corey Hill Banjo and Mandolin Quartet. The minstrel show was a success and credit is due the management for its efforts in providing an entertainment with so many good features.

N. H. S. Mid-Winter Drill.

The annual mid-year drill and dance of the high school battalion took place in the drill hall last Saturday afternoon.

Although the number of tickets was limited, every seat was taken and a few were obliged to stand. The drill as a whole was one of the best ever given, the regimental drill, a new feature containing many intricate movements, being especially well executed. In the individual competitions, several dark horses came to the front, but the prize winners won their honors deservedly. Sergeant Forsen drilled especially well.

The order of exercises follows: Assembly; setting up exercises, Capt. Huxley; battalion drill, Capt. Kimball; regimental drill, Capt. Hollings; junior squad competition for Howard medal; artillery detachment and signal corps; senior squad competition for Fiske medal; battalion parade; award of prizes. The judges were Capt. J. Bigelow, Jr., 10th U. S. Cavalry; Lieut. Wirt Robinson, 4th U. S. Artillery; Capt. H. P. Ballard, Adj. 5th Regt., M. V. M. Through the decision of these officers, based upon the marking, the Fiske medal went to Sgt. J. W. Forsen; honorable mention, Sgt. E. F. Brigham, Sgt. K. W. Lippincott and Private R. V. Lumbert of the artillery. Junior squad—Howard medal, Private Taber Mc. Farlin; honorable mention, Privs. H. B. Hollings, W. Chase and R. C. Proctor. One of the most interesting recitals announced this season is that of Miss Marie Brema, the mezzo soprano of the Damrosch German Opera Company, and Mr. Plunket Greene, the noted young basso. They will be heard in Music Hall Boston, next Tuesday afternoon, April 9. Miss Brema has been the artistic sensation of the year both in New York and Boston. Mr. Greene has made a splendid name for himself both in England and America for his Oratorio work and artistic ballad singing. The combination of two such talented artists will surely be productive of fine results. Prices will range from 75 cents to $1.50 and are now on sale at Music Hall.

ALDERMEN IN SESSION.

MANY PETITIONS PRESENTED FOR CONSIDERATION AND ACTION—COMMONWEALTH AVENUE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WANTS A LOCATION ON NEW BOULEVARD—WELLESLEY & BOSTON RAILWAY COMPANY ANXIOUS FOR A FRANCHISE—URGENT REQUESTS FOR SIDEWALKS AND CROSS WALKS ALONG LINE OF WALNUT STREET—CONSIDERABLE ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

Mayor Bothfield presided at the meeting of the aldermen held Monday evening. There was quite a large amount of routine business including the presentation and disposal of numerous petitions, many requiring the appointment of dates for hearings.

At the commencement of the session, a hearing was given on the petition of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company for permit to attach its wires to poles of the Electric Light Company on Crafts, Watertown, Concord, Harvard and Pearl streets and Auburndale avenue. No remonstrants appeared and the hearing was closed.

Several papers came up from the common council and were acted upon in concurrence. These included the $40,000 schoolhouse order and order relating to same providing for issue of 20-year 4 per cent. bonds. The ordinance relating to the establishing of ward and precinct boundary lines, as amended in the lower branch, was passed to be enrolled.

The quarterly report of the chief of the fire department was received and filed.

Capt. Early and U. H. Dyer were granted honorable discharges from the fire department, dating from April 1.

A petition of the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company for location for tracks on Homer street from the power house to tracks now laid on Walnut street, was presented and a hearing on same ordered for Monday evening, April 15, at 8 p. m.

On petition of J. N. Kellar, general manager of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company asking for that company locations for telephone poles on Park and Elmwood streets, and for permit to attach 5 cross-arms on fire alarm poles on Parsons street, a hearing was also ordered for April 15, at 8 o'clock.

The application of the various druggists of the city for sixth-class liquor licenses were received and referred to the license committee.

Alderman Plummer asked if all the applications were accompanied by the certificate of the commission, qualifying as registered pharmacists.

Mayor Bothfield—Not in each case. The petitioners understand, however, that it is necessary.

Renewals of inn-holders' licenses were granted to Joseph Lee, George W. Lamson, S. F. Brickett, D. E. Lane and U. G. Gray.

The petition of Eugene W. Pratt for appointment as constable was received. Later in the order of business, he was appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the board.

A petition of H. L. Muffell requesting the connecting of the Newton (Ward Seven) police station with the central telephone office and the locating of a police signal on Hunnewell Hill was referred to the police committee.

On the petition of the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Company for locations on Commonwealth avenue for a double line of tracks with turnouts, cross-overs and the necessary poles and wires for the operation of an electric railway from the Boston line to Washington street in Auburndale, a hearing was appointed for Monday evening, May 6, at 8 o'clock.

A petition of J. R. Smith, et al, for sewerage service for the Highland district was referred to the committee on sewers.

These petitions of the Newton Land & Improvement Company and others, presented by Alderman Green, were referred to the highway committee. For concrete sidewalks on Walnut, Morse and Valentine streets; for cross-walk on Walnut street at junction of Commonwealth avenue, Walnut, junction of Lake View avenue, Walnut, junction, Grove Hill road, Walnut, junction Morse street, Walnut, junction of Mill street.

A remonstrance from J. T. Walls, et al, against construction of proposed new boulevard through Eldridge street to Newton Centre was received and referred to the highway committee.

The license committee reported adversely on the petition of James Vachou for license to a pool room in the Newton Centre, recommending that he have leave to withdraw. The report was accepted.

Alderman White presented the claim of C. W. Stetson for damages to his carriage caused, he says, by a defective highway in the Oak Hill district. Referred to committee on claims.

Petitions of J. R. Robinson, et al, and J. B. Lindsay for sewers in Auburn street and Buckingham road, were referred to the committee on sewers.

Alderman Dagen presented the petition of Luther Paul and others requesting the devising of means for the drainage of a section of land lying between Centre street and Oxford road. It was represented that a number of new houses had been erected there, adding, at least, $40,000 to the taxable property of the city. Referred to highway committee.

On motion of Alderman Dagen an order was adopted transferring $1519.14, representing unexpended balances of sewer construction items for Grant avenue, Centre street and the boulevard, and small sums from the appropriations for highway general repairs and that of drains and culverts to the Worcester street drain account.

An order offered by Alderman Dagen was adopted appropriating $9,565 for laying water pipes in Alpine, Cook and Winchester streets, way off H-nshaw street, Berwick, Saxon and Thurston roads.

An order offered by Alderman Bullard was adopted authorizing the city messenger to purchase 40 copies of the Newton Directory for the uses of the various city departments at an expense not to exceed $50.

At this point Alderman Hamilton presented a communication from residents of Waban park, being a request for the removal to some other location of the water pipe stand now located there. It was represented that it had been there for some years and that when established at the place named it was with the understanding that in course of the lapse of a reasonable time some other location would be selected. The petition was referred to the highway committee with the recommendation that the request be granted.

Abraham Hamilton presented a communication from voters of ward one, signed among others by E. J. B. Esterbrook and J. S. Potter, requesting that the centre of Ludbury brook be established as the dividing line between wards one and two. Referred to the committee on elections.

Alderman Plummer presented a communication from the Newton Land and Improvement Company calling attention to the condition of the culvert under Walnut street near Mill street. Its condition was represented as dangerous, the planks having decayed and the masonry walls become shaky. The petitioners expressed the hope that it would be repaired and also requested the city council to consider its petitions for sidewalks and cross walks along Walnut street. It referred to a former petition for improvements in Sylvan avenue, West Newton. It is the intention of the land company of Mr. L. G. Pratt and others to put up some new houses there as soon as the street was put in proper condition. The erection of a number of new buildings are contemplated along the line of territory bordering on Walnut street where cross walks are asked for. The communication was referred to the highway committee.

Orders were adopted requesting the committee on elections to consider and report on the division of ward and precinct lines; authorizing the locating of one incandescent lamp on Middlesex road, one on Lincoln street, three incandescent lamps on California street, and one lamp at the junction of Park and Sargent streets; authorizing the laying of sewers in Crafts, Judkins and Mt. Vernon streets.

Alderman Plummer presented the petition of the Wellesley and Boston Street Railway Company for locations for poles, wires, tracks, turnouts and crossovers for an electric street railway line from Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, to Margin street, West Newton, and for permit also to attach span wires to the line of telephone poles along Washington street. The mayor raised the point that no authority under the ordinances could be given to a company to attach its wires to the poles of another company unless the consent of the latter was obtained. After some discussion, a hearing was ordered for Monday evening, April 15, at 8 o'clock, provided consent of the telephone company was filed within 48 hours in the office of the city clerk.

Alderman White presented the report of the fire committee recommending an increase of $25 per annum in the pay of all men, dating from April 1. Report was received.

An order was then adopted, offered by Alderman White, fixing the compensation of hose and truckmen at $125 per annum; foremen, $135 per annum; assistant foremen, $130 per annum; and appropriating $1200 from unexpended balances to be added to the appropriation for fire department.

Alderman Plummer in explanation of the above, said that the petition of the call men called for a big increase. They wanted $300 per annum. That was regarded as a request for a large additional expenditure and one that the committee could not recommend. After giving the matter careful consideration it was decided that an increase of $25 would be fair and acceptable to all the men.

Another petition was presented at this stage of the proceedings. It was from the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company asking for locations for poles, wires, tracks, turnouts and cross-overs for a street railway along the boulevard and the request of another company for locations for poles there cannot be properly acted upon until the decision is reached in regard to granting or refusing the electric railway franchise asked for. I don't think that a vote of abutting property would care for a double line of poles. On motion of Alderman Bullard the petition of the Newton & Boston company was received and filed.

At 8:55 o'clock, the board went into executive session and shortly thereafter it was voted to adjourn.

The Bicycle Fever.

That the bicycle epidemic spares neither age, sex, nor condition, is shown by a visit to Pope's bicycle school in Boston. Men of sixty years or more can be seen there taking their first lesson, while the ladies are of all ages, and include residents of Beacon street, the Back Bay, and all the suburbs. The youngsters are in evidence at all times, and the curious thing about it is, that all the mature beginners are very anxious to find out the hours when no one else will be present, with the result that the floor is crowded from 8 a. m. to 9:30 p. m. The officers say that never before was there such a craze for riding, and the spectator who goes simply to see the fun, gets the fever and is soon wobbling around with the rest, and, fortunately for the beginners, spectators are not often allowed. The instructors have the hardest time of it as the new riders have to be held on, some of them for the entire lesson, and the result is that all are more or less crippled. A rainy day is usually the busiest time as every one thinks everyone else will stay away, and consequently there are hardly instructors and bicycles enough to go round. One would think from the number of different makes of wheels, that the market would be overstocked, but the number of beginners is so large, and all old riders must have the latest wheel, with the result that most of the factories have hard work to keep up with their orders. Evidently the man or woman that does not ride this summer will be in a very small minority.

The rapidity with which croup develops calls for instant treatment; and yet few households are prepared for its visits. An admirable remedy for this disease is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has saved hundreds of lives and should be in every home where there are young children.

A BENEFIT CONCERT.

TO MISS SMITH, THE BLIND SOPRANO, AT CITY HALL, APRIL 18, AT 7:45 P. M.

Miss Lillie Smith of Davenport, Iowa, who lost her sight when four years of age, has, through her musical talent, supported herself and assisted a widowed mother for a number of years.

She came to Boston last September to continue her studies at the N. E. Conservatory of Music, but will not be able to complete the year there, without financial aid. She appeared before a Newton audience for the first time in the concert given by the blind musicians in City Hall, March 7, and subsequently sang in the Baptist church at West Newton where she won all hearts by her sweet heartfelt rendering of her selections. Her friends there desiring to assist her in the time of need, have arranged a concert to be given entirely by talent furnished gratuitously from the N. E. Conservatory. There will be selections by a ladies' trio, mixed quartet, violinist, reader, a string quartet, a chorus of ladies conducted by Signor Rotoli, and others.

Admission 50 cents. Tickets for sale at Ingraham's, Thorp's and Gaudet's. Buy them now and assist a worthy cause.

$1000 Reward $1000.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing the work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. ## Cottage Farm and Faneuil.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

Reading your article in issue of March 22d about increase of railroad stations on the B. & A. road, and your comments upon the too frequent stopping of trains to accommodate the very few who get off and on at Cottage Farm and Faneuil stations, which is out of all reason to the majority, brings to my reflections what I learned many years ago on inquiry.

In the early life of the Boston & Worcester R. R., Cottage Farm station was adopted simply to accommodate the Sears, Lawrence, and other families who owned almost all the contiguous territory and who breathed all the air there at their summer homes. They held the land against all comers, asking one dollar, and more, per foot. Of course outsiders could not obtain a nearby residence. But as time has elapsed, the time waited for to produce one dollar a foot. And still Cottage Farm don't grow v. rapidly. And still people all along the road pay tribute to the Lords of the Manor, or their successors.

I also learned that the families named with others interested, were large owners here, and had the management of the B. & A. hence the Cottage Farmers, or land owners demanded and got a very fine and valuable right to stop a full train to allow some one or three members to alight from every train out and in. This is all right—letting, but as I read—the cost of stopping a railroad train at a station and the starting up of it again is not less than twenty-five dollars of cost to the management. Will some of our High school boys figure out how much it has cost the B. & A. for forty years, say to the present time? As for Faneuil station it must be built up, too, around about.

Unfortunate speculation and beginning—Faneuil was begun too soon; had time been given like unto Cottage Farm investment, the land there today might be held at one dollar a foot and no comers. We citizens of the Newton must not complain, but listen patiently and hear the grind of the wheels as the breaks stop the cars to let off and on the few to the tediousness of the many. Remember too, that railroads are not managed as merchants and traders manage their several businesses—to make the most money. But I am tiring you out and myself, so good bye.

CHESTNUT HILL'S NEW CLUB.

ITS DOORS WILL BE THROWN OPEN ON SATURDAY TO ITS MEMBERS.

Next Saturday the new Chestnut Hill club will throw open its doors to its members.

It is a cozy building but a minute's walk to the entrance, and as you enter the broad door, only a few steps above the level of the ground, you find yourself in one of the prettiest clubhouses in Newton.

To the right of the hallway is the woman's room, tastefully papered in delicate green and pink. This room is for the special use of the fair sex, there being a number who are members. The furniture is pretty though simple.

On the other side of the hall way, directly opposite the woman's room is the reception room. A large rug in the center of the floor attracts the eye. On a table can be found writing materials; chairs are set about the room, there being two of the reclining order among the number. The windows have nice green shades, with lace curtains, and the whole suggests a homelike feeling.

The large hall, just off the hallway and facing it, is 55 feet long by 35 feet wide. Its ceiling is the bare timbers, stained a dark brown, and the effect is delightful though in striking contrast with the light yellowish color of the floor and walls. A stage about three feet high in the rear of the hall is sufficiently large for entertainments and the like. Under the stage may be placed in a few minutes all the chairs in the hall, thus giving the whole floor space for dancing.

From the stage is a door with glass panels leading out on the veranda, from which may be viewed the various games in the large field extending nearly 500 feet in the rear.

There is a stairway from the stage leading downstairs to the kitchen, but this is not for ordinary use. The proper way to descend is just after coming in the door. Shower baths and dressing rooms, with about two dozen lockers, occupy nearly one side of the basement. Beyond the dressing rooms is the kitchen. Bowling alleys occupy the extreme left of the basement, and they are unsurpassed. The alleys are known as adjustable, being so arranged that they can be readily levelled should they become accident or otherwise get out of order. There is plenty room for spectators to watch the sport, and the chairs are arranged on one side of the alleys for that purpose.

Upstairs above the hallway are the rooms for card playing and billiard and pool games. The latter are confined to one room. From the billiard room is a glass paneled door, leading one into a pretty little balcony, from which can be seen all that is going on in the hall of the large hall beneath.

The card room has windows looking into the hall, and in times of a crowded house many persons may be seen who are going on in the hall from either this room or the billiard room.

The walls half way to the ceiling on the upper floors are of a terra cotta color. The doors throughout are of cherry, with a few exceptions, and all blend together to a nicety.

Electricity is used for lighting and steam radiators are around the building in sufficiency. Everything is first-class and is a credit to the committee having charge of the work.

From the windows can be seen all the surrounding neighborhood, and the light obtained from them is as clear as daylight. Each part of the house is in keeping with the other, and a general air of good taste pervades the entire building.

The large lot of land in the front of the house will be laid out for tennis and croquet courts, there being a dozen of good players in both games among the members. In the rear is the baseball and football field. The club, it might be said, will devote its energies to the promotion of all outdoor sports as well as to the social side of Chestnut Hill life.

The club has four kinds of members; family, junior, bachelor and non-resident. The first named are assessed annually $25, juniors pay $10, bachelor members pay $15, though the initiation fee is the same as a family membership, $25. The non-resident members pay $10 for initiation and $10 yearly.

The president of the club is Hon. John Lowell. Richard M. Saltonstall, son of Hon. Everett Saltonstall, is vice president. The treasurer, Francis W. Lee, is treasurer of the Country Club. Charles H. Burrage fills the position of secretary.

The executive committee consists of Mrs. William R. Dupree, Mrs. Horace S. Frazier, Mrs. John Lowell, Jr., William E. Cox, S. H. Fessenden, Jr., and Amory D. Wainwright.

The building committee includes W. H. Aspinwall, S. H. Fessenden, Jr., Osborn Howes, Francis W. Lee and Charles S. Miller.

The house committee consists of Mrs. John Lowell, Jr., Mrs. H. S. Frazier, H. Fessenden, Jr., Amory D. Wainwright, and Charles H. Burrage.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me. He got a bottle and used it and in a week, 50 cent bottles for sale by A. Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Abundant; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

Are you ever annoyed by a buzzing or roaring sound in your head? Have you difficulty in hearing distinctly? Are you troubled with a continual dropping of mucus, irritating the throat and causing you to cough? Is your breath unpleasantly affected and accompanied with bad taste? Is your hearing less acute? If so, you have catarrh and should at once procure a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, the best known remedy. The Balm will give instant relief.

Hall's Hair Renewer has prevented many heads from being bald. It will help you.

HIS COUNTRY HONORS HIM.

TESTIMONIAL TO THE AUTHOR OF AMERICA—TRIBUTES FROM MANY DISTINGUISHED MEN—SPEECH OF DR. HOVEY.

The long contemplated testimonial to Rev. Dr. S. F. Smith, author of the national hymn, "America," took place Wednesday in Music Hall, Boston. While much attention had been paid to the arrangements for the event, it was to a great extent a simple and spontaneous tribute from the hearts of the people, and great interest was manifested by all classes. Music Hall was well filled at the opening exercises in the afternoon, which consisted of an entertainment for school children. Curtis Guild, chairman of the executive committee, presided, and happily and informally addressed a large gathering of children, introducing to them the venerable author, who briefly expressed his gratification at their presence in his honor. Mrs. Smith was also present. There was a chorus of 200 school children, also music by Baldwin's cadet band, solos by Mrs. Jennie Patrick Walker and Joseph L. White, and remarks by Rev. Dr. Edward Hale, Rev. Dr. Lorimer, Prof. H. H. Lincoln and others.

The celebration was continued in the evening, when another big audience gathered in Music Hall to listen to addresses from eloquent speakers, which were interspersed with inspiring music. Curtis Guild, Jr., called the meeting to order, and after Prof. Harris of Andover had invoked the divine blessing, introduced Gov. Greenhalge to preside. The "Hallelujah" chorus was sung by 125 voices from the Handel and Haydn Society, conducted by Carl Zorner, after which Rev. Dr. Smith told anew the story of "America," practically as he had given it in the afternoon. Dr. Smith's peroration was eloquent. The audience applauded wildly at the conclusion of his remarks.

Gov. Long delivered an eloquent address and the Harvard Glee Club followed in a fine rendition of an original ode written by Henry O'Meara. They were encored. Col. A. A. Pope spoke patriotically upon America from a soldier's point of view, and Mrs. Jennie Patrick Walker sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Rev. Mr. Jackson read a paper, "Our National Anthem," and the Handel and Haydn sang "To Thee, O Country." Department Commander Thayer of the Massachusetts Grand Army delivered an address.

DR. SMITH AS A NEIGHBOR.

The Rev. Dr. Alvah Hovey spoke of Dr. Smith as a neighbor. Said he: "My acquaintance with Dr. Smith began fifty years ago, and since that time we have been continuously neighbors and friends. For this reason I have been asked to express, in a few words, the love and respect which the people of Newton Centre feel towards the author of 'America.'"

"The only instance of perfect manhood on record was pre-eminently the quiet virtues. 'He did not strive nor cry; neither did any man hear his voice in the streets.' In this respect, Dr. Smith has been like his Lord. Through half a century he has been a fine illustration of the quiet and unobtrusive qualities comprehended in the idea of a good neighbor. He has gone out and come in among us, pursuing always the even tenor of his way, and disturbing no man's peace. We have never known him to oppose a record, or to spread an evil report of a fellow man, or to engage in a quarrel with a worthy enterprise. We have never observed any desecration of his gift of song to the infliction of pain by a resort to ridicule or sarcasm. And to be blameless in these respects is a distinction not shared by everyone who wields the pen of a ready writer. (Applause.)"

"But his neighbors desire to say much more than this. Dr. Smith has manifested a spirit which tends to raise mortals to the skies. From lustre to lustre, the productions of a pen, which has never been long idle, have revealed by their purity and elevation of thought the upward movement of his spirit, and have shown that all things fair and good have borne aloft his cultivated imagination, until it seems to—

lived inspired
In regions mild of calm and serene light, Above the smoke and stir of this dim spot Which men call earth.

"This is known to all readers of his religious poetry, and is appreciated by those who dwell at his side as highly as by any that are afar off.

"In speaking for the neighbors of Dr. Smith, his social life must not be overlooked. And you will allow me to illustrate this by a word of personal reminiscence. For years I was accustomed to meet him very frequently near the post-office in our village; and many were the questions pertaining to language or literature with which he saluted me. For besides the three ancient tongues of which every young theologian was presumed to be master, he had made himself familiar with many more, as French, German, Swedish, Italian and others; and on the occasions to which I have referred, he would inquire about some singular or felicitous expression discovered by him in one of these languages. More than once I have seen his eyes sparkle with mirth at my vacant air when caught in his Socratic trap. But the fun of the process to him was more than equalled by its usefulness to me; and I cherish the belief that in social life he has been no less stimulating and useful, as well as agreeable, to others.

"During several years, after resigning his pastoral office, Dr. Smith fitted boys for college in his home in Newton Centre. For this work he possessed rare qualifications. His interest in young people, his ability to command their respect, his ample knowledge, his vocabulary—from the well of English undefiled—and his Christian courtesy were certain to mould those under his tuition. Love of home, love of country, love of nature, love of learning, love of man and love of God were the impulses which controlled his life and formed the atmosphere of his school. (Applause.) It may not be in the power of any teacher to breathe poetic insight into his pupils, but it is often possible for him to open their eyes to a new world, where nature and art and literature, the highest thoughts of men and the noblest words of God, become unfailing sources of light and joy; and this, it is safe to say, our distinguished neighbor and friend did for the lads who came to him for instruction; indeed, more than this for some of them.

"But no man's life is altogether public. Its deepest current and steadiest flow are perceived by those persons only who have frequent access to his home. And, speaking for his friends in Newton Centre, I must congratulate Dr. Smith on the wealth and tranquility of his domestic life. For many years he was encircled by a group of intelligent children, and, with their quietly mother at his side, he was permitted to train them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. He was their revered teacher and example in all good conduct and worthy ambition, and was rewarded by their perfect loyalty and trust. And when, one after another, they were called to go into the world and breast its tumultuous waves by themselves, no one of them failed in courage or in skill. Whether in Burma or in America, they have honored their parentage and early discipline. Meanwhile, the wife and mother has remained by his side, adorning by her gracious presence the home of our beloved poet and friend. Serus in cœlum redeat." (Applause.)

At the conclusion of Dr. Hovey's talk the chorus, "Washington and the Flag," was sung by the Handel and Haydn Society on the stage.

ONE WORD—"AMERICA."
Then Governor Greenhalge rose and said: "There is only one thing expected before the conclusion of this program. Remarks are expected by the chairman. The chairman has only one word to say: 'America.' Let every one sing it."

With this the audience rose to a man, the orchestra struck a chord and the whole assemblage burst forth in a glorious rendering of our grand old hymn. And so ended the testimonial benefit to the author of our national song.

Always Successful.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for many years and have found it successful in every case. For the last three winters I have had the grip and Hood's Sarsaparilla has been my only remedy and has brought me out all right. My little girl who is troubled with bronchitis has also used it with benefit." Mrs. Julia Dimick, 25 Arlington St., Everett, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure biliousness, indigestion.

LIVING ABROAD.

It Is Not So Cheap as It Is Commonly Reputed to Be.

"A man soon gets cured of many long cherished traditions respecting the cost of things in Europe by a little bit of personal contact with old world institutions," said Colonel W. C. Chapman of San Francisco. "I had an idea until I sojourned abroad one summer that the cost of living was much lower in London, for example, than in any American city. To my sorrow, I found out that to live in good style in London was dearer a good deal than to exist comfortably in New York."

"To be specific, I went to the Savoy, the best hotel in the great metropolis, and ordered a dinner not at all more elaborate than I am used to having at home. There are some excellent restaurants in Washington not noted for their cheapness where that dinner would have cost about $5.50—certainly not more than $6. The bill brought me called for £8, or $10 in American currency. Of course there was a small bottle of wine, but it was innocent of ice, as neither love, money nor tears will make those beautiful Britishers give you any ice with your drinks. I don't want to ever hear again of European cheap living. It's a myth. I can live better in this country on less money and have a ton of ice a day if I want it gratis. You may be able to live over there on a little money, but a man can exist very cheaply in China if he will limit himself to rice."—Memphis Commercial.

Those Irrepressible!

It was at a large party. A gentleman had the misfortune to break a glass. Little Lena, who was standing near her mamma, raised herself on tiptoes and whispered, loud enough for all the company to hear:

"And one of the borrowed ones too!"
Later in the evening the hostess gave one of her little daughters a nice apple. "Now, give your mamma a kiss, there's a dear," said the child's uncle. "I'm not allowed to when she's painted her face."

Little Paul was sent with a bunch of flowers to the manager's wife on her birthday and waited in silence after he had been dismissed.
Lady—Well, my young man, what are you waiting for now?
Paul—Mamma said I was not to ask for a piece of birthday cake, but wait till I got it.—Tagliche Rundschau.

Rockers.

Rocking chairs of the styles prevailing nowadays are believed to have been invented in the present century. They are mentioned by Venerable Bede: "The women now are so luxurious that they do have chairs with wooden circles on the legs and which sway back and forth in such sort that it maketh one sick to behold them."

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Abundant; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

The Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway company are evidently in earnest, as they have petitioned the board of aldermen for a location for their tracks on the new boulevard, from Washington street in West Newton to the Boston line, and it is said that they propose to go right ahead and build their tracks and get the cars running the present season. Then they will have a standing on which to petition for an outlet into Boston, and will have a much stronger case than if their road was simply on paper. The West End have laid tracks for a part of the way on Commonwealth avenue extension, and when the two roads establish a connection, or build to each other's lines, then in all probability something will happen, of great interest to the residents on the Newton section of the boulevard. As connection can be made with the Newton & Boston road at Walnut street, and with the Wellesley & Boston, which it is proposed to build this summer, on Washington street, many will make the trip along the boulevard, just out of curiosity, besides those who will patronize it to get to and from their homes. In these days, when every one wants to live on the line of a street car route, the railway will be a necessity for the development of the land. Besides the two new street car lines mentioned above, the Newton street railway is planning extensions to Nonantum, so that there will be a good deal of railway construction in Newton this season.

The excavation for the subway in Boston has brought out a flood of protests in all the papers, from Gamaliel Bradford down to the writer who signs himself "taxpayer." They all look with horror on the desecration of the Public Garden and the Common, but none can deny that some mode of relief is imperative, and there would be even more protests against an elevated railroad, which seems the only alternative. Certain Bostonians make a sort of fetish of the Common, and oppose any plan of street widening that would take an inch from its sacred precincts. Many evidently regard the soil as sacred even down to the earth's centre, and hence the howl against the subway.
But veneration for the Common should not be carried to such a point as to block together the wheels of progress, and as the subway has to have a beginning somewhere, the Common seems to be the only place for it. The present condition of things in the congested district is too serious to be endured, and a subway is infinitely preferable to an elevated road, as it is out of sight, and will relieve the crowded section of the city from most of the street car traffic and the consequent hourly blockades.

No city around Boston has such poor accommodations for its city officials as Newton. It is a disgrace to our citizens.
With the city growing in its outskirts in all sections, the time must soon come when the City Hall must be placed in a more central position. We have no right to ask people living in Auburndale or West Newton to go to Chestnut Hill or Newton Centre. Neither have we any right to ask people living in the Highlands or Newton Centre to go to West Newton. A central location ought now to be selected even if a building is not placed on it for several years, but that ought to be done right away. Before all the land is sold on the boulevard, why can a site not be obtained somewhere near Highland and Walnut streets? This is the geographical centre of our city and with the electric cars running in all directions would accommodate everybody.

The Reading Railroad has found out the effect of a reduction of fares. It made a sweeping cut in the rates between Germantown and Philadelphia, to meet the competition of the trolley lines, and the result was that the traffic increased so largely that the road was unable to supply cars enough to seat the passengers, and in many cases standing room was difficult to find. The increase of traffic promises to more than make good the loss of revenue from the cut in rates. This experience ought to be called to the attention of the Boston & Albany officials, with especial reference to prices on the circuit line, between the stations in Newton. With reduced rates it is not probable that a long string of empty cars would have to be run from Riverside to Newton Highlands.

A prominent physician in the British Medical Journal says that kissing is not as dangerous as some would have us believe. His theory is that in the act of kissing we encounter only beneficial organisms and he says: "The advantages of kissing outweigh its infinitesimal risk for it provides us with microbes useful for digestion."

Lasell Notes.

A party to the Art Museum on Monday.
A small party heard the "Minstrels" at Newton the other evening.
The last cooking lecture before the second year class was given March 30, and had to do with marketing.

The S. D. Society will give, on Monday evening next, an entertainment in the gymnasium—"The Darktown Minstrels." The Faculty of Lasell gave, on Thursday evening last, a reception to a party of the pupils, the third of the year.

Mr. Bragdon conducted a party to Elliot church, Newton, on Sunday evening where some fine music was to be heard.
The usual number of art students attended Prof. Fenellosa's weekly lecture, March 29 on Japanese art.

The delight of another evening at the Symphony was enjoyed on last Saturday evening by the fortunate fourteen who found it convenient to attend.
On Thursday evening, March 28, a party from the Seminary had the pleasure of hearing the Cecilia club concert in Music Hall, Boston.

Those who attended Dr. and Mrs. F. E.
Clark's reception, on Monday evening, to the three Christian Endeavor Societies of the village, say that the evening was a very delightful one, indeed. The doctor and his pleasant wife are so charming as host and hostess that it could hardly have been otherwise.

Joe Jefferson as the world-renowned mountaineer, dear old Rip, gave us a memorable evening's enjoyment last Saturday evening, when a large party from the seminary heard him in Boston in his favorite role. After the performance Mr. Jefferson saw the party for a few minutes, chatting away very agreeably to the girls about his old experiences on the stage.

Mr. Bragdon kindly took a small party of the girls into the city on Wednesday evening to hear a dramatic rehearsal at the School of Expression, on the same evening but so early that the above named party were able to enjoy both treats. Miss Everett and her pupils gave a most entertaining "Hour with Holmes," the program consisting of readings and recitations from the prose and verse of the Autocrat, apt questions, and a little silver thread of comment and explanation by Miss Everett herself, running through the whole. All present were much pleased with the various good things given.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hyde sailed on the Catalonia from Boston to England last Saturday.

—Mr. George Robinson, fireman on the branch, with his family, are to leave for Maine next week, where they are to locate.

—Mr. W. H. Ayers bought the Mounton estate, Chestnut street, at a public sale, last Saturday for $1000. The property was owned by C. F. Ford and sold through the agency of Cummings & Ware.

—Cummings & Ware will sell at auction the Atherton houses with land on Hamilton street on Saturday. The property comprises two single and two double houses with quite a lot of land.

—A number of children here are ill with scarlet fever but none have the disease in a very malignant form. The disease made its appearance in its milder form in the sanitary condition of the rear portion of the school house. The matter is being attended to this week.

—The body of Mrs. Jewett of Auburndale, who through temporary insanity drowned herself in the river near the long bridge was recovered Monday morning, a short time after the deed was committed. In the absence of the medical examiner, Dr. Freeman viewed the remains and gave the privilege of removal of the body to Undertaker Cate of West Newton.

THE EARTH IS RUNNING SLOW.

But the Scientists Yet Not Alarm One Seriously Yet.

Lord Kelvin estimates that the "running slow" of the earth in its daily rotation round its axis amounts to 22 seconds per century.

The main cause of this retardation is the friction caused by the tides, which act as a brake, the action of which has been calculated by this eminent physicist to be equal to a weight of 4,000,000 tons applied on the equator.

Other causes have also to be taken into account—as, for example, the increase in the size of the earth, due to the falling on it of meteoric dust, which, if deposited at the rate of one foot in 4,000 years, would produce the observed retardation by itself.

Such a phenomenon as the annual growth and melting of snow and ice at the poles is introducing irregularities into the problem, the growth at the poles, by abstracting water from the other parts of the ocean, accelerating the earth's motion, and the melting, by restoring the water, retarding it.

Against the retarding forces there has to be taken into account a probable acceleration, due to the gradual sinking of the earth by cooling, but this Lord Kelvin believes to be very small—perhaps not more than one six-thousandth part of the retardation due to tidal friction.

Professor Newcomb has declared from astronomical considerations that the earth went slow and lost seven seconds between 1850 and 1863, and then went fast and gained eight seconds between 1862 and 1872, changes of rate explic-able by possible changes in the earth's shape, so slight as to be quite undiscoverable in astronomical observations.—

The Columbia Crank, telling story of Hartford's, the next best bicycle, free if you call.

A COLUMBIA Crank

CANNOT WORK LOOSE.

The combination of cranks and crank shaft (found on Columbia bicycles only) does away with all keys and nuts and gives extreme narrow tread without sacrificing strength or decreasing the distance between bearings.

As this is a patented construction other makers and agents assail it with every imaginary objection—and every objection is purely imaginary—FOR REMEMBER that this was tested on hundreds of '94 Columbia racers and proved its merits everywhere.

The fact other manufacturers are envious of its success stamps it as being almost desirable feature. It's a good thing. Study it out.

Call and examine this device and the many other exclusive wise improvements of the '95 Columbia.

Columbias are UNEQUALLED, UNAPPROACHED.

—Early Wednesday morning, four tool chests situated in a house which is being erected on Woodside road, were broken open and tools stolen valued at about $30.

—Miss Alice Rollins gave an April party Monday evening. Miss Ethel Underwood of Boston was the guest of the evening. Miss Underwood is a charming young lady, and quite prominent in Boston art circles. The affair was a very pleasant one and broke up at a late hour.

—At the Central church a special service will be observed on the evening of Good Friday when the order will be as follows: Solo, "There is a green hill far away." Gounod. Anthem, "O Saviour, save me." Mendelssohn. Solo, "He was despised." Messiah Quartet, "Art thou weary?" There will be an address by the pastor.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Binney, of California corner of Adams street, gave a very enjoyable progressive whist Tuesday evening of this week. Eight tables were used and the prizes, three ladies and three gentlemen were all beautiful souvenirs of the occasion. Donald Caterer from Boston served the supper while Williams' orchestra for piano, guitar, and mandolin discoursed sweet music during the evening. Guests numbered some of the best players in town.

—About seven o'clock Tuesday evening word was received at police headquarters that a crowd of roughs had collected near the corner of Linden avenue and Walnut streets and were making themselves very obnoxious by insulting women and using foul and abusive language.

—A wagon was despatched to the scene of the trouble with Officers Shannon, Seaver and Holmes. They found the crowd plentifully supplied with whiskey and their pockets filled with stones. John J. Flynn, 20 years of age, Michael Tierney, 23, and John H. Lane, all of Newton Centre, were locked up.

—A ladies double quartet has been organized here under the name of "Treble Clef." It is being drilled here under the direction of Prof. J. Walter Davis. The members are all well known singers and some of them have more than a local reputation as soloists. The quartet will ere long give a matinee musical for the benefit of the Newtonville Woman's Guild in the Universalist church parlors. The date will be announced later. It will be an event of unusual interest as there is to be a reception and tea in connection with the rendering of a fine program. On Easter Sunday the quartet will sing at the Newton hospital and regularly there once a month after that the hospital management is of course charmed with the very pleasing arrangement, as music is a source of great delight to convalescing patients and heretofore has been a great treat at the institution. For the past two months the "Treble Clef" has been practicing and getting in readiness for its debut which promises to be a most successful one. Its members are Miss S. W. French and Mrs. A. M. Tewksbury, first soprano; Miss Marie Page and Mrs. J. W. Dickinson, second soprano; Mrs. C. R. Bridgman and Miss Mary Mitchell, first alto; Mrs. T. E. Stutson and Mrs. C. C. Coolidge, second alto. Mrs. W. F. Denbarn Jr. is the accompanist and Prof. J. W. Davis, director.

—It seems that people are not safe even in their own houses, judging from an experience Dr. Baker's family had last Friday night. During the evening a disturbance was heard coming from his office. The masked crowd surrounded him and one of them placed a huge box upon the table. The dynamite stories might have made some people nervous, but Dr. Baker with a good deal of courage, went to open the box, thinking that it contained the solution of the mysterious visit, but the whole crowd, who had hitherto not uttered a word, shouted "Blast it!" The leader then made an address, in which the Doctor was charged, among other things, with being 38 years old on that day, and, as if this were not enough, another read an original poem, written by the Doctor, in which were the only words spoken, and the Doctor was then allowed to open the box, which was found to contain a large floral horseshoe, with "thirteen" written on it in immortal letters. Before the recipient could utter a word, another bundle was thrust at him, which contained 38 daylight pinks. Then without giving time to the Doctor to telephone for the police, the refreshments the crowd silently departed, without leaving a clue to their identity, save that their ghostly habiliments bore some resemblance to sheets and pillow cases. The affair was so well carried out that no one of Dr. Baker's family had a hint of it beforehand.

—The fifth and last of a series of pleasant dancing parties under the auspices of the Newtonville club was held in Tremont hall, last Friday evening about thirty-five couples being in attendance. Atwood's orchestra furnished the music for twelve dances and eight extra until midnight. The hall was very prettily decorated with the club's colors, blue and white, and bicycles also in the same manner. The manager, Mr. A. S. N. Estes was assisted by Mr. Henry E. Sisson, Mr. Franklin Baehner, Mr. George W. Brown, and Mr. Frank Jordan. The matrons were Mrs. Thomas G. Estes and Mrs. Albert H. Sisson. Those present included Mrs. A. S. N. Estes, Mr. George W. —Mrs. Walter L. Chaloner gave an essay on "Early Art in America," before the Bostonian Club on Wednesday evening, at the New England Woman's Club parlors.

—Mrs. Chaloner also gave the closing address before the Current Event Class, Harvard Hall, at the residence of Mrs. Lovejoy on Saturday afternoon, when her topic was "Art in Bohemia," illustrated by beautiful water color sketches made by Mr. Chaloner in the Duxbury woods and on the Maine coast. A reception to the guest of honor followed and was a delightful occasion.

—Charles Ward Post turned out 75 men at the Dr. Smith testimonial, and acted as escort to Dr. Smith and Col. E. H. Haskell, their way to Music Hall, and they occupied a position in the center right of the hall, and made a fine impression, especially during the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," when their color bearer raised the flag aloft and gratefully waved it, keeping excellent time to the music. Commander Whitney, Alderman Degen, and ten other members of the Post were given seats on the platform of the hall, with the other distinguished guests.

—A testimonial concert to Miss Clara Louise Bowers, soprano, was given by the Universalist church and choir in the Universalist church, Monday evening.

—The assisting artists were Mrs. H. E. Wright, soprano, Mrs. Ashenden, baritone, Mrs. Mae Shepard-Hayward, pianist; Miss Grace A. Burt, reader; Mr. W. F. Braekett, accompanist. The audience was a friendly one and manifested its approval of the work of the quartet and soloists by frequent and generous applause. Miss Burt won her way at once into favor, and her closing selection, "An Unfinished Story," by Richard Harding Davis, displayed to advantage the charm of her eloquent voice and natural methods of elocution. Miss Bowers was given a recall on her first number, "Noble Signor" (Meyerbeer). Her voice is one of good quality and tone. Her high notes were particularly clear and well sustained. A group of songs were also well rendered by the young singer, including one entitled "Simplicity," words and music by Mrs. Shepard-Hayward.

—The piano was decorated with two solos, Bohm's "Dieu" and "Maggie Song," Myer-Helmund. His vocalization was thoroughly artistic and a source of much pleasure to his audience. Mrs. Wright's solos were well rendered and the piano-forte numbers by Mrs. Shepard-Hayward, including "Hexentanz" (Witches' Dance), gave evidence of the skill and careful teaching of the trained musician. The concert was a social success and will have its fitting place in the annals of local musical events.

—The meeting of Loyalty Lodge, I. O. G. T., held last Wednesday evening was one of the most interesting and pleasing of the winter. Visitors were present from Maine, New Hampshire, Orange, Mass., Newton Upper Falls, and district officers from Marlboro and Maynard. The Good the Burns' Memorial Mission Band, of the order consisted of vocal, piano and violin solos and piano duet. ## BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Mr. Sol Smith Russell is always a welcome visitor to Boston, but his coming is doubly interesting when coupled with the announcement of his appearance in a new character, that of Dr. Pangloss in "The Heir at Law." Mr. Russell opens his engagement of one week at the Hollis on Monday, and will present the following repertoire: Monday, Tuesday evenings and Saturday matinee, "The Heir at Law; Wednesday afternoon, Wednesday and Thursday nights, "Peaceful Valley;" Friday and Saturday nights, "A Poor Relation."

BOSTON THEATRE—Eugene Tompkin's grand production of "The Black Crook" greatly rejuvenated and enlarged, is the Easter attraction at the Boston Theatre. and it is quite safe to say that Boston rarely, if ever, has seen so gorgeous a spectacle. Saturday evening, April 13, is the date of the initial performance, and, owing to the elaborateness of the setting and other details, the Boston Theatre will be closed on the Thursday and Friday evenings previous, so that the piece may have a thorough and proper rehearsal. This season's ballets are exceptionally well trained. This company has several of last season's principals in the cast, but there are also a number of new people. All are interesting and more than ordinarily clever.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—It may be truly said that no attraction in Boston this season has continued for two weeks time to draw such crowded and pleased houses as DeCoven and Smith's greatest and latest comic opera, "Rob Roy" at the Castle Square Theatre. "Rob Roy" commences its third week at the Castle Square Theatre next Monday with a phenomenal business record of money-making from overflowing houses that has been equalled in but one or two instances this season in any theatre in Boston. The past week, the second of the engagement of this attraction at this theatre, has been attended by audiences that in point of numbers simply excel the crowded houses of the first week, for the theatre would not hold all who sought to purchase seats. The advance sale for the coming week indicates a greater rush than ever.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE—An early production at the Bowdoin Square Theatre is the great English melodrama, "Hands Across the Sea." The attraction for the week beginning April 8, at the Bowdoin Square Theatre is "The Danger Signal," the great railroad drama, which,
from a mechanical standpoint, is one of the most remarkable productions on the road this season. The express train, the locomotive, freight train and snow plow are all wonderfully well managed, and the illustrations are indeed extraordinary. But its success does not depend on this alone, for the play is a very good one, in fact far superior to the average melodrama, and is well played by an excellent company. There is plenty of fun in the piece and the interest is always well sustained.

TREMONT THEATRE—Stuart Robson will inaugurate the second and last week of his engagement at the Tremont Theatre next Monday evening with the first production on any stage, of an entirely new and original comedy, written expressly for him and called "Marmaduke." In this comedy a story will be told of the many troubles, mostly humorous, that will overtake a man who allows his good nature and good disposition to be imposed upon. Marmaduke is the name of a wealthy Californian of the present day, whose palatial residence on "Nob Hill," where he keeps open house, is over-run by hangers-on, and whose boundless hospitality is shamefully abused. In the character of Marmaduke which though complex in many ways maintains from first to last the sweetest and most lovable attributes, Mr. Robson has found an unusual opportunity for his talents, nor has the author, Mr. Sydney Rosenfeld, failed to provide other characters as worthy companions to Marmaduke. Mrs. Robson will play the part of Mrs. Pouncefort. The play is in three acts. The scenes, three in number, are laid in San Francisco, at the present day.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—At the Grand Opera, week of April 8th, another new "fun-show" is to entertain the theatregoers of Boston. It is entitled "McFadden's" Elopement," in three acts; the first, the farm of a cranky inventor, the second in a flat in New York City, the third in the country near a female seminary. Headed by the always irresistible John Kernall, drollest of stage Irishmen, as "McFadden," the organization includes also Phil Peters, another clever Irish fun-maker, Ed. J.
Heffernan, Chas. B. Ward, Emerson and Emmonds, who are famous in the vaudeville world, Nettie Peters, Subrette dancer and acrobat, Clara Knott, Tillie Barnum, and others equally capable in their task of making multitudes merry in this work-a-day world. The engagement will be for one week, with matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as usual. Preparations for the testimonial benefit to W. H. Bartholomew at the Grand Opera House, Friday afternoon, April 26th, are now under way and indicate a successful ending for the veteran performer. The list of attractions to be represented and other details will be announced later.

Associated Charities.

It takes many years for the work of the Associated Charities to become fairly well understood by a community. Indeed that may be considered a fortunate society whose principles are rightly com-prehended by all its own members.
Every organization of the kind has to repeat and reiterate that it is not a relief giving agency, and even by those who recognize this, the mistake is made of supposing that, as we give no relief, or as little as may be, we do not help the poor, we only prevent begging. That though necessary, is the lowest and most unpleasant part of our work.
Helping the poor and unfortunate, a much more puzzling and wearisome task than giving to them, is the work to which our energies are directed. Although to carry on systematically the different departments by which we try to do this, requires some machinery and paid labor, because of which our treasurer, Mr. Warren P. Tyler, 48 Sargent street, Newton, is asking that more money may be sent him before the summer is upon us. At this official and mechanical part is secondary and auxiliary to the work done by the volunteer friendly visitors. It exists only that they may work towards large ends and good results. Any success that crowds the efforts of the Associated Charities is due to them alone, and all the rest is tributary to them.

It is work worthy of the highest intelligence and firmest sentiment of the women of any community and we appeal to the women of Newton to join our small band of friendly visitors.
M. R. M.

It may save you time and money to be informed that, when you need a bloodpurifier Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the kind most in favor with the medical profession.
It is the standard and, as such, the only blood-purifier admitted at the Chicago World's Fair.

The Newton Hospital.

The quarterly meeting of the Trustees was held at the Newton Hospital on the 28 inst. President Leeson occupied the chair, and the members present were Messrs. Blake, Gould, Haskell, and Paine, Mayor Bothfield, Drs. Crockett, Seales, and Thayer, and Messrs. Bullen, Emerson, Pratt, and Travelli.

After approval of minutes of the previous meeting, the treasurer reported receipts from miscellaneous sources for the quarter of $4812.51 and expenses of $4427.61. The balance of $15,000 from the late Nathan P. Coburn, has been paid over by his Executors, and is now in the hands of the Finance committee awaiting investment.

Mr. L. G. Pratt for the Finance committee, reported that additional gifts have swelled the receipts very satisfactorily since the beginning of the year, but a deficiency from last year of over $2700, has not yet been made up. It is hoped that individual donations, and the never-failing help of the Hospital Aid Association, will ere long supply the needed amount.

A contract between the Hospital and the City of Newton, for the care of the dependent poor during the current year, was duly ratified by the board. Apropos of this contract, Mayor Bothfield addressed the trustees in explanation of the laws and regulations governing the admission and treatment of City patients at the hospital.

His Honor's remarks were highly instructive and interesting, and at their close, he was warmly thanked by the Chair, on behalf of the trustees, for the kind attention he has given the matter.
On motion of Dr. Seales the appointment of the matron, Miss McDowell, as resident agent of the Overseers of the Poor, was duly authorized, the mayor having advised this step.

Mr. Pratt then submitted a most gratifying report from the managers of the Home and Training School for Nurses, showing the constantly increasing use made of the institution, after which the meeting adjourned.

Easter week will be a busy one with the milliners. Easter coming so late in the season, and the prospect being so good for warm, pleasant weather, one will be in the rear in the parade of Fashion if not prepared with some new effect in millinery.
At Roland W. Macurdy's, importer of fine millinery, 26 Temple Place, Boston, will be shown, the coming week, many new and exclusive patterns, made and designed by the very best foreign designers for Mr.
Macurdy's Easter trade. You should not delay in ordering your Easter millinery, it being the busiest of all times in the year with the milliners, and the earlier you place your order so much more careful and proper attention you are sure to receive.
Mr. Macurdy's reputation among our lady readers, who have been his patrons in seasons past, is a guarantee that his goods and styles are at all times correct and his prices (quality at all times considered) as low as the lowest.

English Accents.

The great French actor Febvre has an ambition or a dream that some day the stage of every country will speak the language of his country with a perfect accent and an academic unity. "It is that very thing, the variety of accents, that makes English so puzzling to a foreigner. Go into any of the first class comedy theaters in London. An actor enters. He speaks one English. Another walks on the stage. He speaks a second species. A third and a fourth have a third and a fourth variety. It is just as though, at the Comedie Francaise, one role were to be played by a Marseillais, another by a Bordelais, a third by a Breton, each with his individual accent.
A stranger would find it difficult to pose himself, to take his bearings. On one of my visits to London I was talking with the Prince of Wales. 'By the way, Febvre,' said he suddenly,
'how do you get along with English?'
'Ah, monseigneur,' I replied, 'the English I learned in Paris does not pass beyond the fortifications and is only spoken between Frenchmen!'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Out of Place.

"What," asked the king in the play,
"are those Roman citizens doing over there?"
"Your majesty," rejoined the herald, "they are believed to be forming a plot."
"Tell them they mustn't," commanded the monarch, with asperity, not unmingled with ennui. "Admonish them that they are throwing their time away.
Plots have no place in this kind of drama."
With which the king turned to the audience and sang with fine effect, "Her Auburn Tresses Wouldn't Stay In Curl."—Detroit Tribune.

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known.
Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take.

YOUNG GIRLS.

INTERESTING CONCLUSIONS.

Mothers Agree on One Vital Subject.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.] Young girls, to the thinking mind, are ever subjects of the deepest interest.

Some lead lives of luxury, while others toil for mere existence. Separate, however, as their paths in life may lie, Nature demands of them the same obedience. All are subject to the same physical laws,

and suffer in proportion to their violation.
Young girls are reticent
through modesty, and often withhold what ought to be told.

Yet they are not to blame, for information on such subjects has been withheld from them, owing to the false interpretation of a mother's duty.

In such cases they should do as thousands of young ladies are doing every day: write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., giving as nearly as possible their symptoms, and receive her freely given advice and timely aid.

Lady E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the young girl's most trusted friend. It can be obtained at any druggist, and speedily relieves and cures irregularities, suspension, retention, and all derangements of the womb and ovaries.
It banishes promptly all pains, headache, backache, faintness, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholia, etc. Young girls must know that self-preservation is the first law of nature.

—The "Husking Bee" of the Newton Centre Improvement Association last Tuesday evening was a perfect success. No old farmer, however cautious or void of imagination, could have seen anything but a real barn and a real husking, unless, perhaps, he considered the "sturdy boy-hood" to be rather more graceful and less "sunbrowned" than the real article, or that the girlhood averaged considerably higher in point of beauty than one commonly sees at husking. The scene could not have been more realistic. Even the familiar aroma of good upland hay and fresh corn husks permeated the air. It was difficult to tell where the painted barn and the real barn blended. The great door was painted, but done so minutely that one felt inclined to be careful not to get caught upon a shiver or nail, and it could even be seen where the "old horse" had grazed upon its edge. Every detail in furnishing was also complete. There were squashes and corn barrels, the familiar old "grindstone," the ladder to the "beet" harness, the collar and harness, the "feed-crib," the wheelbarrow and the saw-horse. There was the barn floor with its usual litter and straw, the high beams and hanging lanterns and the roof, with here and there a loosed shingle, and, perhaps, finest of all, looking out through the barn past the hay-laden mows, out into the night, one saw the cold November sky, with its shimmering stars and its moon, barely peeking from behind a dark cloud, and the still earth and darkened trees below. Without thought, one murmured, "How pleasantly the rising moon between the shadow of the mows." The husking party was very realistic. Songs, fencing, dances, readings and witlings pushed themselves out from the babel of gossip and sparking.
It would be unjust to mention names, for it is impossible to determine who should be especially mentioned; whether to mention the ruddy farmer, his brawny and worried wife, the quiet Chief of Police from Paris (Kentucky), home to see the old town, the red-headed "scalawag," who certainly excelled the country bumpkin in Denman Thompson's "Old Homestead," or to put against them all the dear little miss, who read so quaintly and sweetly as to captivate the entire audience. After all, the greatest merit lay in the self-consciousness with which all entered into the true spirit of a "husking," warming up, little by little, to the final joyous dance. But there was the singing, too, solos and choruses, perfectly befitting the occasion, sweetly sung, and with such beautiful groupings and graceful ease. At any rate, there were many present who enjoyed the evening even more than they had anticipated. So many of our people trace their lives back to happy childhood upon the farm, that such scenes are always sweet reminders; and one could see by the softened eye and mellowed voice of many who were present that tender memories had been awakened and an hour spent away from all present care and filled with uncommon delight. The village is,

and indeed ought to be, grateful to Mr.
Copeland and Mr. Stevens, who so artfully and skillfully worked out the entire caption; and to the persistent workers for the Association, who planned the entertainment and to whom its success is mainly attributable.

—Mrs. William Byers of Lake avenue leaves for Europe next week and will be abroad several months.
—Dennis Callahan, while setting up pins at Bray's alleys Tuesday evening, was struck by a swiftly rolled ball in the knee consequent lameness.

—The Chestnut Hill clubhouse will be formally opened tomorrow, (Saturday), and the social festivities in connection with the affair promises to be of a very interesting character. A description of the building is given elsewhere in these columns.

For 12 years, from January, 1882, to June, 1884, Dr. Smith, the author of "America," was pastor of the First Baptist church and last Sunday morning, by special request, he occupied the pulpit. It was regarded as fitting that he should appear in his old place on the Sabbath before the testimonial given in his honor.

—The flags on the school buildings here were swung to the breeze Wednesday as a mark of esteem to Rev. Dr. Smith upon the occasion of the great public testimonial given in honor of the author of "America".
An account of the very interesting exercises will be found in the GRAPHIC columns.

—The annual meeting and reception of the Newton Centre Improvement Association will be held in Associates' hall, Tuesday evening next. Following the business session, members and their guests will adjoin to the banquet hall where tables will be prettily arranged for the material festivities. A group of pretty girls will serve. The list of matrons comprises Mrs.

Mrs. F. D. Parks.

—The Newton A. A. has purchased 6 acres of land lying between Cedar and Morton streets as a site for its new clubhouse and grounds. The land is situated near the boulevard and is so elevated that it commands an admirable view of the surrounding country. It comprises what is known as the Fennessy and Morton tracks. Already the one-fourth mile oval running track has been laid out. Inside the track, the base-ball diamond and cricket ground will be situated. The track and grounds, six in number of the turf and dirt varieties, will be located near the grand stand on the south side of the field. The entrance to the clubhouse will be from Cedar street. Nearly every one now has an idea of how the building will look, for some very good representations of it have been printed in various Boston and the Newton papers. The structure will provide for an athletic home second to none in the suburbs of Boston, and will cost, when completed, about $35,000. A good slice of the amount required for it has been raised. Work on the construction begins this summer. The grounds will be entirely enclosed with a 6-foot board fence, the contract for building same having been awarded to H. F. Ross. The arrangement and laying out of the grounds is under the supervision of Mr. George S. Rice, the eminent civil engineer, who makes his home here. The baseball diamond will be in readiness for play inside of three weeks and by the expiration of that time, everything about the enclosure will be in shipshape condition.

work of convent and monastery, her story of the white nuns, and of her visit to the given. At the close of the lecture, after-

BOTH BOARDS IN SESSION.

ORDER PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL AUTHORIZING EXTENSION OF BOULEVARD FROM WASHINGTON STREET TO AUBURN—LARGELY SIGNED PETITION PRESENTED REQUESTING THE CHANGING OF THE GRADE OF SUMMER STREET—DATES FOR SEVERAL HEARINGS APPOINTED—NEWTON & BOSTON STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITHDRAW ITS PETITION FOR LOCATION FOR FRED WIRE ON COMMONWEALTH AVENUE.

Both branches of the city government met in their respective chambers in the City Hall, Monday evening. The board of mayor and aldermen held a special session, Mayor Bothfeld in the chair. The important business transacted was that of the adopting of an order authorizing the extension of the Commonwealth avenue boulevard through the Auburn district from Washington street to Auburn street. This is the initiative step to the completion of the great avenue from the Boston line to the Charles river. From Auburn street it will continue on by what is known as the Rowe street route and the order for that section is now under preparation.

Prior to the passage of the order, Alderman Plummer who presented it, offered the report of the highway committee recommending the laying out of the section from Washington to Auburn street. The report was accepted. The order provides for the issue of the customary notices of intent to seize the land required for the laying out of the boulevard and of the intent to assess betterments upon estates benefitted by the improvement. Hearings are appointed for Monday evening, April 15; before the board of aldermen and Monday evening, April 22, before the common council.

After the disposition of the boulevard matter, Mayor Bothfeld read a communication from the county commissioners relative to a petition of Annie R. Dowse for an abatement of taxes levied in 1894. Mrs. Dowse says that her estate was taxed for $37,000 and that its value is $25,000. She endeavored to get an abatement from the city and after an investigation an abatement of $3000 was allowed. That amount she regarded as insufficient but her appeal for further abatement was denied, hence her action in bringing the matter to the attention of the county commissioners.

Edward Sands and F. A. Day were appointed auctioneers.

T. G. Woodman presented a petition for license as an innholder. The license was granted.

Petitions of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company for permit to locate three poles on Middlesex road for street lighting purposes, for permit to attach its wires to poles of the New England Telephone Company on Sargent street and for permit to put up a pole and necessary wires for an arc lamp at corner of Park and Sargent streets, were referred to the committee on street lights and hearings appointed for Monday evening, April 15, at 8 o'clock.

A petition of Auburn district citizens for a street light, at the junction of Auburn and Bourne streets was referred to the street light committee.

Alderman Green presented a communication from the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company asking leave to withdraw its petition for location for poles and wires on Commonwealth avenue for the purpose of carrying a feed wire to supply power to the proposed Wellesley & Boston street railway line, requesting that it be granted instead locations for poles and wires for the same purpose on Beacon street. On Alderman Green's motion, a hearing was ordered before the board of mayor and aldermen for Monday evening, April 15, at 8 o'clock.

Alderman Bullard presented two petitions of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. One was for permit to attach cross arms to five poles of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company, (containing the latter having been secured) the span wires of the Wellesley & Boston Street Railway Company to its poles on Washington street. On these petitions hearings were appointed before the board of mayor and aldermen for Monday evening, April 15.

Alderman Dagen presented a petition requesting the lowering of the grade of Summer street to which 161 signatures were attached. There was a communication accompanying the petition offering to sell to the city a strip of land for widening Summer street, not exceeding ten feet in width, for 25 cents per square foot, except at the corner of Summer and Beacon street, the price of which would be 40 cents per square foot. It was decided that the offer must be accepted within two months or it would be considered declined. The explanation was made that the time limit was fixed because of contemplated building and other changes that could not longer be delayed. Referred to highway committee.

A petition of Chestnut Hill residents for a wooden sidewalk to connect one already laid with the town of Brookline, together with a communication of a Brookline citizen relative to the same matter were referred to the highway committee.

At this point, the board proceeded to draw jurors for the Superior Judicial Court at Lowell. Those selected were Albert Gutter of Maple avenue, and Wm. T. Vose of Edinboro street.

Following the drawing of jurors, a recess was taken. The board upon reassembling soon after voted to adjourn.

Common Council.

President Parker rapped to order in the lower branch promptly at 7.45 o'clock. The business was of a concurrent character, these papers being disposed of:

C. W. Stetson claiming damages for injuries to team, referred to committee on claims.

Hunnewell Hill Improvement Society for police signal box on Hunnewell Hill, referred to police committee.

Robertson et al for sewer in Auburn street; J. W. Lindsay for sewer in Buckingham road, and J. R. Smith et al, for sewers at Newton Highlands, referred to sewer committee.

Newton Land Improvement Co. for sidewalks on Morse, Walnut and Valentine streets and for certain street crossings; J. T. Langford for removal of street watering post from Waban Park; Remonstrance Wells, et al, against new boulevard between Newton and Newton Centre, referred to highway committee.

These orders were passed in concurrence.

Transferring $1519.14 from various appropriations to that for Worcester Street drain; Establishing pay of call men of fire department; for purchase of Newton directories; authorizing location of certain street lights; appropriating $3565 for water mains; authorizing construction of sewers in Crafts, Judkins and Mt. Vernon streets; authorizing construction of sewer in Kenrick park; refunding illegal assessment of $12.50 on J. Upham Smith for Mague meadow drainage.

THOUGHT IT WAS DIPHTHERIA.

PHYSICIAN'S DIAGNOSIS DID NOT AGREE WITH CULTURE TESTS.

Residents of the Nonantum district, are somewhat stirred up over a case of supposed diphtheria. Margaret Howley, residing on Adams street, was believed to be ill with the disease and Dr. M. J. Kelly of Watertown attended her, and after making the customary examination pronounced it a case of diphtheria.

He notified the board of health, and the house where the child was confined was placarded. A culture of the throat was taken and the tube was sent to Prof. Ernst, the bacteriologist of Harvard University, and was returned with a negative result.

Prof. Ernst found no diphtheria germs. Following the analysis of the eminent bacteriologist, the board of health had the placard removed. Dr. Kelly was very much surprised when he found that the placard had been removed. He hastened to inform the health authorities that, in his judgment, his diagnosis was correct. He said that he was unable to get a culture from the throat, but that there were very strong evidences of the character of the disease.

The result of this statement was to induce the health authorities to again put up the placard. Meantime the house had been visited by neighbors, who were, of course, much alarmed when they found that the cards were again on the house.

Dr. Curtis of the board of health then made a culture, securing it last Saturday morning. Dr. Kelly also made one. The tubes were submitted to experts, with the same result as at first. They reported no diphtheria germs, the negative result obtaining from each analysis.

The cards were taken down again Monday, but Dr. Kelly is not satisfied. He says that there is no doubt in his mind concerning the case, and that it was one of diphtheria.

Dr. Kelly administered anti-toxine to the patient, which he thinks accounts for the result of the later tests.

$100 Reward $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing the work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. ## Batch of Sewer Hearings.

A meeting of the board of health was held in City Hall, Tuesday afternoon. The principal business of the session was in giving hearings to residents of the Newtonville and Nonantum districts relative to entering the city sewers. Most of those who appeared were small property owners to whom the expense will come as considerable of a burden. There were 73 in all, residents of Watertown, Crafts Court, Adams, Dalby, Faxon, West Clinton and Crescent streets, Central avenue and Lincoln court. Some objected to entering the sewers at this time because of contemplated alterations in their houses, others on account of crippled financial resources and a large number because of belief that it was not necessary as a measure in the interests of public health. The hearings opened early in the afternoon and took up a good deal of time. It was 6.30 o'clock when the board adjourned.

As baldness makes one look prematurely old, so a full head of hair gives to mature life the appearance of youth. To secure this and prevent the former, Ayer's Hair Vigor is confidently recommended. Both ladies and gentlemen prefer it to any other dressing.

SEVENTY NEW MEMBERS.

THAT WAS THE INCREASE DURING PAST YEAR, NEWTON BOAT CLUB—NEW OFFICERS ELECTED—INTERESTING STATISTICS FURNISHED BY TREASURER.

The annual meeting of the Newton Boat Club was held Monday evening. It was largely attended and the proceedings were marked by that harmony and pleasant interest that is usually the characteristic of the yearly business sessions of the N. B. C. The nominating committee's list of officers for the ensuing year received the endorsement of the members and the same were duly elected. These were A. Stuart Pratt, president; Quincy Pond, vice-president; Waldo W. Cole, treasurer; Severance Burrage, secretary; H. L. Burrage, captain.

The reports of the various officers were presented. That of the executive committee comprising Messrs. Andrew B. Cobb, F. M. Crehore, Severance and H. L. Burrage and A. Stuart Pratt, is appended:

The events of greatest interest during the past season have been the increase of membership from 250 to 300, by a vote of the club, at a meeting held April 22d, 1894, one of the largest meetings in the history of the club;—and the enlargement of the club house, authorized at the same meeting. This addition was made at a total cost of $3050 and was completed in time for use at the first of the June Promenades.

"The June and September Promenades have become a feature of the boating life of the river, and judging from the increased attendance and the great interest shown by the members and their friends, it will be very desirable to continue them this coming season."

"This year has also been marked by the issue of a new club book with the amended Constitution and By-Laws, and a full list of members with date of admission, the latter having been made important by the change in Article XVI of the By-Laws."

The secretary reported that at present the club consists of 299 members, 70 having been elected in the past year. Nineteen resignations have been accepted, and two members dropped from the list for non payment of dues. The list of applications for membership now numbers 51. The facts regarding receipts and expenses is thus itemized by the treasurer:

The captain of the club reported that there are at present 150 boats in the club house, 35 of these belonging to the club. Of these latter 19 are canvas canoes, 8 cedar canoes, and 8 row boats. Five of these canvas canoes were added to the club fleet during the last year.

The number of trips made by club boats during the season of 1894 was 2308—1725 in canvas canoes 417 in cedar, and 168 in row boats. These figures show the popularity of the canvas canoes. The addition to the club house gave space for the storage of 48 more boats. Besides 59 additional lockers have been placed in the new portion and the dressing room is greatly enlarged and improved.

VENERABLE ANTHEM WRITER.

REV. DR. S. F. SMITH SPEAKS AT A HYDE PARK MEETING.

A very interesting and unique service was held last Sunday evening in the Congregational church, Hyde Park, where several hundred people had the pleasure of meeting and listening to Dr. S. F. Smith, the author of "America." The venerable poet and hymnist was present by invitation of the pastor, Rev. A. W. Archibald, D. D., and was introduced to the audience by Gen. Henry B. Carrington, editor of Dr. Smith's forthcoming volume of poems.

The six hymns written by Dr. Smith found in the hymnal used at the Hyde Park church were sung by the congregation, each being prefaced by remarks by Dr. Smith touching on the circumstances under which they were written. Previous to this there was an organ voluntary, "Rejoice in the Lord," the words being by Gen. Carrington; "Washington and the Flag," and other patriotic songs by the choir, scripture readings and prayer by Rev. Dr. Archibald. Dr. Smith, in stating how he was impelled to write the hymns, "Softly Now the Twilight Ray," "Welcome Days of Solemn Meeting," "The Morning Light is Breaking," "Today the Saviour Calls," "Oh, Not My Own, These Verdant Hills," "Softly Now the Twilight Ray" was written when I was a student in college. I had a little book entitled "Sabbath Recollections" written by an author named Edmanston. It began, "Is there a time of all below," and described the peculiar tranquility which spreads over the earth on a pleasant evening. I think you all recognize the influence and peace this quiet half-hour before sunset has on a Sabbath evening. It was this thought that inspired me.

"Welcome Days of Solemn Meeting" is designed as an opening hymn on a Sabbath day, and was written when the inspiration was upon me after one of the old-time revival meetings.

"The Morning Light is Breaking" was written in 1832, the year that produced the national hymn, so called. I have no recollection of the circumstances under which the former was written, but I am sure they had much to do with the missionary work which I was reading at the time. This hymn long ago was translated into 12 languages, including Chinese and Siamese, and only last week a missionary wrote me from the South Sea Islands that it had been translated into five more. The time was written by Mr. Wilde, an Englishman, and it is so beautiful that I attribute much of the hymn's popularity to it.

Regarding "Today the Saviour Calls," Dr. Smith said he had not the slightest recollection of writing the hymn, but recalled that it originally had six stanzas. "Oh, Not My Own, These Verdant Hills," he concluded, is my favorite hymn of all I have ever written, and was written when I was editor of the Missionary Union. I used to select a poem for each issue, sometimes putting in one of my own composition, and this was one, although I do not recall the particular circumstances that inspired me.

NEWTON TRUNK MYSTERY.

MONEY AWAITS MARY S. LEONARD OF THIS SUBURBAN CITY.

There is a trunk mystery in this city, but it is one that simply involves the question of ownership. The trunk in question was consigned to Mary S. Leonard, and was forwarded via Adams Express from Pittsburg, Penn. About the same time that the trunk started on its way, a letter was mailed for the purpose of notifying the party for whom it was intended, the evident object being to prepare the way for its reception. The letter was written by a lawyer, and in it he stated that the trunk contained papers and personal effects, once the property of Mary Leonard's sister, deceased.

The writer was authorized to settle up the estate. It represented, he said, quite a snug little sum, amounting to about $6000. Everything that the deceased possessed was bequeathed to her sister Mary. The key to her trunk was in a closed within the letter, and some papers referred to that were included within the contents of the trunk that would furnish full information of the testator's wishes.

The local agent of the Adams Express Company, upon receipt of the trunk, proceeded to hunt up its owner. He found that there was a Mary Leonard who resided in Nonantum block. Upon questioning her in regard to her relatives, he learned that she had a sister whom she supposed was living, but whom she had not heard from for several years. The Mary Leonard referred to, however, had no middle initial in her name, and it was established beyond question when the letter was opened that she was not destined to benefit by the death of the Pittsburg woman. Efforts to locate the right party have proved futile.

The lawyer has been written to regarding the trunk, and it will be held pending orders from him.

TWO B. &amp; A. ENGINES COLLIDE.

PASSENGERS ON A "NEWTON CIRCUIT" GET A BAD SHAKING UP.

There was a narrow escape from a serious railroad accident on the Boston & Albany railroad in Boston early Tuesday evening.

The passenger train which left Newton Centre at 5.52 on the Newton circuit and was due at the Kneeland street depot at 6.18 p. m., was slowly approaching the depot, when almost under the Albany street bridge, it collided with a train of empty cars which were being drawn out from the depot from a side track which connects with the main inward bound track at a point about 100 feet west of the bridge.

The Newton train was drawn by engine No. 202, and was what is called a light train, there being only a few passengers, while the train of empty cars was drawn by engine No. 282.

The engines of the two trains came together just at the point where the tracks meet, due, as one man declared, to a misplaced switch; and, as another said, to the failure of a switch to close at the proper time.

Be this as it may, the two engines came together head on, and the impact was such that the forward ends of both engines, cowcatcher and all, the light ironwork—were completely carried away, the tender of one engine badly wrecked, and the forward platform of the combination car of the passenger train reduced to kindling wood. The engine of the empty train was derailed.

Fortunately, no one was injured, but the passengers on the Newton train were badly shaken up. A number of them almost went into hysterics, but were soon quieted by the assurance that there was no danger.

The inward bound tracks were blocked to such an extent that the passengers had to alight and walk to the depot, a distance of perhaps a quarter of a mile.

A wrecking crew were at once sent to work, and in an incredibly short time the derailed locomotive was again placed upon the iron, the damaged engines were drawn away, the broken combination car side-tracked under the Broadway extension bridge, and only a few splinters scattered along the tracks marked the scene of the collision.

"Nothing venture, nothing have."

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mon., recommends Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement. "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Pres. Church, Helena, Mont.

It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and is worth its weight in gold. I can use Ely's Cream Balm with safety and it does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

Political and Otherwise.

Someone has been unkind enough to remark that the Boston & Albany railroad has driven a sharp "rade" with the city in the street widening and track depressing scheme and that it has decided the best end of the bargain. It does seem marvellous that the railway management has been won over to a plan that it opposed tooth and nail from the start. Why it was, anyway, and why is it that there seems to be so much reticence just now in giving the public the facts concerning the combination deal? Will the railroad pay simply 60 per cent of the cost of depressing the tracks, where the present road bed is now situated and will it contribute any considerable amount of the sum required to secure land for the street widening, etc., and the contingent expense of moving buildings and clearing away for its temporary track location? Has the railroad a dead, cold chisel or does the prospect seem fair of its chipping fairly, if not liberally, toward the enterprise?

Speaking of cut downs, that was decidedly a big one in which an Upper Falls backless man figured. Two men were so much affected by it that they have been fanning themselves ever since.

Rev. J. J. Lansing's sensational methods of pulpit oratory have resulted in placing him in an unfortunate position before the general public. From his own testimony, he accused President Cleveland of drunkenness and subsequently he apologized for making the charge, stating in substance that he had no personal knowledge of its being in accord with truth further than a good opinion of the reliability of his informer. The Christian minister, of all men, should invest his words with charity and wisdom and should never make such an accusation without, at least, ample proof to sustain it. It should be clear too that his purpose is purely in the interest of good morals and the consequent up lifting of society.

It seems strange that with all the new fangled notions in the way of studies in our public schools, that it is the exceptional student in the grammar grade who can spell well. The closest attention was once paid to the pronunciation of words and, necessarily, their division into syllables. That custom seems to have been tabooed. It is the sad now to fix words in the mind, an excellent idea, but in the judgment of the old fashioned fellow it is best accomplished by a thorough understanding of the successive portions or instants into which the listening ear apprehends articulated speech as divided. Whatever may be the opinion of advanced educational thought on this subject, it cannot be denied that the old timers can give the rising generation cards and spades on pronunciation and spelling.

One gets hold of a good story now and then. There's at least a twice told tale in which a Newtonville business man figures that is worth repeating once more. It appears that he was approached one morning for a loan, the solicitation being made by a fellow whose wits, if not wool gathering, were not of the keenest and brightest variety. He said that there was little disposition on the part of the aforesaid business man to part with any considerable number of large, American dollars. He was in a quandary, when a happy thought struck him. "I have no money with me," he remarked, "but should be pleased to accommodate you. I tell you what. Take my check book and go down to the bank and draw what you want." The would-be borrower accepted the generous offer and upon arriving at the bank handed the check book over to the cashier expecting to get about all the contents of the safe. When it finally dawned upon him that he had been hoaxed, he went looking for the owner of the check book with a gun. Gradually, however, he regained his temper and was ultimately made completely happy. He succeeded in borrowing a quarter.

A great need in Newton—a central police station situated somewhere near the junction of Walnut and Homer streets.

It is a common experience with newspaper men to get what they dub "unpleasant returns" from quarters least expected. An official who has received many favors from the press in this city is the one man in a growing circle of comparatively easy salary grabbers who is always on deck with an off-hand criticism. He apparently knows just how to run a local paper. It seems a pity that so much of his talent is unavailable for the successful management of the department of which he is the head.

There is a boom in real estate in this city. It's a good thing; push it along. QUERICS.

In the Spring

Nearly everybody needs a good medicine. The impurities which have accumulated in the blood during the cold months must be expelled, or when the mild days come, and the effect of the fresh air is lost, the body is liable to be overcome by debility or some serious disease. The remarkable success achieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the many words of praise it has received, make it worthy of your confidence. We ask you to give this medicine a trial. We are sure it will do you good. Read the testimonials published in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla, all from reliable, grateful people. They tell the story.

SCHOOL EXPENSES.

The popular criticism of the Newton schools for what is regarded as their excessive cost, when compared with the cost of schools in other cities, has called out a reply from the school board, and Superintendent Aldrich in the annual report attempts to explain the reason for this high cost. His explanation is an interesting one, but whether it fully explains or not is a question that many readers will be apt to ask.

The usual showing of the small proportional amount spent by Newton, compared with its valuation, is made, but that is an old story and has little to do with the case, as Mr. Aldrich realizes, for he gives as the main reason for the high cost of the Newton schools, the greater numbers of pupils Newton has who seek high school instruction. Of the 12 cities of the state whose population is between 20,000 and 40,000, Newton stands 10th on the list, but first in the size of its high school. The table is as follows:

Newton, 608; Somerville, 521; New Bedford, 507; Fitchburg, 484; Brockton, 376; Chelsea, 358; Gloucester, 353; Malden, 347; Salem, 315; Haverhill, 280; Taunton, 277; Holyoke, 266.

This would lead one to expect that the cost would be greater, but it hardly prepares the reader for the great disproportion of the total cost of high school instruction shown in the following table:

Newton, $25,941; Somerville, $14,812; New Bedford, $14,082.15; Salem, $12,600; Chelsea, $12,500; Holyoke, $12,280.35; Brockton, $10,700; Fitchburg, $10,570; Haverhill, $10,100; Malden, $9,550; Gloucester, $9,510; Taunton, $8,900.

That is, for 82 more pupils than Somerville, Newton pays $11,129 more than Somerville, and in about the same proportion more than the other cities named. This is a rather startling disparity, but Mr. Aldrich explains it by reason of the greater number of male teachers in the Newton High school. But it is strange that this alone would make our high school cost only a little less than twice as much. It may be a part of the reason, however.

In our grammar schools also, the figures do not seem to entirely support Mr. Aldrich, as in his table, Somerville has 10 grammar school principals, while Newton only has 8, and Somerville expends for such teachers' salaries $16,300 while Newton expends $15,400, so that on this theory Somerville's grammar schools ought to cost more than Newton's. But the last report of the board of education at hand, that for 1889-90, shows that for 6,135 pupils of school age, Somerville expends $105,163.75, while for 4,202 pupils Newton expends $104,768.83, or Newton expends within about $400 for 4,202 pupils, what Somerville does for 2,000 more, and Somerville has within 82 as many in her high school as we have; it has 117 schools to our 88; it has 11 male teachers to our 17; and 131 female teachers to our 89.

After reading Mr. Aldrich's paper in the light of these figures, people will still wonder why our schools cost so much more than those of other cities. The same report of the state board of education gives some explanation in its full tables. Newton's average monthly salary for male teachers is $193.33; Somerville's $159.89. Female teachers, Newton, $70.44; Somerville, $59.84. In 1890, Newton had 15 high school teachers for 435 pupils, while Somerville had 10 teachers for 589 pupils. For high school principal's salary Newton pays $600 more yearly. For supervision by school committee Newton pays $300 and Somerville $1800. For school superintendent Newton then paid $2,800 and Somerville $2,500 but Newton now pays the superintendent $3,800. For sundries Newton paid $8,839.61, and Somerville for a third more pupils $10,747.62. Both cities spent the same for permanent improvements, and Somerville $4,000 more for ordinary repairs. Newton had an income of $2,708.52 from the dog tax and Somerville $145.35. Newton received $23,600 for tuition paid, and Somerville nothing and Newton expended $25.56 per pupil and Somerville $17.14. As these items are about the same every year, they will serve as a basis of comparison.

In the report of the school board just issued, the total expenses of the schools are stated to be $141,000.00 of which $127,221.19 is expended for salaries, so that in this item is found the reason for the excess of our expenditures over other cities. We employ more teachers and pay higher salaries, than other cities which have an equal or greater number of pupils. Not only is this the case, but our expenses are steadily increasing.

The cost per pupil in 1885 was $33.25 and it has increased year by year until now it is $38.04. Mr. Aldrich thinks that this is low compared with what is charged for tuition in private schools, which is certainly the case, but private schools have high rents to pay, and other expenses which are not counted in public schools. He also argues that we lose good teachers oftentimes now because other cities pay higher salaries, and that really more teachers instead of less are needed in the High school because the teachers average 22 recitations a week. This may seem a large number, but teachers in private schools often have 40 recitations a week, and are paid lower salaries than are paid in our high school.

For a defence of the present system in our schools, the superintendent's report is an able document, but many will be disappointed that no way seems to be discovered of reducing the high cost of our schools, and possibly he looks upon this as impossible.

SEVERAL Republicans, in discussing Rev. Mr. Lansing's slander of the President, thought that one of the worst features of the case was the way such an affair would impress foreigners. We profess to be the model democracy of the world, and to show the despoticisms of the old world that free speech is a blessing that is not abused by our self-respecting citizens, and yet here is a prominent minister of the gospel, who of all men ought to be a model citizen, who makes a mockery of free speech, by publicly retailing slanders against the highest official in our government, and acknowledging that all his information was derived from the petty gossip of one man and that he had not tried to verify it. Yet he is not punished or even arrested for his utterances. These gentlemen thought that a revival of that unpopular seditious law of John Adams' time, judiciously used, might be applied with good results to cases like this, and that it was unfortunate that our American ideas preclude a distinction, before the law, between unlicensed defamers and rigorous but honest critics. Nevertheless, we question, if our way of letting such things regulate themselves is not the best way after all. The perfect storm of indignant disapproval and denials from Republicans and Democrats alike, who were eye witnesses at the occasions to which Mr. Lansing alluded, showed that the great majority of American people are devoted to truth and justice, and that offenders do suffer punishment from right minded citizens, and that it is even more severe than would follow in despotic countries, where their arrest and punishment would enable them to pose as martyrs. When such a bitter partisan as "Webb" of the Boston Journal testifies that the President is a strictly temperate man there can be no doubt upon the question, and Rev. Mr. Lansing's so-called apology leaves him in a very pitiable condition. Fortunately we have few ministers whose desire to make sensational utterances leads them to flounder in such quagmires.

The monthly report of the Board of Health states that there were 29 deaths in the city in March, of which 9 were in Ward two, 5 in Ward six and 4 each in Wards seven and three. 15 were males and 17 females, 8 were aged from 60 to 70, 4 from 70 to 80, and 4 over 80. Six deaths were due to pneumonia, 3 from grippe, and 4 from phthisis, and one each from other diseases. On March 1st there were 11 cases of scarlet fever in the city, seven new cases were reported and there was one death. There were 6 cases of diphtheria on the first of the month, 3 new cases occurred during the month but all recovered.

REMONSTRANCES against the Boston Subway still continue, but the meeting in Faneuil Hall did not amount to much, either in regard to the prominence of the speakers or the number present. Ex-Gov. Alexander H. Rice brings out the most important objection to it, by asking why Boston should spend so much money merely to provide a free location for street railway corporations.

PERILS OF A MESMERIC EYE.

They Drove a Respectable, Clean Shaved Lawyer Into Whiskers.

A well known lawyer who has always taken considerable pride in the classic mold of his clean shaven face appeared in the county court rooms recently with a well developed growth of very unbecoming beard. Every friend that he met wanted to know why he didn't get shaved, and finally he corralled half a dozen of them in a corner and told them the reason.

He had never learned the art of shaving himself and had always patronized one barber. Not long ago the barber dropped into the habit of telling him that he (the lawyer) had a mesmeric eye. The lawyer didn't mind much what his barber thought of his eye so long as he shaved him satisfactorily. But having discovered that the lawyer's eye was mesmeric the barber went a step further and once in awhile, after making a slip with the razor, would explain that it was because he was mesmerized, so that he did not know what he was about. Matters went on this way for a week or so, the barber insisting that he was mesmerized every time the lawyer looked squarely at him, and the lawyer took it for granted that the mesmeric business was a dodge to excuse the occasional cuts from the razor.

A different aspect was put to the case, however, the last time the barber shaved his lawyer customer. Leaning over him after he had finished, he asked if the lawyer thought a man would be excusable for cutting the throat of one who mesmerized him. The lawyer said he certainly would not be excusable and got out of the chair as quickly as possible. He learned afterward that the barber had developed into a perfect crank on the subject of mesmerism, and nothing will persuade him that he did not have a very narrow escape. He will probably go to another barber some time, but at present his nerves are so shaken by the occurrence that he prefers to wear an unbecoming beard to sitting down in any barber chair.—Chicago Tribune.

TEN MILES UP.

Henry A. Hazen's Proposed Record Breaking Trip In His Steel Airship.

Henry A. Hazen, the American aeronaut and scientist, proposes to make a record breaking ten mile trip above the earth in an airtight steel car, fitted with parachute and steering gear, that will permit of its use as a boat, if need be. The ascension will be made at some point out west. Meteorological experts and all persons who are interested in ballooning will watch this novel experiment with lively hope.

The kaiser himself takes a lively interest in the trip, because one of the results foreshadowed is the solution of the mooted problem of the direction of the air currents. This has special military importance, affecting, as it does, another problem agitating military strategists—viz, will the dynamite and the destructive chemical bearing airship ever be a reality of the war of the future?

Hazen will substitute for the ordinary open basket a cabin furnished with pure oxygen, and with apparatus for producing either heat or cold in an emergency. It will have in addition arrangements for generating and passing upward through direct tube connections any amount of gas to replace the gas in the balloon. These novelties, therefore, will do away with some of the greatest difficulties aeronauts have heretofore encountered.—New York World.

NOT MORE.

My life has found its noontide, and my days
Have gone in quiet by to outward gaze,
In such side places have my feet been set,
So few of all my fellows have I met,
So small the ground my scanty strength could gain.

To hold and fill. What wonder if the grain
I reap is told by short and slender sheaves,
And if where flowers might bloom are only leaves.

Yet shall I sorrow that my friends are few,
That wealth I have not, that my power to do Is held in narrow bounds? The power to be In mine, unchained, to grow as fast, as free
As winged wind that blows across the night
Or morning sunshine on a mountain height.
So I, dead poor, may have whereof to yield
To you, brave worker, in a wider field.
If what I am has blessed your lot, my own,
I ask not more than my still life has known.

—Aurilla Furber in Housekeeper.

A PRIMEVAL STORY.

Chug did not know that he belonged to the post tertiary period of the world as he stood beside the tawny waters of a great inland sea whose waves gently washed the warm shores of the young earth.

He was in Kansas, although he was not aware of it, although as he stood he looked off into the northwest anxiously for the clouds that would bring rain to break the drought.

The little brook which now winds through the valley where he stood is a mere glimmering ghost of its mighty post tertiary predecessor, the sea.

Chug was young and lithe and stalwart, like the machiroids of the cata-clysmic caves. His whole body was hard as wood and covered with a coat of thick nut brown hair that harmonized with the reddish beard that flowed over his broad chest as that of a post tertiary Peffer.

His heavy mane of weather beaten locks had never felt a hat.

About his loins from one shoulder was draped the skin of a cave lion.

A ponderous mace of flint lashed by leather thongs to the handle lay at his feet.

Chug, who derived his name from the sound of the mighty blow with which he smote to death the cave lion whose hide he wore, was not thinking of the pterodactyl from which he narrowly escaped the night before.

Nor did he notice the cyclopean crocodiles in the sea.

His thoughts were sad and roamed afar.

At a distance, too great for his compensation, he had been born amid a little clan of post tertiaryans.

A strange impulse, such as his brothers and sisters had never known, came over him.

The monosyllabic conversation of his kin made him tired. Chug was wont to twine wild flowers in his hair and wear sandals of woolly hippopotamus hide.

"Spat-Spat," a young woman who could skin an Irish elk quicker than any woman of the clan and who scorned the luxury of sandals or robes of hide, one day pointed her reeking finger at Chug as she paused in her work and cried contemptuously, "Dude, dude!"

"You didn't say 'dude' when I saved you from the claws of the ichthyosau-rus!" retorted Chug and passed on.

Thus Chug gathered up his weapons and went forth alone and wandered from his own fireside.

Long he had pondered over the mystery of life.

He had repeated in his sleep the refrain, "There are others."

If his clan existed, he argued, why not other clans somewhere?

Was it not possible that in their society he could lose that tired feeling which had so oppressed him?

But moons had come and waned, he had traversed unknown leagues of morass and forest, crossed the tide of rushing rivers, and still nothing but packs of great hyenas, trumpeting mammoths, giant graminivorous and carnivorous mammalia and monstrous reptiles and amphibia.

Man was nil, and woman existed not.
If Chug had lived nowadays, he would have known what troubled his breast.

He would have found love in the eyes of beauty and become happy.

Poor Chug did not understand love.
His soul yearned unconsciously.

His thoughts went back homeward.
It had not been quite so bad there as in this solitude.

He thought of how he built a house for his mother of the ribs of a horned iguanodon that in life was 70 feet long, with legs thick as the fluted columns of a Corinthian temple.

He recalled how he used to arise early and build the fire, and how he once had mashed his finger while chopping kind-ling with the old stone ax.

An idea came to him as he stood there looking across the great sea.

Why not float upon its bosom on a raft and maybe come upon another people?

Chug worked with feverish fervor,
and in two days was launched upon his hazardous journey.

But, alas, as he was putting to shore
a few days thereafter, an air breathing, cold blooded plesiosaurus, which was hidden in the reeds, suddenly shot its horrible head at him, its long, flexible neck seeming like a monstrous serpent.

Chug pushed away madly, tore himself loose from the jagged jaws, but fainted across his raft, and the tawny waters bore it out to sea, the rude funeral car of a post tertiary hero.

For days the apparently dead voyager floated.

His system stood the strain, and the spark of life remained due to the fashion of the time of eating but once a week or so.

Chug had dined the day prior to his
misadventure.

Old Chief Tushe-tushe of the fishermen at the mouth of the river, now known as the Arkansas, intercepted the raft and found Chug.

After due consideration among the tribe it was decided to put him to death.

The Tushe-tushes had dwelt by the sea many generations, and the legends gave their origin as the children of a gigantic mastodonsaurus which had formerly infested the coast.

Their village was on the site of the present city of Wichita, somewhere near the soap works, and was laid out in town lots even into the bed of the sea.

They were brown skinned, beardless, and with hair black as the alluvial soil and stiff as the whiskers of the giant post tertiary leopard.

Their numbers had brought about many improvements in the mode of living, such as wearing loin cloths of native grasses and the hanging of shells from the ear and nose.

For generations the fashion of flattening the forehead had prevailed.

Chug had small hands and feet, was hairy as a cave lion and wore whiskers, and besides his head was not flattened.

Such a monstrosity could not be permitted to live.

The natural curiosity of the Tushe-tushes, however, impelled them to nurse Chug to life to see what he was like when well.

The job of nursing Chug fell to Sunbird, the only daughter of the old chief.

She marveled at the brawny proportions of the strange voyager.

She whiled away the long hours by plaiting his whiskers and grooming his brown fur until he shone like a blooded carriage horse.

Sunbird was young and impressionable.

She had been wooed by every youth of the clan, had listened for awhile, and then repulsed every man of them.

No woman of the tribe was so beautifully shaped as Sunbird, nor was there so smart a flathead among the Tushe-tushes.

She had a Trilby foot and the shoulders of a Lillian Russell.

Her old father loved her devotedly, still he chided her.

"You are getting much too gay for the tribe, my precious darling," he would say in his blunt, rough way.

During Chug's convalescence his days were sweet with newness.

Instead of bullet headed Spat-Spat, covered with fur like a megatherium, here was a creature with a head like a triangle, and with a graceful figure, smooth and soft to the touch, and the broiled steak of post tertiary reindeer was charming to his palate.

The vocabulary of the language of Chug and Sunbird contained but 600 words and nurse and invalid could soon converse.

So happy was Chug that he hated to tell the story of the passion which filled his heart, and he reserved it from day to day.

But his stalwart form trembled with emotion as Sunbird's hand gently smoothed the fur of his broad shoulders.

When Sunbird's father comprehended the trend of affairs he did not grate his teeth because, as a matter of fact, he was a fish eater and toothless.

But he spoke his mind.

"Come—the jig is up!" he shouted, and dragged Chug to the place of execution.

This denouement astonished Chug so much that he was pinioned by withes of elastic bush before he could make up his mind to resist.

The executioner brandished a ponderous dinosaur tusk, when Sunbird dashed through the throng of Tushe-tushes and wrestled it from him.

"Stand b-a-c-k!" she shrieked, with the furious mien of a post tertiary saber toothed tigress robbed of her cubs.

"I love him, and if he dies I die with him!" cried Sunbird as the tribesmen wavered before her as before the awful presence of a 50 foot high pterodactyl.

"What! that hairy animal with small hands and feet and little round head—that Populist freak!" yelled the old chief.

"I love him because he is so different from other men, papa. He is so perfectly unconventional!" replied Sunbird.

"That's all right," said old Tushetush as he released Chug and blessed his children. "It will be my turn to laugh when you want a divorce, young woman! Remember that Chicago is only 20,000 years hence!"

But Chug eventually became chief of the tribe, and through his example the people became exceedingly mild mannered and took to whisker raising.— Kansas City Star.

He Mistrusted His Sex.

A Durham miner, aged 73, visited a Newcastle lawyer, a bachelor, for the purpose of making his will. The old man's property consisted of two small cottages, which had cost him £150, and a little furniture.

The lawyer having asked his client how he wished to dispose of his property, the latter replied:

"Ma and mayhap come upon another people?"

Chug worked with feverish fervor,
and in two days was launched upon his
hazardous journey.

But, alas, as he was putting to shore
a few days thereafter, an air breathing,
cold blooded plesiosaurus, which was
hidden in the reeds, suddenly shot its
horrible head at him, its long, flexible neck seeming like a monstrous serpent.

Chug pushed away madly, tore himself loose from the jagged jaws, but
fainted across his raft, and the tawny
waters bore it out to sea, the rude funeral car of a post tertiary hero.

For days the apparently dead voyager
floated.

His system stood the strain, and the
spark of life remained due to the fashion of the time of eating but once a week or so.

Chug had dined the day prior to his
misadventure.

Old Chief Tushe-tushe of the fishermen at the mouth of the river, now known as the Arkansas, intercepted the raft and found Chug.

After due consideration among the tribe it was decided to put him to death.

The Tushe-tushes had dwelt by the
sea many generations, and the legends
gave their origin as the children of a

on this line, and has a greater seating capacity. It also has double doors at both ends.

—Mr. Giles Dyson, Sr., while driving with his grandson and another boy, met with an accident Friday morning, on Chestnut street. The horse became frightened and ran, colliding with a tree and throwing out the occupants of the carriage.
They were not seriously hurt. Friends assisted them home where Dr. Hildreth attended them.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolton, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. They had been over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by A.

small on account of the scarlet fever scare.

urday. Mr. James Cooney and John Mc-Laughlin were purchasers of houses they have been renting. The others with land went to an out of town party. Good prices were commanded by the sale.

—A huge 10 lb. shell was found near the river bed near D. J. Corcoran's house Monday last and delivered over to Officer Tainter. It is thought perhaps parties with evil designs may have placed this warning of destruction there.

—The conference of New England Methodist ministers in their appointments and changes appoint Rev. O. R. Miller to succeed Rev. R. H. Howard of this place.
The latter is transferred to Oakdale, Mass.
His people, especially the younger ones of the society, deeply regret his departure.
The newly appointed minister it is expected will supply the pulpit next Sunday.

Miss A. J. Norton of Columbia street died Sunday evening while returning from evening services at the Congregational church of heart disease, near Mr.
Howard's residence. The deceased was accompanied by her sister and a neighbor, Miss Rice, at the time, and did not complain of ill feeling until she complained of a faintness, and dropped, and expired almost instantly. Dr. Freeman was summoned to attend her sister, who sustained a very severe nervous shock and has been seriously ill since. Deceased was a native of Canada where she had always resided prior to her coming here to attend and care for her father, whose death occurred about two years ago. She was highly respected by all her acquaintances who deeply sympathize with the bereaved relatives.
The interment was Wednesday.

Many of the ladies appearing in their Easter hats or bonnets in our city made their selection at Roland W. Macurdy's, 26 Temple Place, Boston. The display of Easter millinery made by Mr. Macurdy was this year by far the finest effort yet seen. The hats and bonnets were the work of the very best designers, and were carefully made, avoiding at all times the too-frequent fault of "over-doing it" by too much of this or that.

The ladies will find at all times at Mr.
Macurdy's a very handsome and choice selection of the season's millinery, and the lady attendants in charge are all experienced and take great care in assisting you in your selection of your millinery—avoiding at all times the selling to a person of a hat or bonnet merely for the sake of making a sale, regardless of whether the article is becoming or proper.

Special and prompt attention is given to order work and mourning.

Physician—Your voice will last 20

Cantatrice—Thank heaven, it is not too late. But there is not a moment to lose.
I must bill a few well-timed notes.

Our better halves say they could not
keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known.

Mother has learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—The success of DeKoven and Smith's Scottish opera at the Castle Square Theatre despite strong counter attractions is a flattering tribute to the merit of Manager Whitney's production. The artists are singers of repute and Barron Berthold, the tenor, has been the talk of the town for his remarkable achievement in singing the Lohengrin role with the German Opera Company without a rehearsal.
In fact, so well has Manager Whitney seen to it that he should have the first artists in the land to interpret this beautiful opera that had the German opera required some other voice than Berthold's in an emergency case, he could have supplied it. There are in the "Rob Roy" company Juliette Corden, William Pruette, Lizzie Macnichol and William McLaughlin, any one of whom could have responded to a similar call.
Those who wish to see this opera will do well to secure their seats for the coming Easter week, which is the fourth of the engagement, commencing Monday, April 15. Manager Rose is scouring New England for fresh voices and faces for his season of summer opera which opens at the Castle Square Theatre before long.

TREMONT THEATRE.—On Monday next, April 15, "A Trip to Chinatown" conceded to be one of Hoyt's cleverest pieces of work, will begin a two weeks' engagement at the Tremont Theatre. The only changes made in the piece since it was last seen in Boston are the songs, dances, etc., and the costumes, which will be entirely new. The leading roles will be assumed by Harry Conner, the original Well and Strong; Geraldine McCann, who will appear as the dashing young widow; Harry Gaiffoli, the famous whistling soloist, who takes the part of the waiter; and George Richards, who will be seen in the character of Ben Gay.
Among the many distinct features in "A Trip to Chinatown" is the excellent manner in which the piece is staged. The sale of seats is now in progress. There will be a Holiday Matinee on Patriot's Day, Friday, April 19, besides the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

THE GRAHAM CONCERT.—At the solicitation of numerous friends in the theatrical profession Manager John Graham has been induced to accept a testimonial and Manager Eugene Tompkins has kindly tendered the use of the Boston Theatre for Sunday, April 21. The program will be the best ever offered in Boston on an occasion of this kind, as a great number of artists, including the most prominent stars on the Dramatic, Concert and Vaudeville stage, have volunteered their services, and the performance will run from 6 to 11 p. m.
The sale of tickets will commence at the box office on Monday next.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—A novel change in the usual class of attractions at the Hollis has been made for the week of April 15th when a most magnificent minstrel aggregation, organized by Prime-rose and West will hold the boards.
Over 70 artists comprise the company, and an entire train of special cars is necessary to transport the company and scenery. The engagement is for the week only and three matinees will be given. Wednesday, Saturday and on Lexington Day.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Ward and Vokes will return to the Grand Opera House next week when they will present for the last time in this city, their funny play "A Run on the Bank." Messrs.
Ward and Vokes have made many changes in the play, notably in the specialty introductions and the vocal and terpsichorean embellishments. The cast in all essential features remains the same, save that two new faces have been added in the persons of Mark Sullivan, the well-known mimic, and Al. Bellman, whose excellent voice will be heard to advantage in a number of taking melodies. In their own characterizations the stars have made some changes which will be found to add attractiveness to their presentation.

ANTONETTE SZUNOWSKA is a native of Warsaw, and b long to an old Polish family or distinction. Her parents wished her to prepare for the medical profession, and in the course of her studies Miss Szunowska passed her examinations with great honor. She, however, determined for the musical profession, which she preferred, and became a pupil of Mr. Paderewski, who taught her for three years. Miss Szunowska has played with the greatest success in Paris and London, and is just back from the Hemberg exhibition, where she played at the invitation of the committee winning fame and laurels. Her first appearance in this country was made March 21, at the Madison Square Garden Hall, New York, and was a brilliant success. An immense reception was accorded her at Boston for the first time in that city as soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. In response to many requests, arrangements have been made for Miss Szunowska to give two pianoforte recitals at Boston Music hall, on Thursday evening, April 18th, and Saturday afternoon, April 20th.

Sensational Methods Rebuked.
At the session of the New England Methodist conference in Salem Saturday noon there was a long and warm discussion on a resolution practically repudi-ating the utterances of Rev. Dr. Lansing before that body on the Thursday night previous in which he charged President Cleveland with drunkenness.

The resolution, which was signed by Revs. Frederick Woods, J. W. Hamilton, S. P. Upham, William I. Haven, Henry Tuckley, William Nast Brodbeck, and Charles F. Rice, was as follows: Whereas, in the admirable, earnest and able address of Rev. I. J. Lansing, D. D., at the temperance anniversary of this conference last Thursday evening, there occurred serious reflections upon the moral character of the President of the United States, this conference, while recognizing that there is doubtless need of public criticism of some who occupy high places in the land, and while profoundly impressed with the ability and sincerity of the orator, who so eloquently served us at the temperance anniversary, yet we feel constrained to disclaim responsibility for the aforesaid utterances, concerning which the honored President is able to speak for himself, whenever his statements may be con-troverted.

The resolution was not passed because the ministers felt that, having invited Dr. Lansing to speak, they had no right to repudiate anything he said or comment on it in any form as a body.

Dr. Lansing's utterances concerning President Cleveland are almost universally condemned by the Methodist divines.
One of them says: "It is the most outrageous statement ever made by a grown man."

Way Down in Maine.
(From the New York Recorder.)
"Say! This is Maine, ain't it?"
"Yes."
"So I thought. It's a crime to sell me this whiskey, ain't it? Go to jail if ye was caught, wouldn't ye?"
"Yes, and it's a confounded!"
"Stop right there. The only trouble with that law is that 'tain't severe enough. Man ought to be hanged 'stead of jailed for sellin' stuff like this."

The latest results of pharmaceutical science and the best modern appliances are availed of in compounding Ayer's Sassaparilla. Hence, though half-a-century in existence as a medicine, it is fully abreast of the age in all that goes to make it the standard blood-purifier.

IN MEMORIAM.

THE LATE REV. A. B. EARLE, D. D., AND HIS WORK.

Services in memory of the late Dr. A. B.
Earle were held by the Tremont Temple Baptist Church, Sunday, in Music hall, Boston. The sermon, by Dr. George C.
Lorimer, was on the subject, "The Evangelist and His Work." The text was from II Timothy, iv. 5. "Do the work of an evangelist."

Dr. Earle, said Rev. Dr. Lorimer, always first approached the church, because he realized that the stream could not rise higher than its fountain head.
The church built up, the souls converted and the saints quickened—that was what he believed in doing.

As for means, he continued, he did not seem to have any, except to work in the line of God's will. He tried to unite all Christians in the work, and he carried the gospel where it was most needed.

Therefore, I hold that modern evangelism has received its highest and brightest representation in the life of Dr. Earle.
I want to consider some of the essential qualities of an evangelist. It is said that God can work through a weak instrument. Of course he can, but somehow he does not. From Paul to Moody he has worked through instrumentalities fitted for the work.

Criticism will come to the evangelist before praise, and the man who can move away and lead the minds of the people must be a good deal of a man.

Mr. Earle was constantly likened to Henry Clay. He was led by thought and swayed by an inward power. It must have been worth a long journey just to see him speaking to the people and pleading with God.

His life was one of sacrifice. A man of his equipment, of his ability, could have amassed a large fortune, and yet we find that he earned a trifle over $1000 a year for all the years of his ministry. Yet, probably, he never thought of that as a sacrifice. The thousands of miles that he travelled, were a strain that few men can understand.

NOT UP TO DATE.

GEORGE WASHINGTON FINDS HIS CHILD
SOMEWHAT CHANGED.

George Washington entered his astral body and returned on his birthday to the country of which he is the father to see how it was getting along without him.

He entered the city which bears his name and asked to be directed to the man who could give him the most information about American politics. He was immediately directed to Mr. Quay of Pennsylvania.

After he had made himself known, Mr.
Quay said:
"Well, General Washington, I fancy American politics are in a much better condition than they were in your day."

"I am extremely gratified to hear it," said Washington, with all the stately dignity of an old-time Virginia gentleman.

"Yes, to be plain with you, General, I never liked your methods. Ev'n from your boyhood, in that little affair of the hatchet, to speak frankly, you bungled outrageously."

"I fail to comprehend you, sir," said the Father of His Country with the exact expression that he wears on the 2-cent postage stamp.

"Why, when you were charged with cutting the tree you should have remained absolutely silent, and a matter how bitterly you were attacked you should have kept still until all the witnesses of the act were dead, and then you should have denied the whole matter.
That is a method which I have tried very successfully myself."

"Do the people still maintain their sovereignty unimpaired?" asked the General in astonishment.

"Hail her, Tom," he said, as Mr.
Thomas C. Platt of New York entered the vestibule of the hotel where they were talking. "Mr. Platt here is a curiosity. Here is an old fellow who asks if the people still rule the country."

"Do not the people still vote?" asked the General in astonishment.

"Oh, yes, they think they do. But we pick out the candidates that they are to vote for, and then after election these candidates do just as their bosses tell them."

"Bosses? What are bosses?"
"Bosses are the men who deal out the political patronage."

"Patronage? What is patronage?"
"General your knowledge is so hopelessly rudimentary that it is useless for us to attempt to instruct you. There is really no place for you in this fin-de-siecle era."

"Would there, indeed, then be no chance for me in this country of which I am the father?" sadly exclaimed the General.

"Not the shadow of a chance, General!"

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25

WOMAN'S SUFFERING.

RELIEVED BY MAIL. HOW IT IS DONE.

How a Woman Works for Her Sex.
(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.)

Seated at her desk in the bureau of correspondence, this wonderful woman opens her letters from all parts of the world. A few extracts from their contents tell the story.

FROM IOWA. "I am in a very bad condition, my courses have stopped from catching cold, and the pain is terrible. I am all bloated up; and the pain in lower part of my body is terrible. My back and head ache all the time. What shall I do for it?" Miss Des Moines.

FROM NEW JERSEY. Mrs. Lizzie DeCline, 224 Grand Street, Jersey City, relates her suffering resulting from womb trouble, from which she was relieved and cured by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She sends her letter by saying, "I owe all to you."

FROM NEW YORK. Mrs. Newton Cobb, of Manchester, O., writes: "I used eight bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I am happy to say it has cured me of painful men-struations and backache. My suffering every month was dreadful.
The doctors gave me morphine to ease the pain; nothing to cure me. Oh, I want to tell every one what cured me! I wish every suffering woman would write and get your advice."

FROM ILLINOIS. Chicago, states that she is twenty-two years of age; occupation, sales-woman in large dry goods store.
Constant standing has brought on womb trouble, the symptoms of which she describes fully. She says: "Help me if you can.
There are several girls I know who have written to Mrs. Pinkham, and been cured by her advice and medicine."

FROM PENNSYLVANIA. Miss Mary Smylie, who resides at 375 E. Susquehanna Avenue, Kensington, Phila., writes: "I am a working-girl, and must stand eleven hours every day. I have suffered terribly from painful menstruations and kidney trouble.
At times my head so dizzy
I could hardly see. A friend recommended your Vegetable Compound. I am a different girl now; no more aches and pains. Oh, thank you, thank you!"

The above extracts from many hundred letters received daily by Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., go to show how easily ailing women can obtain advice and relief. Write to Mrs. Pinkham.

—The funeral of Mr. Edward S. Keeler, took place from his late residence here last Friday. There was a large attendance at the services. The interment was made in the Newton cemetery.

—The great elm tree on the line of the new boulevard, near the point where it crosses Centre street, an ancient landmark, was cut down this week. It could not survive the march of modern improvement.

—Many of the residents here believe that it would be a good idea to connect the police station with the central office, affording opportunity for prompt communication with the protectors of the public peace in the case of any emergency requiring their immediate attention. The matter will be brought soon to the attention of the city council in the shape of a petition.

—At the Unitarian church, Easter Sunday the services will begin at 10.30. —A petition requesting the changing of the grade of Summit street, was presented by Alderman Degen at the meeting of the city council Monday evening. It was signed by 161 residents of the South side. A commencing the petition was a communication, offering to sell a strip of land for widening the street at a low figure considering the value placed upon it by property owners along that thoroughfare. Particulars of the offer will be found in the report of the city government proceedings.

—It is understood that Mr. Albert F. Ireland, of the firm of C. B. & A. F. Ireland, contractors and builders, long and favorably known throughout the Newtons and vicinity, is soon to give his hand and of benediction. They are to start housekeeping in a fine new residence at Eliot, our youngest village, just beyond the Highlands, and sort of grow up with the country. The warmest congratulations and best wishes will be given to the happy couple and his friends are saying that Mr. Ireland is like Gen. Sheridan, in that he did not ride to Winchester in vain. The marriage is to take place on the 16th.

—William Richards of Boston got into trouble with the police early last Saturday through his too great fondness for chickens. About 1 o'clock the attention of Special Officer Burke was attracted by a commotion in the henhouse of Samuel Woodman, corner of Beacon and Hammond streets, Chestnut Hill. He secreted himself behind a tree and waited developments. In a few moments he saw a man leave the henhouse with two plump hens in his hands. Another trip was made to the henhouse, and the officer saw the man take another pair of pullets from the roost. This time he arrested the fellow as soon as he left the building. Six full grown hens were found in his bag. At police headquarters at West End he gave his name as William Richards and said he hailed from Boston. He was formerly in the employ of Mr. Woodman, and was familiar

In the morning there was a devotional service led by John R. Haue of the Ruggles street church, address of welcome by Rev. Richard Montague, reading of the necrology record by Rev. H. F. Perry of Hyde Park, discussion on "Order and Discipline in our Schools," presentation of reports, appointment of committees and transaction of routine business and addresses by Rev. E. P. Burr of West Newton on "The End and Aim of Sunday School Work" and by Rev. A. F. Sowerby of South Boston on "Evil Tendencies and Grand Opportunities of the Times." W. Coleman, Clara May, church; address, "Teachers and Teachers," Ray Greene Huling of East Cambridge; address, "Christian Citizenship," Rev. A. Z. Conrad of Worcester; address, "Our Girls," Mrs. St. Louise Barton of Clarion street church. A praise service initiated the evening session, the Dudley Street Sunday school orchestra rendering the instrumental music. An address on "Music in Our Sunday Schools," was given by Mr. E. W. Wodell of the Ruggles street church. Mr. W. W. Main, state secretary of the convention, gave an interesting talk on the Massachusetts Baptist Sunday School Association—Some of the Work of the Association. The address was illustrated with stereoscopic views. A collection was taken up for the association and shortly after 8 o'clock the convention of 1895 dissolved. ### HIS BRAIN DIVIDED.

Case of a Man the Lobes of Whose Brain Acted Separately.

In the quarterly journal of the Neurological society, called Brain, just issued, there is a curious and interesting paper by Mr. Lewis C. Bruce on a case he had carefully studied. The peculiarity of the case was this—that it appeared to show that, while some general deterioration of the brain was going on, it was going on at a different rate in the two lobes of the brain; that sometimes the right side of the brain alone acted, in which case the patient talked almost only Welsh and had hardly any interest in life at all, showing no sort of eagerness either for money or tobacco or anything but his food alone, and that he was almost entirely left handed and idiotic, while when that side of the brain became inert and the other took its place he spoke chiefly English, was eager for money and tobacco, and even teetotal in his desire to possess himself of these objects, and right handed in his physical habits, and that for a certain interval between the two conditions he had a short period in which he mingled Welsh and English words, used both hands and showed an intermediate sort of disposition, being more alive than in his left handed condition, when he spoke Welsh almost exclusively, as if, we imagine, less alive than in his right handed condition, when he spoke chiefly English.—New York Post.

THE LATEST SENSATION.

Reported Discovery of Accurate Means to Determine the Paternity of Children.

Nothing has so agitated Paris for a long time as the reported discovery by M. Grossier of a scientific means of tracing the paternity of children who know not their own fathers.

It is easy to understand, with what alarm the news of such a discovery will be received in a country where illegitimacy is so common as in France.

The announcement may possibly cause some tremors of nervousness even in America. The Paris journalists have speedily recognized that nothing could appeal more directly to the interests of their readers, and they have been interviewing everybody of consequence about the probable truth and effect of the momentous news.

It is declared that it is time to call a halt in the relentless march of science when it becomes so presumptuous as to invade domestic secrets which it has no right to expose.—New York Sun.

Royal Etiquette Versus Enthusiasm.

Says The Pall Mall Gazette: "An incident of the queen's journey to the south deserves to be recorded. At Toulon Admiral Gervais was so carried away by his feelings that, in violation of all royal etiquette, he seized her majesty's hand and kissed it with fervor, an act which was taken in very good part by our kind hearted sovereign."

At Last, at Last.

It is interesting to learn that the Keely motor is complete at last. Mr. Keely has achieved the all important connection that eluded him so long. He has found the missing link. We congratulate Mr. Keely and hope there is no mistake.—Chicago Tribune.

Always Varied, Always Charming.

The Sunset club has been trying to decide what the "coming woman" will be. The chances are that she will be of as many different kinds as the woman who has gone—just as variable and just charming.—Chicago Post.

Perfect Digestion

Is secured by taking Hood's Pills after dinner, or if digestion is impeded by change of diet, overeating or chills and congestion in changeable weather. They break up cold, prevent a fever, and restore healthy action of the liver and bowels. At home or abroad Hood's Pills are a safeguard and a friend.

Yankee Ingenuity.

A Connecticut genius has invented a trotting sulky so arranged that "the weight of the driver becomes a propelling power." The horse is evidently a doomed beast.

This invention, however, will have results reaching far beyond trotting sulky. If a driver, by sitting a little behind the wheels of his attenuated vehicle, can give it a forward impulse without decreasing his own altitude, there is no reason why a captain, reinforced by a crew sufficiently large, cannot replace the costly engines that now take up so much valuable space in ocean steamers, or why every one of the now existing sources of power should not be abandoned in favor of a weight, live or dead, placed "just behind the wheels."—New York Times.

A Gigantic Engineering Plan.

The latest engineering and ship canal idea is to dispense with the 24 locks in the Welland canal leading from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario, and to make the whole drop of 326 feet between these two lakes in two pneumatic balance locks, built of steel, operated by compressed air and large enough to admit vessel of ocean draft. The greatest lock now in existence is on the Manchester ship canal, 45 feet high.—Philadelphia Ledger.

They Can Talk Anyhow.

Now that a prizefighter's grandson is to be made speaker of the house of commons Sullivan, Corbett et al. will be more unendurable than they have been, as they will have visions of the presidential chair, or at least a chance in the next heavyweight cabinet.—Philadelphia Press.

There Is Yet Time.

Prince Bismarck, in a recent interview with an American, made the remark that one of his greatest regrets was that he had never visited the United States. This regret is fully reciprocated by the American people.—New York Mail and Express.

Wildes', Fairmont avenue, on March 25.
The conference was very harmonious, and the members were delightfully entertained by the hostess. The next meeting will occur on April 22nd, at Mrs. Sawyer's, Chestnut Hill, at 11 a. m., when further steps will be taken to consummate the proposed union.

—The second meeting of the Shakespeare class conducted by Mr. William H. Ladd of Chauncy Hall school, Boston, was held at the residence of Mrs. Lucy N. Sawyer, Chestnut Hill, on April 13th. The first act of Henry Fourth was read by several of the members. Mr. Hornbrooke of this place taking the part of Prince Henry; Mr.
Ladd, the line of Mr. Lauder's ability as a leader of a class of this sort is well known, and the brief lecture which preceded the reading, showed a keen insight into the historic attributes of the play.

—Mr. P. A. Murray has just finished a very handsome two seated open carriage for Mr. Chester Graves, of the March 25.
It has very graceful lines and is painted a dark green, picked out with red, and upholstered in green broadcloth. It is one of the most attractive carriages that have appeared in Newton, and the fact that it is made by Mr. Murray is assurance that it is one of the best. The coupe-rockaway, which wheels have but few bearings, and rubber tires, which Mr. Murray has been building for a West Newton gentleman, is about ready to be delivered.

—The Easter meeting of the Parish of Grace church took place April 18. The Rev. Dr. Shinn presided. The election resulted in the following: Messrs. S.
Bullens and Mr. George Flint, as wardens.
Mr. W. P. Wentworth, clerk; Mr. E. S.
Hamblen, treasurer; and Messrs. W. E.
Holmes, C. W. Emerson, J. C. Elms, Jr., J. E. Hollis, C. W. Emerson, J. C. Elms, Jr., Wheeler and Marcus Morton as vestry-men. The Vestry is the same as last year except that Mr. Morton succeeds Mr.
Patterson who has removed from Newton.

The report of the Vestry called attention to two gifts, one a large picture of the rector given by some of the parishioners, in memory of the completion of 20 years reignship. This picture hangs in the parish house. The other gift is the memorial library now in progress of erecting, to be finished by July. The Vestry adopted an appreciative minute relating to the faithful services of Messrs. Wentworth and Hamblen, who have served ten years as parish officers. Messrs. Bullens, Flint and Warren were elected delegates to the Convention of the Diocese, meeting in May. Resolutions were adopted in the commemoration of the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Parish, Sept.
27, 1895.

—Easter Sunday was an unusually disagreeable day, and it probably prevented some from attending church. Notwithstanding the weather, Grace church was well filled at both morning and evening services. At the morning service the vessel choir rendered some very beautiful carols, and Smart's Te Deum, and anthems by Tours and Selby were well given. The sermon was based on the message of the angel of the resurrection to the women at the sepulchre, and that of the night service was a consideration of some of the characteristics of the spiritual body which will be the successor of the natural body in the general resurrection at the last great day. The young people's carol service in the church was well attended by the scholars of the Sunday School, and others.
In this service some beautiful carols were finely brought out and gifts of flowers and Easter eggs were given to the children.
The evening service called out a good number, and H. B. Day's Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, and some carols were sung.
The decorations of pure white flowers were very beautiful. Across the chancel was a road strewn of laurel with flowers interspersed, and down the central aisle were growing plants. The offerings amounted to $1300, not counting the gifts of the Sunday school which are used for missions. The number of communicants was large, about three hundred in all.

late Otis Jennison, died at her home on Watertown street, Wednesday, aged 75 years. Deceased was born in Pepperell.
She was a devoted Christian, and much beloved for her many deeds of charity.
The funeral will be held from her late residence this (Friday) afternoon at 1 o'clock.

—James H. Earle, Boston, has in press for immediate publication a novel in answer to "Ships that Pass in the Night."
It is entitled by way of contrast "Ships by Day," and its advance pages indicate that it is rightly named, and that the ship is not sailing in the "night" but in the light of day. The story is entertaining as it is instructive, increasing in interest to the end.

—The Union Good Friday evening service in Eliot church was largely attended and the exercises were full of interest.
Brief addresses were made by the pastor of the different Newton churches and the boy choir of Grace church led the singing.
The example set for several years in Newton of the city and from many other villages, most of which held Union Good Friday services.

—A very pretty home wedding was held at the residence of Mr. J. A. Gilman, Franklin street, last evening, when his daughter, Miss Alice D. Gilman, was married to Mr. Albert Clark of Baldwin street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Stearns, assisted by Rev. Vol-cott Calkins. The bride was given away by her father, and the maid of honor was Miss Louise Gilman, and Mr. Herbert Clark acted as best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Clark, Miss Gilman, Miss Sprague and Miss Walz, and Messrs. T.
R. Bayley, R. H. Stearns, Jr., W. H.
Greenough and Mr. Vose were the ushers.
Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held, which was very largely attended, guests being present from all sections of the city and from many other cities. Mr. and Mrs. Clark have left on a short bridal trip, and will sail for Europe in May, to be gone about three months.

CHANNING CLUB.

ENTERTAINS THE LADIES AND GOVERNOR GREENHALGE.

Governor Greenhalge was the guest of the Channing Club, last evening, on its annual ladies' night. Elaborate preparations had been made for the event, and the city was represented by Mayor Bothfield, Alderman Tolman and Councilman Wing. Among other prominent guests were Wm. H. Baldwin, of the Boston Y. M. C. U. and Rev. Robert Savage of Walpole.

A reception was held in the Channing church parlors from 6.30 until 7.15 o'clock.
Gov. Greenhalge received with the president of the club, Mr. Lewis E. Coffin, and the reception party comprised, beside Mrs.
L. E. Coffin, Rev. and Mrs. Francis B.
Hornbrooke also a committee representing the church, Messrs. H. C. Kendall, C. F.
Rogers, R. G. Howard, R. E. Mandell, J. B.
Fuller, C. W. Hall, Dudley Hornbrooke and C. B. Coffin.

The parlors were tastefully decorated with tropical plants, hydrangeas, a profusion of Easter lilies, and groupings of beautiful cut flowers.

The company comprised about 200 ladies and gentlemen, largely members of the club and the members of their families.

During the evening an elaborate musical program was rendered by the Apollo Club of Boston.

Following the reception a collation was served, and at its conclusion Gov. Green-halge made a brief address. He said that it was a matter of congratulation for him that he was enabled to do the honor of the Newtons to find the only Newton. It is a sincere pleasure, he continued, for me to be here this evening. I am present among you, not so much in the capacity of an official, but rather in the brotherly capacity of a Unitarian. It always gives me sincere pleasure to have the opportunity of coming into a live church of that denomination.

It has been said of the Unitarian that he is good for a number of members of other denominations. He is felt everywhere; he forgets nothing in the work of daily life.
He may not always be found in the sanctuary, but in 99 cases out of 100 he will be contributing his share toward the support of the cause of God. Christian work and good government. He carries no more religion than he can apply to the daily work of the world. I am glad to find young men well appointed, and so full of life and activity.

In closing, the Governor referred to the good work of the Channing Unitarian Club, and urged its members to keep it ever to the fore, promising if the opportunity offered, under such very agreeable circumstances, to be present again, and join with its members in their pleasant annual festivities.

GOVERNOR ITS GUEST.

CHARLES WARD POST CELEBRATES THE EVE OF PATRIOTS' DAY.

Charles Ward Post, G. A. R., had a notable celebration, Thursday evening, at Ansony Hall, by a banquet at which Governor Greenhalge was the guest of honor, with Commander Thayer, Mayor Bothfield, and others.

The hall was decorated with patriotic colors, and an orchestra gave out patriotic music. The banquet began at 8.30 and the Governor was received with three hearty cheers, and the same applause greeted Mayor Bothfield. At the tables were seated about 200 members of the Post and their guests, the Clavin Guard, associate members of the Post, members of the city council and prominent citizens.

Commander S. S. Whitmer of Post 62 opened the after-dinner exercises by introducing Department Commander Joseph W. Thayer, who felicitated the Post on the success of the banquet.

Gov. Greenhalge was next introduced, and was greeted with rounds of applause. "I thank you," he said, "for your cordial greeting, in which the voices of the old veterans and of the young soldier are mingled. This is an occasion of extraordinary significance. Tomorrow marks the anniversary of the uprising of the North, and particularly of the loyal county of Middlesex, fifty-two hours of his time, 120 years ago Paul Revere rode his memorable ride to summon the Minute men. It is well to recall these memorable events which made Middlesex famous 120 years ago. It is a grand thing that your next national encampment is to be held south of Boston and Dixon's line. It marks the driving out of the old enemy. It shows that the strong wall of loyalty which stood at Antietam and Gettysburg has now stood another mission.
It is a blood mission of fraternity and love."

At the close of the Governor's remarks he was presented with a badge of Charles Ward post by Hon. G. D. Gilman, and was unanimously elected an honorary associate member for life.

Gov. Greenhalge was the next speaker. He alluded to the necessity of providing a suitable hall for Grand Army meetings and as a repository for the relics belonging to the Post.

Several other gentlemen followed with brief remarks.

Patriotic songs were sung and one of the features being "Gods Old Army" by Comrade J. E. Gilman, who lost his right arm at Gettysburg.

Y. M. C. A.

At the meeting of the directors of the association last Friday evening to hear reports from the various committees, the committee on nominations presented a list of nominations which will be voted upon Wednesday evening, May 1. The following is an abstract of the report of the General Secretary for the quarter, ending April 1, which gives some idea of what the Association is doing. Classes for physical development, instruction in business forms, penmanship,loyd and short hand, have been held with good results. Nine young men have decided to live better lives while several of them have already joined the churches of their choice. A Bible training class is held every Tuesday evening.

Grounds for out door sports have been secured for the ensuing year.

The membership of the Junior Department is 75 a gain of 15. Senior Department 125 a gain of 35.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, subject, "Hogs."

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH N. BACON CELE-BRATE THEIR 50TH ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Bacon celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding, at their home on Washington street, Wednesday afternoon and evening, the hours being from 2 to 10. Nearly 700 invitations were sent out and about that number of guests were present, including the directors of the Newton National Bank, of which Mr. Bacon is president; the directors of the Newton & Watertown Gas Company, and trustees and officers of the Newton Savings Bank, with all of which Mr. Bacon has been identified since their formation. Among the other guests were Mr. Winch, president of the Natick National Bank, Rev.
Dr. J. W. Wellman of Malden, Rev. Dr.
Farber, ex-Gov. Claflin and many others of prominence.

The house in which the reception was held, was built by Mr. Bacon, just before his marriage, and it has always been their home, which is rather unusual in these days of frequent changes of residences.

Mr. and Mrs. Bacon received in the large parlor, seated on a raised platform, and were assisted by their daughter, Mrs. L. M. Stanton and Mr. Stanton, and their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. W.
F. Bacon. In the dining room, their nieces presided at the tables. The family connection is probably the largest of any in Newton, as both Mr. and Mrs.
Bacon come from old Newton families, many of whose members married and settled in the city, and are related more or less closely to the old families of Newton, whose representatives lived here when Newton was only a small country town, and no one had any dream of what its growth would be.

Mrs. Bacon wore a silk costume which formed a part of her wedding outfit, fifty years ago.

The house was decorated with a profusion of flowers, many of them the gift of friends, the Newton bank directors and the Gas Co's directors each sending a handsome basket of flowers, and the former sending $50 in gold. Mr. Farrum of Waltham was one of the earliest callers and left over a hundred roses, and there were besides a great number from other friends. There were some handsome gifts from relatives, in the metal which gives the name to the occasion.

Mr. Bacon recently celebrated his 82nd birthday, and is well preserved for his years. He has never used glasses, and his sight is still good. He has always been identified with Newton, and is one of the largest real estate owners in the city, having a good

ALDERMEN IN SESSION.

NUMEROUS HEARINGS TAKE UP CONSIDERABLE TIME—WABAN CITIZENS DON'T CARE FOR FEED WIRES—JOINT OCCUPANCY OF POLES A SUBJECT OF SOME EXPLANATION AND DISCUSSION—STREET FIRE ENGINES TO BE REPAIRED—ROUTINE MATTERS.

Quite an important meeting of the board of mayor and aldermen was held Monday evening. The principal time of the session was occupied in giving hearings on petitions for street railway locations and for locations for poles and wires in various streets and ways.

The following hearings were closed, no one appearing in remonstrance: Extension of Henshaw court, Highland park from Highland avenue, north; Quirk court, from Adams street, northwesterly; laying out Camden road, from Walker to Walcott street; location for tracks on Homer street to the power house of the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company; location for poles on Middlesex road, petition of Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company; location for poles for street lighting purposes on Sargent and Park streets and for permit to attach wires to poles of New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, on Sargent street, petition of Newton & Watertown Gaslight Company.

Timothy Stuart, J. J. Gannon, T. F. Gannon, Arthur Muldoon, and Patrick Cunningham were appointed private sewer layers. The bond of Timothy Stuart qualifying as a sewer layer was presented and approved.

The following communication from Judge John C. Kennedy calling attention to the condition of the central police station and police court was read by the mayor, and referred to the public property and police committees jointly.

BETTER POLICE QUARTERS NEEDED.

As a citizen of Newton I desire to respectfully call your attention to the condition of the police headquarters, police station and court room at West Newton.

There are in the city of Newton three police stations besides the one at West Newton, and the rules of the department require that all persons arrested shall be brought to the station at West Newton immediately after arrest and kept there until their cases have been disposed of in court, and it often happens that a person arrested for any offence (although he may be innocent) would have to remain in the station from 12 m. on Saturday until Monday forenoon, and sometimes longer.

The present quarters at West Newton were provided at a time when the business of the court was about one fifth of what it is at the present time and the number of police officers about one fourth of the present number.

The law provides that cities shall maintain a suitable lockup for persons arrested and for their care while in custody; also that suitable persons shall be appointed to care for and have charge of the same.

I have no desire to indulge in extravagant terms, but to state the facts just as they are, and in doing so I am compelled to say that the lockup at West Newton is a disgrace to the city, and everybody who has examined into this matter so far as I know, joins with me in this opinion.

At this station there are a few cells on the same floor and within a few feet of each other. These cells contain an iron frame about two feet from the floor and on this frame there is a board and a blanket, with a foul water closet in one corner. Into these cells are put all the men, women, girls and boys that are arrested in this city, and they number several hundred during the year. The men and women who may be arrested for an alleged evasion of fare or any offence are all put into these cells. The little girls and boys fare just the same as the common drunkard, the thief, burglar and vagabond. The person who is detained on suspicion without regard to sex, occupies the same cell. The unfortunate and helpless insane are treated just the same. Within a few days several boys, all under five years of age, have been compelled to remain in these cells more than forty-eight hours. Can it be possible that the city council of Newton will tolerate this condition of things any longer?

The room occupied by the cells leads directly into the court room and the distance from the door to the desk occupied by the officers of the court is very short and every time the door is opened the stench that comes into the court room is offensive and intolerable.

The accommodations in the court room are very poor. There is not sufficient room for the officers to be seated. The people frequently have to stand up and the prisoners are crowded. Two years ago I had the honor of calling the attention of the board of aldermen to this matter and it was referred to the committee on public property. They looked into the matter and made a unanimous report to the city council that the present quarters were inadequate and that new ones should be provided, and then the city council referred it to the next city government. I am unable to see why the city of Newton cannot provide suitable accommodations similar, if not as good as those of Waltham, Malden, Cambridge, Somerville, Woburn and Marlboro.

Formerly all the fines imposed by the police court were paid to the County of Middlesex. Under the present law they are paid to the city of Newton. If these fines could be put into a sinking fund to provide for the payment for a new police station and court house, the rent which the County of Middlesex would pay for the use of the court room would go towards paying the interest on the notes and in a short time it would pay for itself and would not cost the city of Newton a dollar.

It seems to me the time has arrived when there should be a few reserved officers at the central station at all times in case of emergency. At present there is not room for them.

The law provides that cities having the population of Newton, shall have a matron at the central station. There are a great many women and girls brought to this station in the course of a year. There is no matron in Newton, and attend to them nor any suitable quarters for one. For these and many other reasons that I might suggest, I earnestly hope your honorable board will give this matter your earnest consideration.

Very respectfully,
J. C. KENNEDY.

In reference to the above communication Alderman Hamilton said that he thought it was a matter of sufficient importance to warrant thorough investigation and taking steps for an immediate remedy of the unfortunate conditions stated to exist.

These papers from the common council were acted upon in concurrence: Communication from the Newton and Boston Street Railway for permit to withdraw its petition for locations for poles on Commonwealth avenue and a king a new location on Beacon street, received and placed on file; petition of Hunter, at al, for sidewalks on Fairview street referred to the committee on highways; petition of A. W. Pope, Horace Cousins, John and J. K. Ward and Francis H. Kingsbury, claiming damages for land taken for sewer in Glen avenue, referred to committee on sewers; petition for two street lights on Beacon street, Ward 6, referred to street light committee.

G. H. Elder inspector of buildings presented a communication in reference to a building which Mrs. Eliza A. Papan presented. It was for a stable, 20 x 20, on land of J. A. Page. The consent of the abutting owner had been granted. Referred to the committee on licenses.

At this point a hearing was given on petition of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company for locations for poles and wires on Elmwood and Park streets and for permission to put cross-arms to fire telephone poles on Parsons Street. Richard Hill protested. He thought the wires should be placed underground.

The bond of Eugene W. Pratt, constable, was presented and approved. George W. Morse was granted permit to move two buildings, one from Prospect park, and one from Appleton street to new locations on Homer street.

Alderman Green presented the petition of H. M. Knowles for a sewer on Water town street, 130 feet from the corner of Edinboro street. Referred to sewer committee.

Following the presentation of these petitions, a hearing opened on the petition of the Newton and Boston Street Railway Co. for location for poles on Beacon street, the object being to run a feed wire from the power house of that company to supply power to the Wellsley and Boston Company. Mr. Samuel L. Powers appeared for the petitioners. He said that the company previously petitioned for a location on the new boulevard, but had decided to withdraw it as there had been considerable objection made. It was therefore decided, said Mr. Powers, to ask for the Beacon street route, although the company is perfectly willing to take either Beacon street or Commonwealth avenue, dependent upon the decision of the city council. When the location on Commonwealth avenue was asked for it was thought that one line of poles could be erected through the centre of the boulevard which could be utilized for the feed wire and also for the purposes of carrying the street railway and electric light fixtures. The company's understanding of the position of the city was that consent would be given for the erection of only one line of poles on Commonwealth avenue. The city was available for carrying the proposed feed wire to the Wellsley line for the purpose stated in the petition are Commonwealth avenue and Beacon street.

Alderman Hamilton—Mr. Powers, have you heard of any objection to the erection of poles on Beacon street?

Mr. Powers—I had not until tonight. I learn, however, this evening, that there was some objection to the Beacon street route.

Mr. J. B. Goodrich appeared for the purpose of requesting the board, in the event of its granting the location for the feed wire asked for, to limit it to the purpose alone of providing electric power for the operation of street railways. His point was that without any limitation the company might have power to distribute electricity for street lighting or any other legitimate purpose.

Mr. Powers said that the company had no thought of distributing electricity for street lighting purposes. The real object of its petition was to enable it to supply power to operate the cars of the Wellsley and Boston Street Railway Co.

Alderman Degen asked if the street railway and the electric light company would agree to the joint use of poles on the boulevard.

Mr. Powers—Certainly, if an agreement that is mutually satisfactory can be agreed upon.

Mr. Webster—Mr. Powers, has your company ever considered the feasibility of putting the wires underground?

Mr. Powers—I think not, for the simple reason that it is not feasible in Newton on account of the great expense.

Alderman White presented a protest of the Waban Improvement Society, with over 40 signatures were attached. The remonstrants strenuously objected to the disfigurement of Beacon street. They objected to a live wire on account of its dangerous character and to additional poles because of the damage to real estate.

Mr. Goodrich again addressed the board for the purpose, he said, of reiterating his suggestion relative to the granting of locations for poles and wires on streets where locations had been previously granted. In the case of all new locations he thought provision should be made to prevent interference with existing wires. There had been frequent cases of contact with the wires of the light company he said, because the railroad people had put up their poles and wires in dangerous proximity to those of the former company.

Mr. Goodrich in reply to Alderman Plummer said that the Gas and Electric light company was ready to co-operate in the joint use of poles. The gas company, said he, has a line of poles on Beacon street. If those poles are sufficiently strong to carry the feed wire which the Newton and Boston Street Railway Company desires to run through that highway the gas company will give its consent to attaching it to its poles. If the poles are not sufficiently strong, the gas company would offer no objection to their being replaced at the expense of course, of the street railway company.

Mr. Webster appeared as the representative of the Waban Improvement Society. The society thought that the wires could be placed underground and that the power for operating the Wellsley and Boston line could be equally well supplied from Natick. The residents of Waban, Mr. Webster said, objected to a heavy feed wire and many of them, said he, are here to speak for themselves on this subject.

Mr. W. C. Strong said that the feeling in Waban was strongly in opposition to granting additional locations for poles and wires on Beacon Street. That thoroughfare, said he, has a distinct character of its own. It is the only direct line from Boston westward. The street is very narrow in some places. It should be preserved as a quiet entrance to Boston. There are two lines of poles already located on Beacon street and a third would be very objectionable. To grant such a franchise without any equivalent whatever would be unjust to the residents and owners of real estate along that highway. It seems to me that some other route could be selected.

Alderman Hamilton—Is it on the ground simply of the disfigurement of the street, Mr. Strong, that you object to the proposed feed wire?

Mr. Strong No sir. A feed wire is a live wire and consequently is dangerous to the public travel.

Alderman Plummer—What do you mean by getting the feed wire?

Mr. Strong—I mean that there is no equivalent to owners of real estate for this proposed obstruction of Beacon street. I want to say, however, that no question of compensation would have any weight in this matter.

Alderman White—If I understand you Mr. Strong, you mean that residents will receive no return through the use of electric cars and that the street is simply given up for the accommodation of an outside company?

Mr. Strong—That was my idea.

Mr. Powers at this point suggested that the city give the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company permit to erect a substantial line of poles through the centre of the boulevard, it being understood that these poles were to be utilized for street railway, street lighting and other purposes under such terms and conditions as the city might determine.

Mr. Strong, respondent of the Boston public schools, said that as one interested in the future development and character of Waban, he felt compelled to enter his emphatic protest to the proposed running of a feed wire through Beacon street. It would be, said he, a dangerous appearance in a narrow street. It would also be an incumbrance. There is not a resident of Waban but regrets that the proposition has been made. The proper place for such a wire is in a wide avenue like the boulevard. I can't imagine why Beacon street should have been selected when the effect on the interest of residents there can only be detrimental. The location asked is merely to accommodate a corporation outside the city and to permit it to injure, at least to some extent, the property of every man who has land on or near Beacon street.

Mr. Strong—The city of Newton, I understand, owns land in Waban that might be depreciated if this feed wire was to run through Beacon street. It struck me that it would be a good idea for the mayor to add his name to the remonstrance that was presented here this evening.

Mr. Page, representing the ownership of two of the most picturesque sections of the city. These additional poles, said he, would not only be an injury from a picturesque standpoint, but would depreciate, in his judgment, the value of taxable property. There was besides the danger from the location, there of a live feed wire.

The hearing was closed.

The Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company was given a hearing on its petition for location for poles and wires on Otis street, permit also to be given to the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company to use said poles. A protest from Mr. E. B. Wilson was read, also a protest from W. F. Lawrence, Levi F. Warren, Sarah Davis and others.

Mr. George H. Staples appeared and favored the granting of the petition.

Alderman Plummer—Has Mr. Wilson put up a new house on Otis street and wired it for electricity?

Mr. Staples—He has.

The hearing was closed.

The Wellsley & Boston Street Railway was given a hearing on its petition for location for poles and wires on Washington and Margin streets for the purpose of operating a line extending from the Wellsley line to West Newton. It included a request for permit to attach its span wires to the poles of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company on Washington street. The consent of the latter company for the attachment of said span wires has been filed.

Mr. Vernon E. Carpenter thought that Margin street was so narrow that it would be better to continue down Washington street to the terminus in West Newton. As an owner of real estate, he said, he should object to the location of poles or tracks on Margin street. Mr. L. G. Pratt, added Mr. Carpenter, authorized me to protest in his behalf against the addition of poles on Margin street.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by A. Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. ## ALDERMEN IN SESSION.

Mr. Goodrich said that the gas company was willing to agree to the putting up of new poles to be used jointly by the street railway and gas company along the proposed route. He submitted the form of an agreement which had been drawn up, but which the railroad had not yet agreed to.

Mr. Powers said that the railroad management had not accepted the proposition of the gas company because it was regarded as unfair in some particulars. The railroad company, he added, is willing to agree to the joint occupancy of the poles, leaving the terms and conditions to the committee on street railways if it will consent to act as arbitrator in the matter.

Mr. J. T. Allen suggested that possibly some arrangement could be made with the Boston & Albany Railroad Company in view of the proposed separation of grades to secure a strip of land along the line of Margin street. In that way the street could be widened so that there would be less objection to putting up the poles required. As the street railway line from Wellesley will be a great feeder for the B. & A., I think, said Mr. Allen, that it would consent to the release of a strip of land.

A protest was read from Frederick Curtis, Mr. Lyman of Newton Lower Falls favored placing the wires underground in a section of Washington street where, in his judgment, it was necessary for safety. The hearing was closed.

A hearing was given on the order providing for the laying out of that section of the boulevard, extending from Washington to Auburn street. No one appeared in remonstrance and the hearing was closed.

These petitions were disposed of: Mary Tucker, et al, for sewer in Wyandotte street, referred to committee on sewers; real estate in Rice street, the street light to take the place of an oil lamp, referred to committee on street lights; G. F. Gates for concrete sidewalks on Temple and Sterling streets, and of residents of Prince street for concrete sidewalks on that roadway, referred to highway committee.

On a petition of the Newton & Waterbury Gas Light Company for permit to locate street lights on Waverley avenue and Park street, a hearing before the board of mayor and aldermen was ordered for Monday evening, April 22, at 7.45 o'clock.

The following orders were adopted: Authorizing the water board to lay water mains in various streets and appropriating $4972 therefor; appropriating $2500 for repairing steam fire engines 2 and 8; appropriating $69,700 for department expenses of May; authorizing the public property committee to dispose of about 14,000 feet of the Clark schoolhouse lot by sale or exchange, the price to be not less than 15 cents per square foot and the proceeds to apply to the maturity of the Clark schoolhouse lot bonds.

It was voted to adjourn at 10 o'clock.

Roland W. Macurdy's millinery establishment at 26 Temple Place, Boston, might well be called a millinery art store for the goods there displayed this season in trimmed hats and bonnets together with the materials in millinery are certainly the work of artists for the trimmed goods upon inspection show hard and careful work and study and this done by the very best corps of designers, the results show at all times a very choice lot of trimmed goods. In creating and designing the hats and bonnets a sameness of trimming is always avoided thus making each hat or bonnet an exclusive style, which is to be greatly appreciated by the ladies, something that is different from everybody else.

All Sorts.

A most excellent example of magisterial moral philosophy came recently from Sir John Bridge of Bow street police court, whose impressive little homily on the vice of idleness in young men with well-to-do parents was really a miniature gem of simple and unaffected eloquence.

There was one sentence of singular power. "It is difficult," said Sir John Bridge, addressing the delinquent before him, "to know how best to deal with men of your description. If they are fined, it comes out of the father's pocket; if they are sent to prison, it comes out of the mother's heart."

The culprit, who stood before the justly indignant magistrate, must have been hardened indeed if such words as these failed to move him—Lady's Pictorial, London.

"Remember this," said the teacher: "Girls are, boys are; a girl is, a boy is. Now do you understand it?"

Every hand in the room was raised in assent.

"Well, then," continued the teacher, "who can give me a sentence with girls—plural, remember?"

This time only one hand was raised, and that belonged to a pretty little miss. "Please, ma'am," she said, with all the assurance of primitive reasoning, "I can give a sentence. 'Girls are, my hat on straight!'"—Cincinnati Tribune.

The American and English tailors have great hopes of the morning coat—the revised edition of the old time cutaway.

The lounge jacket, the fancy waist coat, and the broad, light trousers, without a crease—what a picture!

There is something chic, something supremely smart about this. Everyone has a desire to dress well. It is an innocent, laudable ambition.

The desire for dress begins with the African tribes themselves, and I have yet to meet the man who scorns to be clad in a manner which he thinks is either the vogue, or is suited to his manner of living. A man without this ambition is not to be trusted. His mind and his morals are as slovenly, as his appearance.—Vogue.

"You are nothing but a hollow mockery," said the cannon to the drum. "And you," retorted the drum, "shoot off your mouth much too often."—Town Topics.

HON. LEVERETT SALTONSTALL.

PASSED AWAY MONDAY NIGHT AT CHESTNUT HILL—WAS ONE OF NEWTON'S MOST EMINENT CITIZENS—CAME OF ANCESTRY FAMOUS IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Hon. Leverett Saltonstall died at his home at Chestnut Hill, Monday evening, between 9 and 10 o'clock. He had been in poor health for some time but his friends did not look for his death so soon.

Leverett Saltonstall was for many years a central figure among the Democracy of Massachusetts. He was a member of the old Saltonstall family of Salem, Mass., a descendant of Sir Richard Saltonstall, who came over from England with Gov. Winthrop and was one of the six patentees of the colony of Massachusetts.

Mr. Saltonstall's father, Leverett, was one of the leading men of Salem, and its first mayor. He was eminent as an advocate, speaker of the House of Representatives, president of the State Senate, member of Congress, a fellow of the Royal Society, doctor of laws, and one of the overseers of Harvard College.

His son Leverett, who has just died, was born March 16, 1825, at Salem. He entered Harvard College in 1840, graduating four years later.

After leaving college he visited Fayal and then went to England with the intention of touring the continent. He was called back, however, by the death of his father. He entered the Harvard law school in 1845, studied two years, and then went abroad again, visiting the European countries, Palestine, Syria and the Black sea. After an absence of two years and a half he returned to Boston and completed his law education with Sobier & Welch, being admitted to the bar in the autumn of 1850. He practised in Boston until he accepted the chairmanship of the state committee of the Bell and Everett party.

He believed that a civil war would follow the election of Abraham Lincoln, and thought the only way to prevent it would be the election of Bell and Everett. At this time he was a candidate for Congress on the Constitutional Union and Democratic tickets, and ran against Charles Francis Adams. He was defeated but made so good a run as to break up the district.

Mr. Saltonstall was a war Democrat and made speeches on Boston Common and with Edward Everett in Tremont Temple to encourage the carrying on of the war.

In 1875 Gov. Gaston appointed him commissioner for Massachusetts to the Centennial exposition, and until the end of the exhibition he worked ardently in the interest of those coming from the Old Bay State.

While in church one Sunday he received a telegram from his state Democratic committee entreating him to go to Florida as a member of the returning board. He did so, and convinced himself that Tilden had been defrauded of the presidency.

After that he busied himself with whatever was for the public interest. He was very independent in his expression of public men and matters. Mr. Saltonstall was well known for the interest he took in agricultural matters.

He was the sixth in lineal descent who have graduated from Harvard College, and his son was the seventh. He was elected an overseer of Harvard in 1876 for six years and re-elected at the end of that time. Mr. Saltonstall twice presided over state conventions of the Democratic party and stood highest among its chieftains. He was a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, a trustee of the Perkins Institute for the Blind and held other positions of less account.

In 1885 he was appointed by President Cleveland collector of the port of Boston, a post which he acceptably filled to the end of his term of office. He declined to be appointed a civil service commissioner but as collector and otherwise manifested his interest in civil service reform.

He was also a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, New England Historic Genealogical Society and Bostonian Society, one of the trustees of the Massachusetts Society for Promoting Agriculture, president of the Unitarian Club, was appointed in 1854 on the staff of Gov. Emory Washburn with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, and in 1854 was commissioner from Massachusetts to the Centennial exhibition at Philadelphia.

He was married at Salem, Oct. 19, 1854, to Rose S., daughter of John C. and Harriet Lee. Of this union there were six children—Leverett Saltonstall, Jr. (deceased 1863), Richard M., Rose L. (Mrs. Dr. West), Philip Leverett, Mary E. (Mrs. Curtis Agassiz Shaw) and Eudicott Peabody Saltonstall.

The wealthiest and best known of the companions of John Winthrop in his voyage across the Atlantic in the Arabela from Yarmouth to Salem was Sir Richard Saltonstall of London. His uncle had been lord mayor in 1607, and they were descended from an old Yorkshire family. On his arrival in America Sir Richard, with Rev. George Phillips, progenitor of the famous family of that name, commenced the plantation of Weymouth, and, as first assistant, was present at the first court of assistants, held at Charlestown, Aug. 23, 1630. He was, however, somewhat advanced in years, the hardships of the first winter were extreme, and in the following spring he returned to England with the female and younger portion of his family leaving, however, his two eldest sons.

Living many years after, Sir Richard always kept up his connection with the colony and colonists, and was active in promoting the settlement of the Connecticut. By his will, made in 1668, he left a legacy to Harvard and his portrait hangs upon the walls of Memorial Hall.

Richard Saltonstall, his son, settled at Ipswich, and was an assistant in 1624. He built the first mill at Ipswich, still bearing his name. The house erected by Richard Saltonstall is still in tolerable preservation.

Henry Saltonstall was a member of the first class graduated at Harvard, and a great number of the descendants of Richard have matriculated at the ancient university fostered by the liberality of their ancestry. Nathaniel Saltonstall, son of Richard of Ipswich, Harvard 1649, settled in Haverhill, marrying Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. John Ward, its first minister, himself born in Haverhill, England, and a son of the famous Nathaniel Ward, first minister of Ipswich. From Minister Ward, Nathaniel Saltonstall received by will a very beautiful property half a mile west of Haverhill bridge, known for 100 years as the "Saltonstall estate" and since as "The Buttonwoods" from a magnificent row of trees, planted, tradition says, by Hugh Talent, a jolly Irish fiddler, long ago a servant of the Saltonstalls.

The Buttonwoods passed into the possession of the Du Rous many years since. Gordon Saltonstall, son of Nathaniel, born at Haverhill in 1669, and graduated at Harvard in 1684, became the minister of New London, Ct., was a very famous preacher, and became Governor of Connecticut from 1708 till his death in 1724. All the American Saltonstalls, it is believed, are descendants from Nathaniel and Elizabeth Saltonstall, married at Haverhill in 1663. In their successive generations they held important positions and administered generous hospitality upon the ancestral estate.

It is to the credit of Nathaniel Saltonstall that he refused to take part in the proceedings of the notorious court for the trial of the witches of Salem in 1692. All the Saltonstalls were military men, and succeeded each other in command of the North Essex regiment. Richard Saltonstall, born in 1703 at Haverhill, graduated in 1722, colonel at 23, was judge of the superior court from 1730 till his death in 1756.

The City Hall Accommodations.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

I read with great interest some two weeks ago your editorial on a new city hall which was right to the point and deserves the attention of the powers that be. Now, this week, Judge Kennedy has added emphasis to the same by his protest to the accommodation that is given to his department by the inadequate and disgraceful accommodations of the police department.

May I ask you to republish the enclosed extract published in a Newton paper some weeks ago which had some good points in it.

"Every little while we hear something said about a new city hall. The time is not far distant when that question will have to be settled, and proper accommodations given to our city government. Within the last few weeks or months quite a little has been said in regard to this matter, and the sooner the city fathers grasp the situation and decide to have new quarters, the less expensive it will be. Why would it not be a good idea to appoint a commission of the same class of men as the last boulevard commission, say one living near each railway station in the city of Newton, to look into this question and report to the city government upon some location, so that residents living in all parts of the city might have their interests looked after?"

THE REAL CLEVELAND.

HE IS AN ABSTEMIOUS, DIGNIFIED CHIVALROUS, DEVOUT MAN.

The truth with regard to President Cleveland, as it is known to those who know him most intimately—in his public and private life, abroad and at home—is that he is an exceptionally temperate, or even an abstemious man, both with regard to what he drinks and what he eats. Mr. Cleveland is not only a rigorously self-respecting man, maintaining in all places and at all times the dignity of his great office, a fine sense of what is due to his own manhood, and a most chivalrous respect and honor for womanhood, but he is also a religious, a devout man, who zealously conforms his conduct to his principles and beliefs. A statement made by any one which in any manner or degree conflicts with this is absolutely, maliciously false and slanderous, the statement of Rev. Dr. Lansing being especially so.—(Philadelphia Ledger, Rep.)

$100 Reward $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing the work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. ## THE OTHER SIDE.

Mr. James P. Tolman presents the other side, in a communication in another column, of those who think that our schools are worth all that they cost, and who think that the reputation of the Newton schools as being the most expensive of any city in the Commonwealth is of great advantage to Newton, as it brings great numbers of desirable citizens here, who have children to educate.

All discussion of the question is valuable, as it will enable the authorities and tax-payers to make up their minds as to whether the expenditure pays.

There are two sides to the question, of course, one that of the parents who have children in the schools, and who wish them to have every advantage that money can procure, and the other that of those whose children are already educated, and those who have no children.

Newton's schools would stand higher than those of Somerville, or any like city, in any event, as the character of our population is higher, and the average of wealth and culture is far above that of most cities, so that parents need not fear bad associations for their children.

This may do quite as much to attract parents here, as the expensive reputation of the schools.

The question that affects the city, however, is, whether parents who come here for our schools, come in such numbers as to compensate for their contributions to our tax list, for the great cost of our schools, and also whether they remain after the education of their children is finished. The only thing that can interfere with the growth and prosperity of Newton is our tax-rate. We have all the natural and artificial advantages for growth, and we are in the direct line of progress, but if the tax rate becomes too high, neither the high reputation of our schools, nor all our natural advantages can save the city.

As our school expenses are the largest item in our expense account, it is natural that they should receive the most attention from those in charge of the financial interests of the city, who wish to keep the tax rate down to moderate proportions, and they have given repeated warnings against extravagance to the school board, it must be confessed without much effect. The latter see only the schools, but the former have to look at not only the schools, but the highways, street lighting, police, fire department, and all the hundred and one expenses that go to make up a well-governed and inviting city. They are as much interested in the success of our school system as the school committee itself, and their desire to ascertain if all the expenditures are necessary and wise should not be regarded as an impertinence. They have to provide the ways and means of raising money for all city expenses, as well as for schools, and they have to bear all the responsibility if the tax-rate is higher than the tax-payers think desirable.

The Detroit plan of giving the use of vacant land to the worthy poor is being imitated by Boston and many other cities, and it has been suggested that it could be tried to great advantage in Newton. Although there is not the need for it in Newton that there is in Boston, yet the facilities are greater and it would seem to offer a very easy relief to what cases there may be. Not only the unemployed having families, but others who are employed a part of the time may be benefited by this. Also there are often grown up children, or men in families, or men too old to work in the mills, who can do something in this line. It seems so very feasible and inexpensive that it is almost a shame that Newton should not start out in the procession. It is hoped that the matter will be taken up by the Relief societies of Newton. In Detroit a commission took charge of the matter, accepted about 430 of the several thousand acres offered, had them ploughed, harrowed and staked off into lots of from one quarter to one half acre each. The cost of breaking up the lots was about $8.45 each, and 945 lots were assigned, although there were 3,000 applications, two-thirds of which could not be granted for lack of funds. The lots were taken care of by the people, and yielded about 15 bushels of potatoes per lot, and large quantities of other vegetables and by this means some 1000 families were able to get through the year without applying for relief. Besides the saving to the city; there was the great advantage of cultivating habits of industry, and a relish for outdoor work, and as the work was done by the people themselves, the lot owners maintained their self-respect, and felt that they were supporting themselves. The plan is to be repeated in Detroit this year on an even greater scale. This is the time to inaugurate the work in Newton this year, and there would be no trouble in securing land, as we have hundreds of acres unoccupied.

HEARINGS on the question of including all the towns about Boston in one general head as far as the water supply is concerned, have been held at the State House, this week, and have been very lively ones. The bill seems to have been framed entirely in the interests of Boston and the rights and welfare of outside towns which do not, and will not benefit by the scheme for twenty years, at least, have been entirely disregarded. Cambridge, Newton, Waltham and Brookline, which have spent a great deal of money for their water supply, and have carefully provided for the future, are very unfairly treated by the bill, and they are making a very vigorous remonstrance. Newton, especially, is not interested in the question of Boston's water supply, and will not be for thirty years, if ever. Besides our city water is noted as being the purest in the state, while Boston's is about the reverse, so that Newton would be damaged by being included in the same system.

Towns that have an inadequate system, like Malden and Revere, may think it to their advantage to join with Boston, but they have not expended two and a half millions in providing a system of water works, that will be ample for all needs for thirty years to come. In fact this whole Metropolitan idea is being engineered for the purpose of getting the surrounding towns to help Boston out. We are assessed a large sum for the Metropolitan Park commission, but have so far had none of the money expended in Newton, and many of the other assessments levied upon us for Greater Boston are of little advantage. Mayor Bothwell gave a vigorous denunciation of the scheme at the hearings, and was supported by Cambridge, Brookline and Waltham.

THE death of Hon. Leverett Saltonstall is a great loss to Newton, of which he has long been one of its most prominent and public-spirited citizens. He was always interested in what pertained to the welfare of the city, and helped to make Chestnut Hill one of the most charming villages in Newton. He was a man of strong character, a gentleman of the old school, and always commanded respect for his uprightness of character, and advanced ideas on moral and political questions. He always enjoyed public confidence and always deserved it.

WASHINGTON street is soon to be double-tracked from Brighton to Oak Square, and something ought to be done to induce the West End to extend its tracks up Tremont street to Park, so that Newton people would not be obliged to take the dangerous walk from Oak Square to Newton, if they are obliged to patronize these cars after dark. Tremont street could be widened now at a very small expense, and probably most of the land needed would be given free of cost to the city.

MAYOR CURTIS of Boston does not give much encouragement that the connecting link between the Boston and Newton boulevards will be built right away. Like some private citizens Boston is suffering from a lack of money.

No one is in the swim now without a cold in the head as the result of the weather the past few weeks. Even the doctors have it.

Paul The Apostle.

An event of great local interest Wednesday evening was the presentation of Mr. J. Eliot Trowbridge's Oratorio, of "Paul the Apostle," in Eliot Hall, for the benefit of the Central Congregational church of Newtonville. The text was adapted and arranged by Mr. Granville B. Putnam of West Newton. The soloists were Mrs. Jennie Patrick Walker, soprano; Miss Gertrude Edmonds, contralto; Mr. Geo. J. Parker, tenor; Dr. Geo. R. Clark, bass.

The oratorio is divided into three parts: "Paul at Philippi," "Paul at Ephesus," and "Paul at Rome." The music is of the work is highly creditable and there is much that is commendable, notably in the chorus numbers, "Thou was Baptized and Rejoiced," "Great is Diana," and the finale, "The Time of his Departure." The opening overture is pleasing but rather light. The bass recitative, "Now as Paul was Forbidden," is dignified. The second part opens with a bass recitative, "Paul then came to Ephesus," but it was not until the chorus "Great is Diana of the Ephesians," that the enthusiasm of the audience was manifested. The male quartet "Grace be unto you," and double quartet, "When the brethren heard of his coming," were received with marked approval. In the third part the bass recitative and aria, "I know whom I have believed," is broad and impressive and gained the favor of the evening. The soloists sang their respective numbers in a thoroughly artistic manner and the chorus did excellent work in the second and third sections of the Oratorio. Mr. Trowbridge conducted with ability and the orchestra acquitted itself admirably under his direction. Miss Louise Trowbridge displayed much skill as the pianist of the evening.

—Monday evening the male members of Waban society were seen to arrive at the station with various suspicious looking bundles and boxes, the contents of which were used later in the evening. About 7:45 lights were visible in the village hall, and soon after a party of "masked men" and "veiled ladies" began to arrive. There were peasant girls and court ladies from over the sea, cow boys from the "wild west," clowns from the circus and dolls from the puppet show. Literature, music and the stage had their respective parts. For Trilby, Svengali and Gecko were there, and those far famed little girls familiarly called "Two Little Girls in Blue," and even "Charlie's Aunt" came from Brazil where the nuts come from for the occasion. In short, there was enough in variety and number to make a merry time and give good opportunities for dancing. ## FUNERAL SERVICES.

REMAINS OF HON. LEVERETT SALTONSTALL COMMITTED TO THE GRAVE.

The remains of Hon. Leverett Saltonstall were committed to the grave yesterday in Salem, his native city.

The funeral party arrived in Salem just before 3 o'clock and was at once driven to the North Church, where many old neighbors and relatives of the family had assembled to pay their last respects. The choir sang "Lead Kindly Light," after which the venerable pastor of the church read the King's Chapel burial service, and spoke very briefly of the loss to the state in the death of such a man, and gave a few words of sympathy for the family. Then the choir sang "Abide with Me," after which the remains were taken to the Harmon Grove cemetery and deposited in the family lot.

Newton Savings Bank.

The first day of the new quarter, April 10th, the Bank made a net gain of over $12,000 in deposits, taking in amounts of all sizes from $1 to $1,000. At the close of business April 10, the total assets of the Bank footed up $2,751,983 61.

Lasell Notes.

Bishop Vincent of the M. E. church was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bragdon last week.

School reopened, after the Easter holidays, on Wednesday at 12:10 p. m.

In noticing the pupils' musical rehearsal of April 9, the name of Miss Kate Plummer, teacher of the organ, was accidentally omitted. Miss Baker did both her instructor and herself credit by her expressive rendering of organ music on that occasion, the fine vocalization possessed by the school being admirably adapted for this purpose, and giving the place of an organ exceedingly well.

On Wednesday evening, April 10, a party heard Mrs. Baldwin read at the M. E. church in the village.

Thursday evening brought a nice little surprise to those spending the holidays at the seminary—an orchestra in the gymnasium to speed the flying feet.

John Bragdon was home from Williams College for a few days during Easter vacation.

The Handel and Haydn society's rendering of the Passion music, April 12, was too good to be passed by, and those who attended were well repaid.

A party visited the city, sightseeing, on Friday last.

Mr. Austin T. Sylvester gave one of his war talks about the attack in Baltimore, upon the Mass. Sixth Regiment on the 19th of April, 1861, supplementing his remarks with the work done by Gov. John A. Andrew, on the same day in Boston, and paying a pleasing and revealing testimony to Pres. Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Fred Barlow, with Miss Lena Barlow as piano accompanist, rendered very finely and with spirit, several patriotic airs on the violin. Mrs. J. L. Atwood sang "The Spangled Banner," in a manner that made the audience join enthusiastically in the chorus. The board of officers of last year were re-elected.

D., pastor of the Eliot Congregational church officiating. The parlors were tastefully decorated with palms, hydrangeas and Easter lilies. Miss Lucy Cobb was bridesmaid and Mr. Ernest Nickerson best man. The bride was gowned in white satin, wore a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The affair was a quiet one owing to a recent death in the family. Following the ceremony a reception was held. Friends were present from the Newtons, Brookline, Boston and Andover. At its close Mr. and Mrs. Cobb departed on their wedding tour. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

—At the last meeting of the West Newton Woman's club, Miss Green of Providence, spoke on "Women of the Renaissance," as compared with the women of today." She said that the legal condition of women in any country was an evidence of their social condition, and their legal and social progress is an evidence of advanced civilization. Spain and Japan were the first countries to open the doors of their Universities to women. In this country there are now more than 100 colleges to which women may be admitted, and all the professions are open to them. In most countries women are legal heirs to the throne, and in France when the Salic law was in force, they could reign as regents, during the minority of their children. During the reign of Queen Mary of England, women were appointed to act as judges, one of whom sat on the bench with male judges. Several women occupied a professor's chair in Bologna and other universities in the middle ages. The medical profession was the first to admit women; law and theology following. Women have been ordained as preachers in most of the different religious denominations. They have the right of full suffrage in two of the United States and two of the British colonies. Partial suffrage is given in all the British colonies, Hawaii, and thirty of the United States. In answer to a question, Miss Green said that in Massachusetts a father had the first right to the custody of his children, but in case of a separation, the mother is usually allowed by the judge, the custody of minors. She has no power to appoint a guardian if the father be alive. Miss Green was listened to with the closest attention and gratified the audience by her clear and concise statement of facts, in a bright, pleasing manner. Mrs. Wheeler contributed to the enjoyment of the afternoon by singing two songs very sweetly. The president, Mrs. Walton, gave a brief report of the State Federation at Dorchester, on April

—There was a large attendance at the services in the Baptist church Easter Sunday morning. The decorations were extremely beautiful and tasteful, consisting of an elaborate arrangement of Easter lilies, hydrangeas, palms and cut flowers. Rev. E. P. Burit delivered the sermon, incidentally alluding to the character of the day and its religious observance. The music was furnished by the regular church choir and an elaborate program was rendered under the direction of Mr. Everet T. Burdon, organist. There was a Sunday school concert in the evening. The pastor spoke on "Easter Thoughts" and the children sang carols. There was also a very impressive responsive Scripture service. A service of baptism preceded the Easter concert.

—The Easter observances in the Congregational church were of a very interesting character and the attendance was large despite the inclement character of the day. The floral decorations were very elaborate. There was a profusion of Easter and Calla lilies, groups of rare exotics and beautiful cut flowers. The quartet choir rendered appropriate music at the morning service under the direction of Organist A. F. Ferry and the pastor, Rev. Dr. T. P. Prudden, delivered a most interesting and impressive sermon. A Sunday school concert was given in the afternoon a fine program being prepared for that under the direction of Superintendent H. B. Day. The exercises comprised scripture readings, recitations, carols, quartet and solo numbers.

—The benefit concert for Miss Lillian Smith, the blind soprano, a pupil of the New England Conservatory of Music, was an artistic and financial success. The City Hall was well filled and the really fine program was thoroughly enjoyed by an appreciative yet discriminating audience. The artists, all from the Newtonville conservatory, volunteered their services. They were Miss Maude Beece, Miss Gertrude Rennyson and Miss Anna R. Hickish soprano; Mrs. Carrie Carper Mills and Miss Pauline Woodman mezzo-soprano; Miss Marie Connor, violinist; Mr. Armand Fortin, tenor; Mr. Frank E. Morse, baritone; Mr. Homer Eaton and Mr. Charles Beece, basses; and a string quartet comprising Mr. Daniel Fisher, Mr. Horatio B. Tower, Mr. George Porter, Mr. George Benton, and with Miss Rose Cummins and Mr. Walter Kugler, accompanist, and a vocal solo.

The chorus was conducted by Signor Augusto Rotoli and was one of the finest ever heard in the City Hall. The voices were admirably selected and the concerted work evidenced careful training and a high degree of quality and power that charms through its harmonic and soothing influence.

BABY LOUISE.

I'm in love with you, Baby Louise,
With your silken hair and your soft brown eyes,
And the dreamy smile that in them lies,
And the faint, sweet smile you brought from the stars,
God's sunshine, Baby Louise.

When you fold your hands, Baby Louise,
Your hands like a fairy's, so tiny and fair,
With a pretty, innocent, saintlike air,
Are you trying to think of some angel taught prayer
You learned above, Baby Louise?

I'm in love with you, Baby Louise,
Why you never raise your beautiful head!
But some day, little one, your cheek will grow red
With a flush of delight to hear the words said, "I love you," Baby Louise.

Do you hear me, Baby Louise?
I've sung your praises for nearly an hour, Yet your dark fringed eyelids droop lower and lower,
And you've gone to sleep, like a weary flower, Ungrateful Baby Louise!

DELAYED DISPATCH.

I had never been left alone in charge of the office before. It was a cold, blustery day in January, one of those dreary winter days that make one feel so melancholy and blue, the wind shrieking about the building and the snow falling thickly in great white flakes, which seemed to be vying with each other for a comfortable spot on which to fall when reaching the friendly bosom of earth. Old Sol had not favored us with a smile all day, but had sulkily hidden his face behind the gray restless clouds. It was truly a dismal afternoon.

The office building in which I was domiciled was one of those dreary old country stations which seemed to be dropped along the side of the railroad track at intervals without an effort at making them other than what they are, both uncomfortable and unsightly.

The little town of B— was a sleepy little village of about 900 inhabitants, built down in a valley, surrounded by hills, from which flowed an abundance of beautiful, clear, pure spring water, supplying the humble, contented citizens. Today the place presented a picturesque appearance. The snow had been falling heavily during the night, and the trees, fences, house-tops, bushes and streets were completely covered with the "beautiful."

The principal street of the village ended at the foot of the long winding hill which served as a coasting place for the merry young people. The only sign of life about the place this memorable afternoon was the occasional jingle of sleighbells wafted to my ears on the frosty air as some farmer's boy took advantage of the deep snow to exhibit his new sleigh, and a merchant now and then coming to the station for his small shipments. One or two disconsolate looking tramps passed my office, trudging along through the snow, casting an envious glance in my direction as I sat in the bow window.

This cold wintry day, as I sat in the little office listening intently to the tick of the two instruments on the table in front of me, little did I dream that it was to be the one eventful day of my life. Looking from the windows, I could see east and west of me the straight line of track stretching away like two silver reptiles running side by side over a vast white sheet. A short distance north of the office was the old woollen mill of Bartlett & Sons, from which issued the sound of the merry wheels as they hummed in busy unison with the click of the looms, keeping company with my wandering thoughts.

At a distance of perhaps a quarter of a mile on each side of my office were two curves, preventing my seeing a train approach the station from either direction until the shrill whistle of the engine called for my signal or down brakes. I had just learned telegraphy, or thought I had, having studied it about four months, and had become proficient enough, as my sanguine teacher avowed, to fill the place with perfect safety while he made a pleasure trip to Louisville, the center of gravity for him. I remember I had serious misgivings as to my ability to take care of the office work and sat with tears trembling on my eyelashes long after the train bearing my only assistance had disappeared and felt very much depressed, as though on the eve of some great calamity.

To throw off this dreadful feeling I walked to the waiting room and back several times, humming a popular air to keep up my spirits. I think I had been thus occupied an hour or so when I heard the train dispatcher at "M." giving an order to the operator at Wilmington for No. 48, a freight train coming east. It read: "Train No. 48, engine 236, has until eleven ten (11:10) a. m. to run to Raysville for No. 11, engine 245.—R. G. L."

I went to the table and copied the order as it was given, simply doing so to pass the time, and heard the operator at Wilmington receive it and give the signatures of both conductor and engineer of No. 48, the dispatcher giving him the correct time. Then I noted Wilmington reporting No. 48 out of his station at 10:40 a. m. After an interval of half an hour or so the operator at "M." asked if there were any orders for No. 11, receiving a negative answer from the dispatcher. All this I noted casually, not thinking for a moment that it had the slightest interest for me, other than something to copy, and in blissful ignorance that we were on the verge of a terrible catastrophe.

In a few moments, while lazily gazing west from my window, I saw a hazy, dark mist curling up over the snow capped trees in the distance, which looked very much like smoke from an engine, and while I was conjecturing as to what it might mean I heard the signal for my target as it sung around the curve into sight. It struck me as being exceedingly strange that No. 48, a freight train, was running to "M.," regardless of the limited, and I concluded to inform the dispatcher of the unusual situation, telling him "No. 48 is coming." He answered "O. K.," and then I gave them my signal to go ahead. Just as they were rounding the east curve, the caboose just disappearing, "M." called me and asked, "Is No. 48 on the siding?" I told him "No," that they had just left the station, giving the time they had passed. His reply: "My God, has No. 48 gone? No. 11 is pulling out. They will collide. Can't you get No. 48?" My hair felt as though it was raising off my head, chills chased themselves up and down my spine, and the cold perspiration poured down my pallid cheeks as I rushed with all speed and less grace from the office and frantically waved a white apron I wore and which I tore off as I ran, but the crew of the freight failed to look back as the caboose sailed round the curve, and my heart almost failed me as I realized that the only hope now was to catch No. 11 before they left "M."

I ran back into my office and sank into a chair, no longer able to stand on my feet, scarcely breathing until in a few—seconds the dispatcher called me, saying, "We've got No. 11." Were ever words so sweet to mortal ears? The tick of that little brass sonder as it rang those words through the room was like sweet music, so welcome were they to me.

How did they get No. 11? I will tell you. When I told the dispatcher that No. 48 was beyond recall, he opened a window in mad haste and screamed to the people on the platform below him, "For God's sake, stop that train!" And they, realizing that something was terribly wrong, rushed after the rapidly disappearing train, frantically waving handkerchiefs and umbrellas, screaming like madmen, finally attracting the attention of the rear brakeman just as No. 11 was going out of sight and hearing. They backed up on a siding and waited, and soon the freight train pulled into "M." station, the crew as unconcerned as though they had not just escaped a smashup and the possibilities of instant death a few moments before.

A white faced operator, with trembling lips, leaned out of the window and asked them, "Haven't you forgotten something?" And the forgotten order was suddenly remembered, but too late for them.

The whole crew was of course discharged, and I—well, when those welcome words were ticked off that dear old sonder, telling me that No. 11's crew and passengers were safe, I lost consciousness and only came back to life in time to hear the conductor of No. 11 say to his engineer: "Poor girl, she has fainted. She is almost frightened to death."

Had I not warned the dispatcher in time for him to catch the passenger train, there would have been a horrible collision, and we can only picture to ourselves the horrors accompanying such a catastrophe.

My reward was a position with the company and a handsome gold watch. I staid with the company but a short time, however, for I never could cure myself of the horror I had of railroad telegraphing produced by my terrible experience that wintry day in January, and as I write this story, sitting here in my cozy little sitting room by a bright coal fire, watching the flames creeping around the black diamonds in the grate, as I go over the scenes and situations of that dreary afternoon, I shudder and wonder if old Father Time will ever enable me to forget that dreadful experience, so that I can speak of it all without a shudder.—North-west Magazine.

Russian Traits.

The Russians are lazy and effeminate. In the winter they seldom walk, and when they do so they crawl along, muffled up in furs, and do not move with any briskness. One sees a great many military officers in Moscow, and their want of smartness is noticeable. Numbers are always to be seen lounging about the boulevards with their hands in the pockets of their gray overcoats. These boulevard warriors do not look very formidable. The Cossacks are dirty looking ruffians, badly dressed and mounted on small horses, which are said to be excellent animals, possessing wonderful staying power. I was told by an officer that the Cossacks have degenerated very much and have been spoiled by being turned into regulars. The Cossacks of the Don especially have deteriorated, but those of the Caucasian regions are fine soldiers.

One of the worst characteristics of the Russians is their dishonesty in trade. In Moscow, even in many of the best shops, one has to bargain for purchases, as a much higher price than is expected is always asked. In this way foreigners in Moscow no doubt frequently pay three or four times the necessary price for articles. In the same way one has to bargain for everything, and this, in my opinion, constitutes one of the most disagreeable things connected with life in Russia. One always imagines that one is being swindled, and too frequently, no doubt, the idea is not a vain one. That the Russians are a dirty people is well known. Very few houses have even a foothold in them, and although there are fine public baths the Russians, even of the upper classes, seldom make use of them. Indeed I believe the lower orders are cleaner in this respect.—Westminster Review.

His Broken Rest.

It seems the tax collector had been diligently searching for Oscar a considerable time when one morning he discovered the descendant of the O'Flahertys issuing from his house in Tite street. The collector demanded certain payments, which Oscar refused to make. "But, Mr. Wilde, this is your house. You occupy it. I've just seen you coming out of it. You must live there." "Most positively I do not." "At any rate," retorted the now slightly exasperated man, "you do what legally constitutes living in the house. You sleep there. You don't deny that." "But, my dear man," Oscar answered languidly, stifling a yawn, "you must consider I sleep so badly."—Chap Book.

The Cost of Our Schools.

Your paper has made such frequent editorial criticism of the cost of our Newton public schools that I am moved to enter a mild protest. I do not believe that your position fairly represents the parents and taxpayers of the city and I hope you may be able to find room for this communication so that the valuable influence of your paper may not be turned entirely in what I conceive to be a mistaken direction.

You say that our schools cost more than those of Somerville. Good! We want them to. Why did I select Newton for a home? Because desiring to live in a suburb of Boston I chose that one which seemed to me to offer the greatest advantages for rearing a young family and chief among these advantages was the high character of her schools. Why have my neighbors moved here from Somerville, Belmont, Malden, Lynn, Chelsea and Wellesley? Largely for the reason I have named.

You say that we pay our superintendent of Schools a higher salary than is done in Somerville. That is right. When our committee needed a new superintendent they searched the state to get the best that could be found. The principal of our High school is said to receive a salary of $600 higher than is paid in Somerville. It is to the credit of our committee that when they found a man worthy to be in this position they used every effort to find the best possible person for the place, and availing themselves of the wide information of the State Board of Education they chose one of the very best teachers in New England. One of my children has been through the school during his regime and I look forward with great satisfaction to the prospect of another entering next fall. The school seems to be a model in its harmonious operation and the development of its pupils is on a high intellectual and moral plane.

Our female teachers are paid more than in other cities. I am very glad to have this evidence of the desire of our school management to secure picked teachers instead of being content with the average.

When Newton enters the race for the cheapest schools we shall see a change in the character of those who seek her for a home. But that it may be a long time before she swerves from her ambition to have the best schools is the earnest hope of your respectful subscriber. JAMES P. TOLMAN.

West Newton, April 15, 1895.

My Blood Was Impure.

"I was all run down and troubled with dyspepsia. My blood was so bad, that I had rash on my face, but after I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla it quickly disappeared. I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as the best Spring medicine. Katie A. Costello, 11 Elm St., Cambridgeport, Mass.

N. E. FIREMEN'S UNION

H. H. EASTERBROOK OF THIS CITY ITS ORGANIZER.

The New England Firemen's union has been successfully organized with 21 charter organizations: the Boston Red Jacket of Cambridge, Torment and Baw Boese of Gardner, Essex, Hudson, Hyde Park, Lawrence, Marblehead, Phenix of Marblehead, Newton, New London, Conn., Templeton and Waltham veteran associations and Kennebec 1 of Brunswick, Me., Androscoggin 2 of Topsham, Me., Quinsigamong 1 of Hopkinton, Enon 1 of Wenham, Pepperell 1 of Pepperell, Amazon 2 of Essex and Natick 1 of Natick, R. I.

In recognition of his services in organizing the union and preparing the constitution and rules adopted, H. H. Easterbrook of this city was unanimously elected a life member.

The officers elected are R. H. Brigham of Hudson, pres., W. N. Clifford of Waltham, vice pres., Barge, David Burt of Brunswick, Me., Hon. George Williams of New London, Conn., R. F. Wordell of Natick, R. I., and H. S. Hussey of Boston, vice pres., T. C. Thompson of Hyde Park, sec'y, Chief K. I. Frial of Hopkinton, treas.; tournament committee, H. H. Easterbrook of Boston, chairman, C. M. Given of Topsham, Me., G. S. Hodgman of Gardner, J. A. Sample of Natick, R. I., C. B. Ware of New London, Conn., N. L. Wadden of Marblehead and G. A. Davis of Waltham.

The union has passed a resolution indorsing the second Sunday in June as the men's memorial day, and requesting all active and veteran firemen to unite and in an appropriate manner decorate the graves of deceased comrades.

Henry Ward Beecher once informed a man who came to him complaining of gloomy and despondent feelings, that what he most needed was a good cathartic, meaning, of course, such a medicine as Ayer's Cathartic Pills, every dose being effective.

MME. NORDICA IN WALTHAM.

GREAT SONGSTRESS APPEARS AT TESTIMONIAL CONCERT IN WATCH CITY.

Talent, beauty and fashion gathered in the Park Theatre, Waltham, Saturday evening, when Mme. Lillian Nordica of grand opera fame tendered a testimonial concert to her cousin Mme. Anna Howe Hernandez, the well known pianist and teacher.

The stage presented a very pretty appearance with its elaborate decoration of Easter lilies.

The artists were each warmly received and responded to enthusiastic recalls.

Mr. C. N. Allen violinist and Wulf Fries cellist assisted the principals. Mme. Nordica and Mme. Hernandez were the recipients of several magnificent bouquets from friends, one of Mme. Nordica's being a coronet crown. The audience was a fashionable one. Deleagations of the society set were present from Boston, Cambridge, Newton and the neighboring suburbs, including a large number of young ladies from Lasell seminary. After the concert Mme. Nordica held a reception in the green room when the pupils of Mme. Hernandez were presented to her. The concert was the most notable given in Waltham for years.

No small objection which young folks had to the old-time spring medicines was their nauseousness. In our day, this objection is removed and Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most powerful and popular of blood-purifiers, is as pleasant to the palate as a cordial.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.The attraction of the Hollis Street Theatre this week will be Mr. Augustin Daly's Company of comedians including Mr. Henry Dixey, Mr. Jas. Lewis, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert and others, who will present a repertoire of their New York successes, arranged as follows: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, evenings, and Wednesday matinee, "The Great Expectations" and "The Rehearsal;" Thursday evening, "The Rehearsal;" Friday evening and Saturday matinee, "The Great Expectations" and "The Rehearsal;" Saturday evening, "The Rehearsal."

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE.The Hanlons for many years have had a monopoly of the entertainments which are, perhaps, best described as pantomimic spectacles. They have had imitators, but none who have succeeded, as in order to compete with the Hanlons it is necessary to expend a vast amount of money, as the results they secure are expensive. The great reputation of the Hanlons, their fertility of invention, their vast experience, their skill in making and using startling mechanical effects, their originality in forming artistic and beautiful stage pictures, their individual cleverness in directing and managing a play in which hundreds of actors are used, and their great income, which is the legitimate result of the reputation they have now, make it impossible for any one else to successfully compete with them in their chosen field of work. "Fantasma" has always been a great success and the Hanlons' word may be safely taken for fact when they announce that in its present form the great spectacle is better and more pleasing than ever before. "Fantasma" appeals alike to old and young and a succession of crowded houses may be expected at the Bowdoin Square Theatre.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE."A Green Goods Man" will hold the mirror up to nature at the Grand Opera House the week of April 22d and will be found interesting and entertaining as in it are shown the various practices of the green goods reentry and the play is of much value inasmuch as it may teach a lesson by truthfully showing how the victims are fooled and robbed of their money. The play is an out and out comedy and deals with the green goods question in a humorous yet none the less truthful manner. The well known comedian, Paul Dresser is at the head of the large company engaged in the presentation of the piece and singers, dancers and comedians abundant will aid him. One week is the length of "A Green Goods Man's" engagement and the usual Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday matinees will be given during that time.

The last week in April at the Grand Opera House will be taken up by Barney Ferguson and Barney Fagan in "Duffy's Blunders." Later will come Richard Golden in "Old Jed Prouty" and Billy Barry in "The Rising Generation," the two latter being return engagements.

A grand bill has already been secured for the testimonial to be tendered W. H. Bartholomew at the Grand Opera House Friday afternoon, April 26. The particulars will be announced in the Boston Sunday papers.

THE GRAHAM CONCERT.The grand testimonial which is to be tendered to John Graham at the Boston Theatre next Sunday evening has reached such a stage that it can be safely predicted it will be the event of the season. The host of talent who will positively appear has made it necessary to adopt the continuous plan from 6 to 11 o'clock to allow all to have an opportunity of entertaining. This will be particularly advantageous to out of town patrons as it will enable them to witness several hours of the grandest array of talent ever brought together, and still reach home at an early hour. The orders and sales for seats has been unprecedented and it is imperative for the Board of choice seats to order immediately. Upwards of fifty artists have volunteered and will positively appear, including such well known entertainers as Maggie Cline, J. N. Kelly, Sam Barnard, Wm. Jerome, and Lizzie N. Raymond. Florrie West will make her last American appearance for some time assisted by Bernard Blynn, Dave Ware, Ed. Gus Williams, Jimmy Hoey, Ward and Vokes, Johnnie Page, John Pattern, John Kernell, Dudley Prescott, Eddie Leslie, Fritz Geize, Olive Smith, Eugene O'Rourke, Richmond and Glenroy, and Frank Morgan. Besides this list of all the leading attractions now playing in Boston will send one or more representatives. The Lynn Cadet Band and an enlarged orchestra will furnish the music.

BOSTON THEATRE.From the grand musical menu of the German opera to Manager Tompkins' ballet spectacle, the "Black Crook" is a change of considerable moment, and this is just what has taken place at the Boston Theatre, where the latter production has entered upon a fortnight's engagement, with all the prospects of a financial as well as a popular success. The scenery is unquestionably brilliant and the final transfiguration is as original as it is elaborate. The dramatic characters are entrusted to people who can read their lines not only intelligibly, but intelligently and well, which is a rare virtue in companies engaged to present extravaganzas of this character. All who saw the "Black Crook" at the Boston Theatre last season should be sure to "take it in again," for they will find everything brightened up, some new and startling electrical effects, an enlarged company, greatly enlarged ballet, and some altogether novel and very clever specialties.

PARK THEATRE.Hoyle's "A Temperance Town" is the attraction at the Park Theatre. Two seasons ago it had a phenomenal run of 26 weeks. The theme is one in which New Englanders are especially interested, dealing as it does with the peculiar liquor laws existing in certain sections of the New England states. Everyone has seen the counterpart of Mink Jones, an apparently worthless rascal, who would part with the clothes on his back for liquor. The village clergyman, whose clerical head gets the better of his heart, is another well-known character, as is Uncle Joe, the oldest man in town. Very few changes have been made in the cast since first presented in Boston.

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds, Mass., and in this town the estimate is that which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

Literary Notes.

The Story of Sonny Sahib, by Mrs. Everard Cotes (Sara Jeannette Duncan) is the title of a new story to be full of interest for older as well as younger readers, which will be published immediately by D. Appleton & Co.

S. R. Crockett's new book, Bog Myrtle and Peat, is said to contain many of the best and most characteristic stories the author ever wrote. It comprises adventure, tales, idylls, histories, tragedies, humors, tales of Kirk, and an epilogue in Praise of Galloway. The book is expected with much interest, since it is the first collection of tales by Mr. Crockett which has appeared since his Stickit Minister.

Nordau's Degeneration, the striking study of modern mental and aesthetic tendencies, just published by D. Appleton & Co., is said by one American reviewer to be likely to take the place of Trilby as the most popular book of the year.

Into the Highways and Hedges is the title of a remarkable work of fiction by F. F. Montrose, which is attracting marked attention among English readers. Messrs. D. Appleton & Co. are the American publishers.

Eve's Ransom, a new novel by George Gissing, author of New Grub Street, Denzil Quarrier, etc., is published by D. Appleton & Co. in their Town and Country Library. Mr. Gissing's strong and significant work is exhibited at its best in this well-worked study of London and provincial life. The London Academy has said recently, "Now the public appears ready to receive in the same literary parcel Rudyard Kipling's jungle epic, Mr. Crockett, Mr. Weyman, and Mr. George Gissing."

Political and Otherwise.

There is one place in the city where it can be truthfully said the same rights and privileges are accorded both sexes—the central police station. Its a case of a hard pine bunk be it man or woman and the stuffy, impure air with its redolent Cheesecake odors, is distributed for equal fairness to the prisoner in skirts or masculine attire. The accommodations provided at headquarters are not only exceedingly primitive but utterly unfit for the habitation of even its transient patrons. The health conditions are way below par and it reflects no credit on the city, that vigorous and oft repeated protests have had no effect so far in remedying a state of affairs that would not be tolerated in a well managed country town.

There was a lot of talk at the meeting of the aldermen, Monday evening, about the proper location for a feed wire. An interested spectator confounded it with the tube which usually projects from a glass receptacle. "That's the only feeder," said he, "that I know anything about and I have a notion that it is operated in some degree by electricity, for some time it has been a good deal of kicking if it fails to work well."

To present a picture of all the comforts of home must be a trying experience for the man who has been walking the floor two or three nights with one of those little angels of the household while its domestic mamma in a downy couch is volunteering suggestions between sundry cat naps. The old and trite saying comes in quite pat here. A man never knows what he may do if he husbands his resources.

Pretty society girls hate to peel onions. They had rather be in at the peal of the wedding bells.

The administration of taffy in homeopathic doses has resulted, it is said, in the foundation of many mutual admiration societies. The article, itself, possesses an adhesive quality that wins the admiration and patronage of many ambitious fellows with a bee in their bonnet. No wheels in their caputs!

When an ordinary mortal has sufficient temerity to venture a remark expressing dissent as to the advantage of certain innovations in the method of teaching in our public schools what a great big clump must he appear to those who stand far above the common herd in an environment created only for the elect. One has heard the story of the man who had money in his mind. Loss of mind money, in the case of some of the professional ideal educators, were they to slip from their lofty eminence of theories, loss of grip might obtain. The result, therefore, would be the same. Loss of money would be inevitable.

A kitten entrusted to the tender mercy of some children ought to be provided with the patience of Job and incidentally a steel plate armor with jabsers or pinners for cruel fingers. Here's a great opportunity for the long name society to get in its work.

How can a man add to his weight? It is rumored that it can be accomplished by holding a 200 lb. lass in his lap. It can be done not without interfering with fashion's dictum. The creased trousers must go and coat sleeves, instead, will be pressed out flat like a pancake.

"A penny for your thoughts." How many of those recently examined do you suppose will make good copiers.

It would scarcely be fair to assert that our City Hall is a refuge for thieves. It is strictly a home affair. The office holders are for the most part native born citizens. There are Isaacs, there, of course and there are others.

A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm and after using it six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a most valuable remedy.—Joseph Steward, 624 Grand Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

My catarrh was afflicted with catarrh. I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as any one.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

Waltham Fighting the Park.

(Waltham Tribune.)

Another scheme from which Waltham will try its level best to keep clear is this Charles River Embankment, or Charles River Park, which looks so pretty on paper but at the same time will be the greatest elephant that Waltham ever had on its hands. Newton with its rich tax payers, wants this park but in order for her to have the system, Waltham must be drawn into it; and if the plans should be carried out as have already been suggested, it will cost the City of Watches nearly $300,000. Waltham cannot afford that expensive luxury, although there are citizens of this place who do not seem to object to the city being assessed for about $300,000 for this system of parks; as may be conjectured, they do not have to pay much of a tax themselves. It is feared this scheme will be crowded on to us yet; if we get out of it for less than $300,000 we would be quite lucky. This park is something Waltham can get along without quite nicely. The whole thing should be fought whenever it shows itself.

That scrofulous taint which has been in your blood for years, will be expelled by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

—Prof. Rhee occupied the pulpit in the Baptist church, Sunday morning and Prof. DeWolfe officiated at the evening services. There was a baptism at the latter. The music was, of course, appropriate for Easter and selections were rendered by the chorus choir. The display of flowers was magnificent. The great chancel was almost covered with palms, callas and Easter lilies.
—The Union meeting in the Baptist church, Good Friday night, was largely attended and the exercises were of an interesting and impressive character. Prof. Rhee of the Theological Institution opened the services. Remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Hughes of the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. McDaniel of the Unitarian and Rev. Mr. Noyes of the Congregational.
—Mrs. Cora Stuart Wheeler, whose readings and recitations with music have given so much pleasure to audiences in Boston and its vicinity, and whose engagements also extend to New York, is coming to Newton Centre next month, for a series of her delightful entertainments. To add to the value of these, Mrs. Wheeler upon this occasion is to generously give a large portion of the proceeds to the aid of the Indian work. Further particulars as to the course will be given later.
—The china sale under the auspices of the Morris Furber Missionary Society of the First church, Tuesday afternoon and evening, was a great success. The collection comprised some beautiful decorated pieces and sets imported from Germany and other foreign countries. Nearly everything was sold at good prices, hence there will be a handsome sum realized above expenses. Many ladies attended the sale and they were delighted with the selections made by the society for their inspection.
—The Nantucket Enquirer and Mirror of last week contained a very interesting notice of the life of Mrs. O. J. Hall, whose death occurred here April 6. Deceased was a former resident of Nantucket where she had a large circle of friends, who esteemed her for her many estimable qualities of mind and heart. Funeral services were held at her mother's home in that place, referring to which the Enquirer-Mirror says: "The remains were brought to Nantucket, where a large circle of relatives and friends assembled at the house of the bereaved mother, services being conducted by the pastor of the Baptist church, who prefaced his remarks by a feeling allusion to Mrs. Hall's devotion to the church, where formerly her voice had been heard in the song of praise, her time employed in the Sunday school, and as treasurer of the society, an interest had been displayed which made sacrifice a pleasure. A husband, aged mother, brothers, sisters and child mourn their loss." —The three-act drama, "Rebecca's Triumph" was presented with stately groupings (twenty-two tableaux) by the young ladies of the Christian Doctrine class of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Monday and Tuesday evenings. The entertainment was given under the direction of Miss Elizabeth F. Levi, who drilled the young women for the drama and tableaux. The former was cleverly interpreted and the artistic and pleasing features of the latter feature won the commendation of large and enthusiastic audiences. The parts in "Rebecca's Triumph" were distributed as follows: Mrs. E. McKean, a wealthy lady aged 40; Katie Hurley; Mrs. Delaine, a widow aged 60; Annie Hurley; Rebecca, a foundling, aged 19; Louise McKellan; Clarissa, a spinster, aged 40; Kitty Foley; Katie Connor, in charge of the house; Nettie Hurley; Gyp, a colored cook; Julia Tierney; Meg, a vagrant; Lizzie Barry; The Cooking club; Lizzie Foley; Annie Thornton; Annie Bailey; Agnes McMahon; Mary Turner; Susie Mills; Katie Mitchell; Nellie Coffey. —Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. George entertained the Villagers' club at its monthly meeting on Wednesday evening of this week. Through their courtesy it was a ladies' night—the second in the club's history, and therefore it was a gala occasion. Mr. Henry H. Kendall, the essayist of the evening, read a very interesting paper on "The Making of Money," after which, during a general discussion and universally good time, the ladies made some valuable remarks on "The Spending of Money." The Villagers have now reached their limit of twenty members and risen besides to the honor of a waiting list.

Johnson; Vestrymen, Messrs. John F. Heckman, Chas. F. Johnson, Thomas P. Ritchie, Edgar B. Sampson, Samuel L. Eaton, Arthur S. Williams, W. H. Mansfield.

—The Easter services at the Methodist church were enjoyed by a large number of people in spite of the stormy weather. The church was simply but tastefully decorated, the new pastor made a pleasant impression and the music was as usual very fine. The service was one of the finest concerts given in this place for a long time. The choir consisted of Miss Stevens and Miss Rose Edwards of Boston, sopranos; Mrs. Hyde and Miss Warren, altos; Mr. Bates and Mr. Roy, tenors; Mr. Warren, bass; Mr. Rhyder presided at the organ and Mr. Herbert Williams assisted with the cornet. —Miss Cobb and Miss Gilman met with an unfortunate accident while driving on Centre street, near Ward street, last Saturday. Their horse took fright at the steam roller and ran on to the sidewalk, where the carriage struck a tree and was stuck fast. The horse freed himself, but Miss Cobb pluckily held on to the reins and was dragged some distance, when she was forced to let go. She received some quite severe bruises, but was otherwise unharmed.
Miss Gilman was not so fortunate, as her ankle was severely injured and the small bone broken. Mr. and Mrs. Henry E.
Cobb were out driving at the same time, in Newton, and seeing a runaway horse coming towards them, they were alarmed and he used the standard road machine, Model 40 Columbia.

—The demand for Columbias is extraordinary but this bicycle is worth waiting for. Have you strayed from his home on Watertown street, Wednesday afternoon, was found last evening in Newtonville square and restored to his anxious parents.

fervor and the mercury went up to nearly 90° in the shade. The buds on the trees came out in a great hurry to welcome the warm weather. Severe thunder storms prevailed all around Newton, but no rain fell here.

—H. W. Crowell on his Columbia rode the best race of any of the contestants in the two mile handicap of the N. A. A. and belongs to him. He will ride under the colors of the association this season.

—A very pleasant subscription dance was given in Nonantum Hall last Saturday evening. The managers were John T.

—An opportunity will be given during the months of July and August to those who may desire instruction in sloyd at room 2, Bacon's block. Arrangements can be made to suit the convenience of pupils, spending only a portion of that time in Newton. The room will be open on Friday and Saturday of each week until May 18th from 1 to 3 p. m., when any information may be had. The work is sloyd, etc., will be given. Application can also be made to Miss Spear in the same building.

—Miss Abby Howes, who died in London, April 5th, was the sister of Mr. Frank H. Howes of this city. The funeral was attended by Rev. Brooke Herford a friend of the family. Miss Howes was well known for her philanthropic work, and her death is a serious loss to the world, as well as to her family. A sister, Miss Edith Howes, was with her in her last illness.
The body will be brought to this country for interment, and was expected to arrive this week.

—Three eloquent preachers are holding revival services at the Church of Our Lady, this week, and will remain next week. The preachers are Father Fidelis, Father Robert, and Father Hyacinth, and their addresses are always listened to with great interest. They do not aim to make converts from other faiths, but to explain the doctrines of their own faith and to arouse greater interest among the church goers. All who would like to hear them are cordially invited to be present at any of the services. The services are at 5 and 7 o'clock in the morning and 7.30 in the evening.

—A civil service examination for candidates for the police force was held yesterday morning. The examination was conducted by the local examining board.
There were 18 candidates who took the examination. These were Walter C. Allen, Horace A. Bailey, Sylvester J. Burke,
Eugene E. Clifford, Thomas F. Cornish,
William C. Compton, William M. Costello,
Fred C. Elwell, Charles E. Fisher, Frank B.
Fisher, Albert W. Frye, John E. Haley, Marcus G. Haley, Maurice F. Kiley, Peter J. McAleer, Henry F. Tibbitts, Frank M.
Turner and Thomas C. Owens.

—Rev. F. B. Hornbrooke gave the last of his conversations on the "King and the Book" at the residence of Mrs. W. L. Lowell of Kenrick park, on Tuesday of last week. There has been a good attendance of men and women of culture at all the meetings, from the various Newtons, Boston and Cambridge. In his talks Mr.
Hornbrooke has made Browning's great poem not only interesting and even fascinating but has given a series of character studies which have been masterly in their penetrating analysis and clear presentation.

—The fifteenth annual report of the Boston Art Students' Association, recently issued, shows that society is growing and that the year 1895 and 1896 were the most fruitful ones in the history of that association.
The following members are resident—the Newtons: Miss Lucy A. Barker, Mrs.
Elizabeth G. Baker, Miss Bertha M. Bentley, Miss G. L. Emery, Henry G. Burgess, Mrs. Charles Keisey, Warren S. Kilburn, Mrs. A. J. Mundy, Misses Harriet B. Newhall, Marion E. Nickerson, C. Thelma T.
Prescott, Mrs. Miriam P. Pearce, Louis W.
Pulsifer, Alfred H. Schrott, Henry P.
Spaulding, Misses Amy M. Sacker, Ella B.
Smith, Mabel Stuart, Elizabeth B. Treadwell and William M. Paxton. The president of the association is Mr. Holker Abbott, who resides at Wellesley Hills.

—All those who applied for certificates, preparatory to securing licenses as sixth class, (druggists), in this city have received them with the exception of William Grace and E. F. Partridge. Only fifteen licenses have been granted by the aldermen, however, up to date. The reason is that some who intended to apply for licenses did not obtain the coveted certificates from the state board of pharmacy until after the meeting of the city council Monday evening. Another batch of applications will, therefore be acted upon at the next meeting of the board.

—At the annual meeting of the Unitarian Club of Newton, held on April 18th, the following officers were elected for the year: President, Lewis E. Coffin; vice-presidents, W. P. Tyler, A. E. Bailey; secretary, J. D. Barrows; treasurer, U.
F. Rogers, Jr.; executive committee,
Walter U. Lawson, Abraham Byfield, Daniel S. Emery, J. L. Caverly, Mitchell Wing, and president and secretary, ex-officio; membership committee, J. Edward Hills, Henry W. Kendall, Reuben Ford, Wm. F. Hammett, Dr. Keneleld Winslow; music committee, F. A. Wether-bee, Chas. A. Drew, John W. Fisher; reception committee, Chas. W. Hall, Jas. B.
Fuller, Chas. F. Lord, Robert E. Mandell, Robert G. Howard; entertainment committee, A. W. Huff, F. A. Hubbard, C. B.
Coffin.

—One of the very pleasant social functions of the week was a reception given by Mr. Edward E. Howard to Miss Florence
V. Nelson of Hyde Park, at Mr. Howard's residence, 56 Galen street. Miss Nelson received with Miss Adelaide Goss of Hazlewood, the parlors where the receiving party stood were tastefully decorated with palm trees and cut flowers and presented a most attractive appearance. Miss Nelson was gown in white silk, en traine, and carried a small bouquet of Catherine Mer-met roses. Following the presentation of the guests, the company adjourned to the dining room where a dainty collation was served by Paxton. Among those present from Newton and Watertown were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Brigham, Mr. and Mrs.
H. E. Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Doane, Miss Catherine Whittemore, Miss Dora
Shields, Miss Annie Ricker, Miss Lena Ross, Miss Florence Keith, Miss Mina Evans, Miss Una Bowen, Miss Laura Howard, Mr. A. L. Howard, Mr. George Brazier, Mr. H. W. Crowell, Jr., Mr. Oscar Simmons, Mr. Ernest Springer, Mr. Marcellus Springer, Mr. George Abbott, Mr.
Howard R. Mason, Mr. Louis Shattuck, Dr. Boucher.

—The committee on rules and regulations to whom the recommendations of the superintendent was referred relative to additional teachers recommended the employment of an assistant each in the Clafin, Hyde and Wade schools. The report was accepted and its recommendations adopted.

—Mr. Mason said that there would be increased only an increase of two teachers as one had been already provided. The order does not contemplate, he added, the immediate appointment of these assistants; it allows such appointment and is really preparatory to the beginning of the next school year.

—An order offered by Mr. Ward was passed providing for the discontinuance of the use of slates and slate pencils from close of school year in June.
There were some inquiries made relative to the cost involved, as it would necessitate substitution, of course, of paper, pens and lead pencils. No definite estimate was, however, available. Mr. Ward thought the cost would not be a very considerable item. Mr. Howes said that the mass of the teachers would not undoubtedly, a source of gratification to the people of Newton.

—Orders were adopted appropriating $13,644.83 for department expenses of April; $25.30 to meet expenses of month of April for furnishing the Hyde schoolhouse; fixing the salaries of the teachers at rate of $530 per annum, dating from April 29, (an increase of $50.); granting Elizabeth F. Paddock balance of salary for present school term; granting Harriet J. Brooks, Hyde school, leave of absence from April 8 until close of present term.

—Mr. Smith reported for the committee on rules against the passage of the amendment offered by Mr. Beck providing that compensation for janitors be at rate of not less than $1.25 per day. As
Mr. Beck was not present, Mr. Smith moved that the report be laid on table.
The motion prevailed.

—Mr. Mason at this point presented a petition of 112 Newton Centre parents requesting the board to provide additional accommodations for the pupils of the Rice school. The petitioners recited the crowded condition of the Mason and Rice buildings and urged prompt action in the way of providing relief. Messrs.
Frank Edmunds, Rice and Copeland appeared as a committee representing the Newton Centre Improvement Association and urged speedy action in the matter. Mr. Edmunds said the present accommodations were inadequate and that of the children had been placed in a corridor in the Rice school. That was a source of serious misgiving for parents, especially mothers, who feared for the health of their children. The corridor was poorly lighted, possibly as well heated as other parts of the building.

—Mr. Rice said that there was considerable difference in the temperature in the corridor and the rooms of the Rice building. He did not think that the air in the corridor could be kept pure as there were few windows or other sources for providing proper ventilation and light.

—Mr. Ward said that a circular room could be secured in Bray's block at an expense of $6 per week. It was well lighted and available, in every way, he understood, for school uses. He thought it should be secured immediately and kept until the new rooms were provided.
Orders were adopted finally requiring
the city council to provide a four-room addition for the Rice building, the same to be ready at the opening of the new term in September; also requesting the city council to provide temporary accommodations for such pupils of the Rice school as could not be properly cared for there under existing conditions; also constituting the committee on schoolhouses and the local committee of Ward Six, a special committee to represent the board, with full powers, in the matter of procuring additional accommodations for the Rice school pupils.

In reply to a question, Mr. Mason said that the cost of the four-room addition would be, probably, in the vicinity of

The board adjourned at 9.15 o'clock.

MORE SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION.

THAT WAS THE PRINCIPAL TOPIC AT MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD MONDAY EVENING—CITY COUNCIL REQUESTED TO PROVIDE FOUR ADDITIONAL ROOMS IN RICE SCHOOL—BALANCE OF SEWING TEACHERS INCREASED AND PROVISION MADE FOR ADDITIONAL TEACHERS IN CLAFIN, HYDE AND WADE SCHOOLS.

At the meeting of the school board Wednesday evening, Mr. J. E. Hollis presided.

First in order came resignations and appointment of teachers, Miss Cora E.
Davis resigned as kindergarten teacher in the Underwood school, dating from May 1. The resignation was accepted and Miss Frances E. Cheney accepted to the vacancy with salary at rate of $600.

The resignation of Miss Pierce, first assistant of Eliot school was read and accepted and Miss Lillian A. Shuman appointed to the vacancy with salary at rate of $700 per annum.

Miss Blanche Townsend was appointed, an assistant in the Eliot school, with salary at rate of $620 per annum.

Supt. Aldrich presented his customary monthly report. In connection with it, he first presented a petition from residents of Ward Six favoring the introduction of a department of industrial training. The committee was earnestly requested to take the matter under advisement.
Among the signers of the petition were Mrs. Alvah Hovey, Mrs. A. F.
Flanders, Mrs. Gardner Colby, Mrs. D.
B. Clafin, Mrs. A. L. Harwood, Mrs. M.
O. Rice, Mrs. S. A. Hunter, Mrs. J.
W. Parker and Mrs. Henry D. Degen.
The petition was referred to the committee on courses of study.

The superintendent called attention to the necessity of providing additional accommodations for pupils in the Rice and Mason schools. In the former, he said, that there were 208 pupils in 4 rooms; in the latter, 351 pupils in 8 rooms. He said that in the Rice, there was pressing need for one room now to accommodate one-half of the pupils in Miss Baker's class. Another room, he added, is needed for establishing a kindergarten.
While these two rooms would provide for immediate wants, to make suitable provision for future requirements, four new rooms should be added to the Rice building. No time should be lost in bringing this matter before the city council as the new rooms should be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the school term in September.

The committee on rules and regulations to whom the recommendations of
the superintendent was referred relative
to additional teachers recommended the employment of an assistant each in the Clafin, Hyde and Wade schools. The report was accepted and its recommendations adopted.

Mr. Mason said that there would be increased only an increase of two teachers
as one had been already provided. The order does not contemplate, he added, the immediate appointment of these assistants; it allows such appointment and the people of Newton.

rate of not less than $1.25 per day. As
Mr. Beck was not present, Mr. Smith moved that the report be laid on table.
The motion prevailed.

Mr. Mason at this point presented a petition of 112 Newton Centre parents requesting the board to provide additional accommodations for the pupils of the Rice school. The petitioners recited the crowded condition of the Mason and Rice buildings and urged prompt action
in the way of providing relief. Messrs.
Frank Edmunds, Rice and Copeland appeared as a committee representing the Newton Centre Improvement Association and urged speedy action in the matter. Mr. Edmunds said the present accommodations were inadequate and that of the children had been placed in a corridor in the Rice school. That was a source of serious misgiving for parents, especially mothers, who feared for the health of their children. The corridor was poorly lighted, possibly as well heated as other parts of the building.

Mr. Rice said that there was considerable difference in the temperature in the corridor and the rooms of the Rice building. He did not think that the air in the corridor could be kept pure as there were few windows or other sources for providing proper ventilation and light.

Mr. Ward said that a circular room could be secured in Bray's block at an expense of $6 per week. It was well lighted and available, in every way, he understood, for school uses. He thought it should be secured immediately and
kept until the new rooms were provided.
Orders were adopted finally requiring
the city council to provide a four-room
addition for the Rice building, the same
to be ready at the opening of the new
term in September; also requesting the
city council to provide temporary accommodations for such pupils of the Rice school as could not be properly
cared for there under existing conditions; also constituting the committee
on schoolhouses and the local committee
of Ward Six, a special committee to represent the board, with full powers, in
the matter of procuring additional accommodations for the Rice school pupils.

In reply to a question, Mr. Mason said that the cost of the four-room addition would be, probably, in the vicinity of $10,000.

The board adjourned at 9.15 o'clock.

BOTH BOARDS MEET AGAIN.

ALDERMEN GRANT SIXTH CLASS LICENSES TO FIFTEEN DRUGGISTS—HEARING ORDERED ON EXTENSION OF COMMONWEALTH AVENUE FROM AUBURN STREET TO CHARLES RIVER—INSPECTOR OF WORKS REQUESTED TO FORMULATE PLAN FOR THEIR REPAIRATION, HAVING IN MIND GREATER PUBLIC SAFETY AND REMOVAL OF SUPERFLUOUS POLES.

Both branches of the city government met Monday evening. Mayor Bothfield presided in the board of mayor and aldermen.

The first business in that branch was the presentation of the last quarterly and annual report of the overseers of the poor. The same were received and placed on file.

The mayor read a communication from the Municipal Fire Alarm and Police Signal Company relative to alleged infringement of certain of its patents; also a communication from the Gamewell Company offering to defend the city in the event of suits. Both referred to city solicitor.

At this point a hearing was opened on the petition of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company for locations for 6 poles on Tremont street, and 1 pole at junction of Park and Tremont streets. No one appeared in remonstrance. The hearing was closed.

Upon recommendation of the Chief of Fire Department, A. R. Hendricks and B. F. Tripp were appointed to the permanent force.

John Joyce was appointed a private sewer layer.

A communication from E. E. Sanborn, requesting abatement of sewer tax for his estate on Institution avenue was referred to the committee on sewers.

A communication from Richard Swift, claiming damages on account of injuries alleged to have been caused by a fall in a sandpit on Walnut street, was referred to the committee on claims.

Alderman Plummer presented a communication from E. L. Pickard and 60 others requesting the laying out of Lexington street to uniform width of 60 feet and the provision of means for its proper drainage. Referred to highway committee.

Petitions of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company were presented for pole locations (with necessary wires) on Woodford road and Commonwealth avenue. On former, a hearing was ordered for Tuesday, April 30, at 7:50 o'clock; on latter hearing ordered for Monday, May 20, at 7:50 o'clock.

A petition of Lenox street residents for concrete sidewalks was referred to the highway committee.

H. S. Crowell was granted a license as auctioneer.

Renewals for licenses for intelligence offices were granted to J. Q. Wetmore, F. W. Foster, Nellie D. Doherty, Mrs. O'Halloran, Mrs. J. C. Jones and George Lane.

Licenses and renewal of licenses were granted the following for pool and billiard tables and bowling alleys. Chestnut Hill Club, Neighborhood Club, Newton Boat Club, Newton Club, U. G. McQueen, (treasurer) Garden City (Wheelmen) Highland Club, Joseph Lee, W. A. Vachon and J. W. Hackett. A license for a pool table was granted Co. C, 5th Regt., M. V. M., (Clifton Guard) without requirement of customary fee. A petition of Emma A. Allen for an inn-holder's license and licenses for pool and billiard tables was referred to the committee on licenses; also a petition from a party for license for a pool table in a boarding house on Mechanic street.

Several street musician's licenses were renewed. On motion of Alderman Plummer, the time of playing within the city limits was restricted to 8 p. m.

Junk licenses were granted to James Murnaghan, Frank Murnaghan, John Mullane, Max Tankle, Patrick Downing and James Lyons.

Fifteen sixth-class liquor licenses were granted to the following druggists who obtained certificates from the state board of license commissioners: C. W. Kinder, W. C. Gaudet, G. H. Ingraham, Isaac H. Snow, W. P. Thorne, E. J. Keyes, J. T. Waterhouse, J. H. Green, A. R. Gardner, J. J. Noble, Melville A. Hoyt, Fred A. Hubbard, Arthur Hudson, Walter E. Mays and W. F. Hahn.

These druggists have filed applications but have not yet received certificates. J. G. Kilburn, E. F. Partridge, John F. Payne, A. F. Wright, S. N. Sears and B. B. Buck.

A batch of licenses were granted for hackney carriages, express wagons and barges.

Alderman Plummer presented a communication from H. A. Thordike and some 80 others, representing property taxed for more than half a million, requesting the immediate completion of that section of Commonwealth avenue, new (boulevard), extending from Auburn street to the Charles river.

Referred to highway committee.

The application of J. F. Williams for a sixth-class liquor license was referred to the license committee.

On motion of Alderman Bullard, an order passed authorizing the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company to extend its tracks from Homer street westward to land of said railroad company.

An order offered by Alderman Plummer was adopted authorizing the laying out of that section of Commonwealth avenue lying between Washington and Auburn streets, and fixing compensation for damages to certain real estate owners whose land or portions of it will be taken for the improvement. It is specified in the order that owners of property affected shall be granted 30 days to remove fences, trees or other obstructions.

Some papers from the common council were introduced at this point and acted upon in concurrence. These included petitions for concrete sidewalks on Central, Beacon and Pembroke streets, Waverley avenue, Montvale road and Grant avenue; also petitions for additional street lights on Central street, and for six incandescent lamps on Brighton street, between Waverley avenue and the Boston line.

Following the disposition of concurrent papers, a petition of the New England Telephone Company was presented. It asked for a location for poles and necessary wires on Turner street, between Central avenue and Walnut street, and a hearing was appointed for Monday evening, May 6, at 8 o'clock.

These orders for new sewers offered by Alderman Hamilton, were adopted; Court, off Henshaw court northerly; Highland park, from Highland avenue northerly; Hawthorne street extension, from Adams street, northerly; Quirk street.

On the proposal of laying sewers in Prospect street and Grove Hill road hearings were ordered for May 6 and 13 before the board of aldermen and common council.

An order offered by Alderman Green was adopted requesting the inspector of wires to examine and report a plan for their separation, having in mind the greater safety of the public and the removal of superfluous poles.

Orders were adopted authorizing the laying out of Oakley road to the Barnes estate; giving notice of intent of city to lay out the section of Commonwealth avenue between Auburn street and the Charles river and appointing hearings for Tuesday evening, April 30, before both branches; authorizing the laying out of Camden road.

On motion of Alderman Bullard, the petition of the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company for pole locations on Commonwealth avenue was taken from the table, and a hearing on same appointed for Tuesday evening, April 30, before the board of mayor and aldermen.

The board went into executive session about 9 o'clock and soon after adjourned.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing the work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. ## COL. FERRIS WELCOMED HOME.

HE TELLS HIS COMRADES OF THE ANCIENT AND HONORABLE ARTILLERY COMPANY SOMETHING ABOUT THE PROPOSED LONDON TRIP.

Col. A. M. Ferris, of this city, who has just returned from a trip to Europe, received a royal welcome from his comrades of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company upon the occasion of its closing smoke talk of the season, Friday evening. Following the spread the proposed London trip of the company in 1896 was discussed. Col. Ferris was one of the speakers. He said that during his stay in London he met a number of the prominent members of the Honorable Artillery Company of that great city and there was a general feeling of interest in the proposed visit of the Boston company, who were assured of a glorious reception. The matter of uniform had been informally discussed by the gentlemen he had met there, and the opinion among them seemed to be that a uniform dress, of course a military one should be worn, as the general public over there don't understand the parti-uniform worn here.

From what he had learned before leaving London, Col. Ferris said that on its arrival in Liverpool the company would probably be received by a delegation from the London company, and by them escorted to the city, and on the second day they would be escorted by the entire company to their armory at Finsbury, and there be reviewed by the Prince of Wales, commander of the corps.

The Uncasiness Among Certain Druggists.

For the first time in the history of Massachusetts, says the Springfield Republican, the liquor-selling druggists appear to be in lively danger of being brought under the effective fire of the law. What the courts have failed to do Henry M. Whitney and his associates of the state board of pharmacy appear to be in a fair way of accomplishing with some degree of success—the creation of a wholesome respect for the laws which rule out the drug store as a dram-shop. We have for so long been without any check on this unlawful phase of the rum evil that the new state of things naturally raises great protest. It is asserted that some of the men who have failed to pass the muster of the state board are not such great sinners as others who have been indorsed, but such instances will be pardoned if the general effect is what it promises to be. All men who show too great a proportion of the sale of liquor to other drugs disposed of stand in grave peril of losing their sixth class license. For this license only $1 is paid, and this expenditure carries with it no right to make any illegitimate sales of liquor. Any man who sells an undue proportion of liquor under these circumstances cannot complain if the state board refuse to indorse him as a fit man to hold a special privilege from the state. That is the long and the short of the matter.

NEWTON A. A. EVENTS.

PATRIOT'S DAY PROGRAM COMPRISED TRACK AND FIELD CONTESTS AND GAME OF BAIL.

The Newton Athletic Association held a members' meeting at the Newton Centre playground, Patriots' Day, and the program comprised an attractive list of handicap events. There was a large attendance of ladies, who lent considerable tone to the meeting by coming out in handsome spring gowns and pretty Easter bonnets.

From an athletic standpoint the meeting was a very successful one, and it augurs well for Newton's standing in the open competitions to be held during the year.

The final in the 100-yard dash was a great race, five men running almost abreast until the finish, when Rising forged ahead and won by a very narrow margin. The two-mile bicycle, class A, was something of a walkover. G. H. Crafts of Newton Centre, who, with a generous handicap of 200 yards had no difficulty in keeping in the van. H. W. Crowell, one of the scratch men, mowed down a big field, but he could not touch Crafts. W. M. Morse took a tumble in making a turn, and wrecked the front wheel of his machine. The 800-yard run proved a game struggle between C. V. Moore and A. L. Rand, Jr. The latter had 25 yards to his credit on the handicap over Moore. They came into the stretch in close company, and on the way home Moore went to the front and remained there. C. V. Johnson and T. P. Treadwell had the same handicap in the 440-yard run, and the contest between them was very close. Johnson won, with Treadwell a good second.

Summary:
One hundred yards dash—Trial heats, won by E. R. Crane (3yds.), 10.45s.; C. S. Bryant (4yds.), 11s.; H. W. Burdon (5yds.), 11s.; F. C. Rising (3yds.), 10.45s.; G. F. Skelton (4yds.), 10.45s. Final, won by F. C. Rising (3yds.), with E. R. Crane (3yds.) second, 10.45s.

Two-mile bicycle, class A—Won by G. H. Crafts (20yds.); H. W. Crowell (scratch), second. Time—5m. 51.25s. Eight hundred and eighty yards run—Won by C. V. Moore (40yds.); A. L. Rand, Jr., (15yds.), second. Time—2m. 11.25s.

Four hundred and forty yards run—Won by W. C. Johnson (10yds.); T. P. Treadwell (10yds.), second. Time—54.25s.

Running high jump—Won by E. M. Johnson (5m.); E. H. Clark (scratch), second. Height, 5ft. 9in.

Running high jump—Won by W. C. Benedict, (2ft.); E. H. Clark (scratch), second. Distance, 42ft. 3.12in.

Pole vault—Won by A. V. Shaw (scratch); E. W. Shaw (5m.), second. Height, 9ft. 6in.

The Newton A. A. team won handsily from the last contest of Roxbury on the Newton Centre playground, Saturday afternoon before a large crowd. Walter Fitz, the young high school pitcher, admirably supported by the veteran Cushing, easily bore off the honors. Eldracher was hit more freely, but seldom safely, due largely to his own excellent fielding and that of Kerrigan. Hubbard's three-baser was the cleanest hit of the game.

COUNCIL OF EDUCATORS.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MASSACHUSETTS ASSOCIATION OF CLASSICAL AND HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS—INTERESTING PAPERS BY PRINCIPAL E. J. GOODWIN AND MR. S. WARREN DAVIS OF THIS CITY—PROF. CAPEN'S VIEWS ON THE VALUE OF SCIENTIFIC CULTURE.

The 28th annual session of the Massachusetts Association of Classical and High School Teachers opened last Friday in the Newton high school "gym." Nearly all the towns and cities in the eastern part of the state were represented. President Arthur L. Goodrich, principal of the Salem high school, presided.

Mr. Frank A. Hill of Cambridge, secretary of the state board of education, gave the initial paper, his topic being, "What is a High School?" Mr. E. J. Goodwin, principal of the Newton high school, was introduced following the reading of Mr. Hill's paper. He gave an essay on "The Function of the Public High School." Among other things he said:

The most remarkable fact concerning public high schools in recent years, is their rapid growth. It would be interesting to know just how many pupils in the whole country attend such schools, and how much money is appropriated for their support; but the statistics bearing upon these questions are very defective. The cost of the public high schools is not obtainable even from Massachusetts. The total enrolment of high school pupils in 47 states and territories for the school year 1890-91 was reported as 211,596. For the school year 1880-81 twenty-five of these 47 states and territories made no report of the number of pupils in the high schools.

I am compelled, therefore, to base my belief in the rapidly increasing popularity of the public secondary schools upon apparently reliable statistics obtained from five of the New England states. The increase in ten years, from '82 to '92 in the number of pupils attending the public secondary schools of Maine was 73 per cent. During the same period New Hampshire gained 12 per cent.; Vermont, 33 per cent.; Rhode Island, 70 per cent.; and Massachusetts, 47 per cent. So numerous and wide spread have these schools become in Massachusetts "that 95.4 per cent. of the whole population are directly provided with this instruction in their own towns."

What does the public high school stand for? What is its aim or purpose? What return does the community get for the money so liberally expended in its support?

The question is not a new one, but it properly recurs whenever an attempt is made to enlarge the functions of the high school, or to readjust its curriculum. That we are on the eve of such an enlargement and readjustment is generally admitted. The new programs of studies proposed by the Committee of Ten, and the new law in Massachusetts calling for a high manual training school in cities and towns of more than twenty thousand inhabitants are clearly defined issues that must be met in some way or other during the next three years. I do not, however, delude myself with the thought that I shall add anything new to the great body of discussions that centre about the question of the usefulness of the public high school. In fact I purposely avoid the discussion of those phases of the question that are distinctively new.

Nevertheless I both recognize and admit that the proper function of the public high school varies somewhat with the rapidly changing conditions of our civilization. But whether the cities of the Bay State should offer free instruction in manual training, and adopt the recommendations of the Committee of Ten are questions that I will pass along to those who are to follow me in this discussion.

The secondary school is the nursery of the technical school, and of the college as well. Hundreds of capable boys and girls of slender means are impelled every year to enter the colleges, the scientific schools, and the professional schools of New England because the local high schools offer a preparation for these institutions, which is free of cost.

Not only do the high schools educate teachers for the elementary schools, and furnish material for the technical schools and colleges, but they supplement the training of the lower schools and give it unity and completeness. It is the peculiar function of the elementary school to present to its pupils a great body of primary truths. As curiosity and activity characterize the child's mind, so the processes of observation and acquisition of elementary truths distinguish the child's school. The laws of the animal and vegetable world; the results of the operation of physical and chemical forces; the language, habits and customs of men and society seem to the mind of the child as so many simple and unrelated phenomena. To close a child's schooling at this point, where childhood ends and youth begins, to thrust him out into the world, to leave him to the school, and into the bustle and confusion of a busy world, is not only to deprive him of a well rounded education, his natural right, but he is thereby compelled to take his place in society inadequately prepared to meet the responsible duties of intelligent citizenship in a free state. No amount of instruction in isolated facts imparted to children in elementary schools is sufficient of itself to produce wise men or trustworthy citizens. It is the function of the secondary school to formulate and systematize the specific knowledge acquired in the elementary school, and to complete and render available the training that is given in them.

To summarize what has been said: The secondary school has been organized and is maintained by the people to uplift and strengthen the elementary school; to open the doors of the technical school to those who wish to become skilled laborers and artisans; to make a college education possible for ambitious boys and girls of slender means; to give completeness and symmetry to elementary education; to maintain political equality and enactive sympathy among all classes of men; to insure the safety of the state by educating men who have the gift of leadership; to extend far and wide, directly and indirectly, the beneficial results of thorough training and sound learning; and to keep the heart of the nation's life pure by inculcating on the minds of young men and women such principles of philosophy and ethics as are found in the teachings of Him who said: "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

The closing exercises of the session were held Saturday morning. These officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, E. J. Goodwin, principal of Newton High school; vice-presidents, Bryson Gross, Elizabeth D. Gardner of Boston, Enoch C. Adams of Newburyport; recording secretary and treasurer, William F. Bradbury of Cambridge; corresponding secretary, Rest F. Curtis of Boston.

After some discussion relative to the time and period of annual sessions, it was voted to request the executive committee, if in its judgment it was deemed advisable, to hold single instead of two-day sessions hereafter. The delegates placed themselves on record as favoring the week in April beginning with the first Monday of that month as a future time for holding the annual meeting.

Following the transaction of business a paper on "Ethical Values Classics Versus Science" was read by Mr. S. Warren Davis of Newton. The natural sciences, said the speaker, are concerned primarily with the laws that govern the external world, and serve as a means to uplift the inner life of man in so far only as their subject matter is invested by man himself with aesthetic or ethical import. The ethical value of a subject, he continued, is determined by the power of the subject to inspire right feelings and incite to right action. Ethical values form no inconsiderable part of educational values, taken as a whole, but plainly constitute a larger part of this whole in some subjects than in others. No time more than the present, and no country more than our own, felt the influence of utilitarian doctrines. The first question asked about a subject of study in the schools is: "Will it be useful in life?"

If the words useful and life were not perverted and narrowed in the query no objection could be urged against it. But when useful in life means directly helpful in gaining dollars and cents, when the life is not regarded as more than meat, it is a fitting time to protest against the thought which prompts the question.

It is because the study of the natural sciences is popularly believed to be useful in this narrower sense that many parents desire their sons to receive what is called a scientific education. I would not attempt to disparage the educational value of natural science. In cultivating habits of accurate observation and investigation, it is an essential of the criticism of life or culture. Few, however, will undertake to deny the high educational value of such studies as physics, chemistry and botany.

Teachers of classics have sometimes been accused of clinging too fondly to old traditions and it is claimed by some that they satisfy Douglas Jerrold's definition of a conservative. I maintain that culture has an ethical moment, and that science can contribute but little of this side of our knowledge "of the best that has been thought and said in the world."

A recent essay on the educational value of natural science declares the study of science to be "humanitarian." The writer quotes with approval the following remarkable statement of an American author of scientific works: "The aims of science are distinctly beneficent. Its spirit is that of charity and human kindness. Its mission is noble, inspiring, consolatory, lifting the mind above the gross contacts of life, preserving aims which are at once practical, humanitarian and spiritually elevating." Let us see what evidence we can bring in regard to the "noble and inspiring" mission of science and its "spiritually elevating" aims? Let Charles Darwin testify from his own experience:

"I have said that in one respect my mind has changed during the last twenty or thirty years. Up to the age of 30, or beyond it, poetry gave me great pleasure and even as a schoolboy, I took intense delight in Shakespeare, especially in the historical plays. Formerly pictures gave me considerable, and music very great delight. But now for many years I cannot endure to read a line of poetry; I have tried lately to read Shakespeare and found it so intolerably dull that it nauseated me. I have also almost lost my taste for pictures or music. My mind seems to have become a kind of machine for grinding out of large collections of facts, but why this should have caused the atrophy of that part of the brain alone on which the higher tastes depend, I cannot conceive. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness and may possibly be injurious to the intellect and, more probably, to the moral character by enfeebling the emotional part of our nature."—Darwin's Autobiography.

This is Darwin's testimony. The story of his own life is told with charming frankness. It reveals a gentle, loving, beautiful character. We admire his character, we are charmed by the nature of the man, but as we turn the pages of his biography we feel that the one missing principle is the spiritual element; and this principle is the foundation of the higher life and forms the noblest part of the human nature.

The author of a much read novel in apologizing for the story he is telling, speaks of Latin and Greek as "highly improper languages, deservedly dead, in which pagan bards who should have known better, have sung the filthy loves of their gods and goddesses." The only comment required is to apply to the man who could write such words, the remark that Prof. Goodwin, in his recent essay on the educational values of the ancient classics, used in another connection: "He is saved from mortification only by his lack of the knowledge which he needs to understand his own ignorance." No one who knows Homer calls him impure. In this matter everything depends upon the spirit or tone of the writer.

Only the languages can be properly called dead in which nothing living has been written. If the classic languages are dead, they yet speak to us and with a clearer voice than that of any living tongue. If their language is dead, yet it is alive in the hearts of men. The language of Shakespeare's ever was or will be. They call upon us to witness the successes and the failures of two of the most wonderful nations the earth has ever seen—one of them a people that solved for itself and for modern civilization many problems of law and government; the other a nation that at most unaided attained to such perfection in sculpture, architecture, poetry and eloquence that its achievements are today the models and the wonder of the world.

President Capen of Tufts College was introduced at the conclusion of the reading of Mr. Davis' paper. He commenced by saying that so far as his own education and traditions were concerned, he stood on the side so ably and eloquently presented by the gentleman who preceded him.

As we look over the field, however, he continued, we must recognize that tremendous changes have taken place, some of them, it must be admitted, not altogether in the interests of progress. The chemical laboratory today in colleges and schools is an important part of physics in the same way and other departments of science have come into a large place in the schools. The spirit of scientific research has taken possession of history, philosophy and even the linguistics.

We know what type of man the old methods of culture produced. We may ask whether the new method can accomplish anything like it? We do not know. But the new method, if it is to be a hundred years, or even a hundred years, to enter upon these new methods with confidence believing that they are right, and, if right, will yield the best results.

Science deals with things as they are, the actualities of existence. The scientific student must be candid and judicious. He must be absolutely faithful in every detail, and never consider his work completed until every detail is completed. That leads to patience and devotion, concentration is perhaps not too large a word. In that respect is not the scientific investigator, or student following the line, that runs parallel to that of the moralist?

The scientific man is investigating the harmonies of the universe. He recognizes sequences, and that leads up to the idea of cause and effect. Here you are identically on the same lines with the moralist. Science, you may say, excludes the spiritual, but I do not think so. We must remember that we are at the beginning of the scientific movement. In some things that science has established, she has surely taken her position on the spiritual side.

There was a discussion at the conclusion of President Capen's remarks, and at its close it was voted to adjourn.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "I cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by A. Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburn; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists."

The Cost of our Schools.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—In my letter of the 15th inst. I spoke of the importance to the city of maintaining a high character in its school instruction as a means of influencing the class of settlers who may be attracted to come among us.

The question has now been raised whether the great cost of the school system does not so burden the taxpayer, that he who has already completed the education of his children, or who has no children, may in preference choose a different home?

I have therefore taken from the last report (Dec. 1894) of the State Board of Education, the figures showing the comparative cost, to the taxpayer, of the public school system in the twelve cities of the state having a population of between 20,000 and 40,000, as named in your editorial of April 12th. I have arranged the cities in progressive order, and the figures indicate the cost of the schools for each $1000 of property valuation:

New Bedford, $2.74; Newton, $2.82; Salem, $3.20; Holyoke, $3.40; Chelsea, $3.41; Somerville, $3.44; Haverhill, $3.70; Fitchburg, $3.72; Malden, $3.75; Taunton, $3.91; Gloucester, $3.92; Brockton, $4.03.

That is, if a man moves from Newton to Salem, he will have to pay for the support of the schools $1.13 for every dollar that he now pays. If he moves to Somerville the purchase of every dollar for schools will be increased to $1.22, or if he goes to Brockton he will pay $1.43 where he now pays $1.00.

New Bedford is the only city on the list where the schools do not cost more than they do here; and there the conditions are exceptional. The school season is two weeks less than ours. With a population nearly double ours they have but 386 high school pupils to our 612, and the city is relieved of the cost of educating 237 pupils who attend private schools, while the private schools of Newton have but 213 pupils.

I conclude, therefore, we need not fear any great begonia from our city on account of excessive school tax.

MR. ADDICKS finds time in the intervals of looking after the men he has purchased in the Delaware legislature to come on to Boston and stir up things generally in the gas-combines he owns here. The latest is a complete overturn and ex-Mayor Matthews is tipped out, but as he had an iron-clad contract for three years at $25,000 a year, he probably is not worrying over the recent developments. It is no wonder that the people turn to municipal lighting after the revelation made by extortion and wholesale swindling in the Boston gas combine, which is owned by outside parties. But our legislature still stands in the way of any relief, and this week has killed a bill, which provided for the removal of some of the obstructions to municipal ownership of gas and electric plants. It looks as though Mr. Addicks had some influence in our legislature, as well as in that of Delaware.

The variety of stories heard on the street in regard to changes in regard to the plans for widening Washington street, and for depressing the railroad tracks, does credit to the fertile imagination of some Newton people. It has been said that the appraisers have had to stop work on account of a change in the Boston & Albany plans. As the appraisers have done nothing as yet, this story needs no further denial. Then it is said that the depot at Newtonville is to be moved to another location, which statement surprised the Boston & Albany officials, who had not heard of any such intention. It is safe to discredit all such rumors without investigation, as nothing will be done before July, at least, by the city, and the city has to take action before the railroad can. So far there have been no changes in any of the plans, and none are expected to be made.

Boston is trying the Detroit potato raising scheme in earnest and the committee in charge have received offers already of about 100 acres, and have many applications from those wishing to cultivate the lots. The treasurer of the committee is Mr. C. B. Fillibrow, whose place of business is 85 Essex street, but whose home is in Newton.
Springfield has also started the scheme in a practical way, and it bids fair to spread to all the cities of the country.
It is a practical way of helping the poor to become self-supporting, it costs almost nothing except the small sum needed to furnish seeds and tools, and the owners of the vacant land receive a real benefit, in having their land taken care of, and made a garden spot, instead of a dump for rubbish, and a storehouse for weeds. There is yet time for a start to be made in Newton, if the Associated Charities or some other organization would take hold of the matter.

Are the people competent to govern themselves or is this an exploded theory?
The passage of the Holyoke police bill indicates that the House thinks the latter to be true, that local self-government is a failure, and cities must depend on the governor of the Commonwealth.
It is a curious state of things, and if Holyoke is so bad as this, then other cities must be in the same condition, and similar legislation must be had for them.
But if local officers-holders can not be depended on, how can we expect more virtue in the governor, who is more susceptible to political influences, and has to yield to the politicians to an even great extent than local officials. The moral of the whole thing seems to be that if we can not get good government from local officials, it is unreasonable to expect it from state officials.

Now that the West End company has applied for a 99-year lease of the Boston subway, the most formidable objection to its construction is removed. The proposition on the part of the West End provides for the payment of the interest on the bonds and also carries with it the responsibility of creating a sinking fund that shall wipe out the indebtedness when the securities mature at the end of 40 years. It can also be stated that the West End is not the only interest that is ready to take the subway off the hands of the commission on its completion, at a figure that will meet all obligations imposed by the legislative act. The West End's application, however, will not be acted upon for some time, or until the commission has absolute assurance that Beacon hill is not to put its veto upon the work.

The Board of Health is to make a sanitary inspection of all the houses and other buildings in the city, in the interests of public health, as is announced by an advertisement in another column.

Whether they will find what they are looking for is a question, but probably the officials will be much disappointed in their smelling tour, if they do not find some things that need remedying at once. A hot summer is predicted, and the way to prepare for it is to have everything cleaned up.

The burning of the Raymond hotel at Pasadena will be regretted by many Newton people, who have visited it in their journeys, and Mr. H. W. Wellington and family of this city had been spending part of the winter there. The guests escaped with all their effects, and it is said that but few people were staying there, as the season was to close next Monday. The hotel has never paid expenses, it is said, and its patrons were mainly members of the Raymond excursion parties. It is doubtful whether it will be rebuilt.

The Middlesex county members of the legislature had a banquet, Wednesday evening, and formed themselves into a legislative association. Politics are tabooed, and it is only for the glorification of Middlesex, Representative Harwood of Newton was one of the speakers.

The Associated Charities has had an offer of 10 acres of land from Mr. Bernard Early of Lower Falls, and will allot it to such deserving persons as may apply. This is the first offer that has been received and it is hoped that others will follow.

A hot summer is predicted by Sargeant Dunn of the weather bureau, who says that there has been a deficiency of 28 degrees since Jan. 1, and "the weather is bound to even up."

EX SENATOR SHAW of New Bedford carries off the prize, and will succeed Col. Phillips as state treasurer. The most active hustler gets the office nowadays.

A ROMANTIC STORY.

An Estranged Pair Reunited Through a Newspaper Item.

Here is a story that is the aftermath of a romance and the prologue of a wedding. It occurred recently in a Cincinnati store:

A handsome blond gentleman walked from the elevator at the third floor, evidently in a state of expectant perturbation, and after a hurried glance about the room walked hastily toward a pretty black haired saleswoman. The young lady, hearing his approach, turned half around to wait on a prospective customer. The gentleman grabbed the lady before she had turned completely around, and drawing her close to him planted a kiss upon her rosy lips. Clerks and customers looked on aghast until an explanation was made.

Mrs. Ella Gruenmeier was the sales-woman, and the man who embraced her was Mr. Charles Gruenmeier, her ex-husband. Four years ago Mr. and Mrs.
Gruenmeier occupied a handsome home on East Fairfield avenue, Dayton, Ky.
They had been married two years, and a pretty little girl was the fruit of their union. He began to indulge in mild dissipation and lost his position. Strained relations between husband and wife followed, and they finally separated.

For three years Mrs. Gruenmeier heard nothing of her husband. She sought and obtained a decree of divorce upon the grounds of desertion and failure to provide.
Their little daughter became dangerously ill of typhoid fever, and she published the fact in a newspaper. This was noticed by the father at his new home in Chicago, and he wrote to his former wife as to the condition of the little one. This led to a correspondence between the separated ones, and learning that Mrs. Gruenmeier had secured a divorce Gruenmeier went to her. The scene described above resulted. Mrs.
Gruenmeier took her daughter to see her father, and for the first time in four years the little family was reunited.
He returns to the Windy City to wind up his business affairs, after which he will remarry his wife.

THE MEXICAN BOUNDARY.

The Westward Half of the New Survey Has Just Been Completed.

Since July, 1892, the international boundary commission, with a staff of 80 engineers, soldiers and laborers, has been engaged in resurveying the boundary line between the United States and Mexico from El Paso, Tex., to San Diego, Cal. The work is practically finished, and a corps of draftsmen is now busy at the government building in San Diego completing the final and summary maps, profiles and details of the labors of the commission. The survey has covered more than 700 miles.

The commission has rebuilt the 52 early boundary monuments and set up 296 more at an expense of about $80,- 000. The new monuments consist of an iron shaft, bearing the letters "U. S." on the north side and the word "Mexi-cana" on the south side.

A few weeks ago another commission, known as the international boundary (water) commission, started upon the work of resurveying the boundary line between Mexico and the United States along the Rio Grande from El Paso east to the gulf of Mexico. It will probably not finish its labors for three years. It will set up a chain of monuments similar to those erected from El Paso westward.

Lasell Notes.

The usual Symphony party on Saturday evening.An orchestra in the gymnasium on the same evening added zest to the dancing.Several attended services in the city on Sunday.On Monday a small party attended the exercises at the School of Expression.The benefit concert given at West Newton, April 18th, for the blind singer, Miss Smith, was heartily enjoyed by as many of the Lasell students as were able to be present.A considerable party from Lasell attended, last week, the entertainment given in Auburn hall in this village by the four young Armenian students. The Turkish music rendered on that occasion, the Mohammedan school, the dance, and the songs were curious performances and were not a little diverting.The morning of the 19th presented a spectacle of grave and serious import: into the chapel, after the rest of the school had gathered, filed the long line of Seniors arrayed in Oxford caps and gowns—black, dignified, impressive. What exalting power has that flowing robe and trim little cap with its strange looking "mortarboard!"

Ross was the fortunate winner of the first prize, a chip plate; and Mrs. Newton, the winner of the second prize, a cake plate. Both plates were fine specimens of Mrs. Morse's china art painting. The afternoon spent was a pleasant occasion to all present and $27 dollars was added to the Guild fund.

—The Newton Club will soon commence the work of putting its tennis courts in first class shape. They are among the finest in the city, very similar to those of the Neighborhood club from which they were modelled. There will be, of course, some interesting members' tournaments this season and probably an interesting tourney of a character that dame reporter says is to be made noteworthy in many respects. Several of the cracks will be invited it is said, to compete for some elegant trophies. This plan would be hailed with delight by the smart set and the ladies would turn out in their very nicest and most fetching summer gowns.

—Alderman Green introduced an important order at a meeting of the board Monday evening, which it is hoped will lead up to the solution of the overhead wire nuisance. Owing to the mixing up of telephone, telegraph, street lighting and street railway wires, contacts have been frequent. The street lighting

NEWTON CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SOCIETY HELD MONDAY EVENING.

The annual meeting of the Newton Civil Service Reform Association was held in the English and Classical school-house, West Newton, Monday evening. The following officers were elected:

President, Henry Lambert; vice-presidents, E. B. Haskell, Edwin P. Saver, Nathaniel T. Allen, Warren P. Tyler, Joseph R. Leeson, Francis George Curtis and George H. Ellis; directors, R. L. Bridgman, D. C. Heath, Thomas B. Fitzpatrick, George E. Gilbert, Edwin F. Kimball, F. F. Raymond; treasurer, H. E. Bothfield; secretary, James P. Tolman.

Various reports were read. That of the secretary was an interesting document and is appended.

April 22, 1895.
At the date of our last annual meeting we had a membership of 308. Since then we have received 15 new members and have lost 3 by death, making a net gain of 5 and a present membership of 310.

One of our deceased members, Judge Peter Thacher, was an original member of the association having been with us during the entire 14 years of our existence. Throughout the declining years of a long life he maintained his interest in the progress of our reform and his belief in its efficacy.

Our latest loss has been in the death of the Honorable Leverett Saltonstall. His name has headed our list of vice-presidents since 1880, and has never ceased to reflect credit upon our organization, and upon his own profession of principles. Called upon to fill a political office at a time when his party had been long proscribed in the distribution of the minor places, he did not, under solicitation, forget the convictions formed at a time when he occupied the position of a calm observer, but retired after his four years of service, a shining example of an officer who remembered that service to his party should not be forgotten in service to his country.

Since the last annual meeting the secretary has corresponded with Collector Warren, concerning a report that he intended to recognize party services in his appointments to office; with Congressman McCall thanking him for his speech May 23d;—with the Boston Herald concerning an editorial on the civil service; with Senator Lodge, in the recognition of his service in securing to the Civil Service Commission a clerical force of its own;—with Senator Hoar concerning the post office in one of the Newtons;—with the Mass. Civil Service commission concerning the adoption of the classified system in our cities;—with Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt, in recognition of his speech at Harvard;—and with Postmaster General Bissell, thanking him for the aid done our cause by the expressions in his Annual Report and later concerning retirement from office.

The secretary also, by vote of the Executive committee, joined with the Chairman of the Executive Commission in addressing a letter to Attorney General Olney in recognition of his order to district attorneys to keep out of campaign work.

The entire executive committee joined with President Lambert in addressing a letter of thanks to President Cleveland when he made several successive additions of large numbers of public employees to the classified Service last fall.

The officers of the association have recently joined in a letter to the Public Service Committee of the Legislature requesting unfavorable action on the Veteran's Preference Bill.

A year ago we had occasion to congratulate ourselves upon the classification under Civil Service Rules of the labor and mechanical service of the highway department of our city. It is gratifying to be able to report a still further increase, and since Nov. 1st, the entire labor and mechanical service of all departments in our city has been classified under civil service rules. This result was obtained by the voluntary action of our city government under the provisions of the state law. It is much to our satisfaction that this favorable action was taken principally under the leadership of an officer of this association, one who does not forget in his present exalted position as the chief magistrate of our city, the principles and convictions which appealed to him when out of office. After three successive years of presentation of the subject, he finally secured an almost unanimous vote of the city council. Now every department of our city service, except the fire department and the school service is under civil service rules.

In the state of Massachusetts, our civil service law, having been designed and administered honestly and for the public good has always worked well. It is however regularly subjected to legislative raids, and considerable watching is required to prevent the law being so changed as to nullify its effect or provisions. Although war veterans have under the present law, principally under the leadership of an officer of this association, one who does not forget in his present exalted position as the chief magistrate of our city, the principles and convictions which appealed to him when out of office. roll instead of causing the work to be done by clerks detailed from other departments as heretofore. This is a most complete recognition of the permanency of the system and is the most strongly favorable action by Congress since the passage of the civil service law.

President Cleveland, by order in November and December had about 5000 places on the classified lists, being the largest extension undertaken for several years.

Several members of the cabinet have made favorable expressions concerning the system in their annual reports and Secretary Carlisle alone, in the Cabinet, seems to willfully trample upon the rights of the people by the frequent appointment of notoriously unfit persons to positions of high responsibility in recognition of party work.

By the adoption of a new constitution in New York state on Nov. 6, it is made mandatory upon the legislature to adopt the merit system of appointments throughout the state and its subdivisions, even down to villages. Legislation designed to meet this end is now in progress. Meantime the state commission has been reorganized and the abuses in the operation of the old law straightened out; and it seems as if New York were about to have civil service reform in the place of the sham which has been going by that name.

Chicago has this month voted for the adoption of a strong civil service law for the city, by a majority of nearly 50,000. This is a very notable triumph. The vote was large and the discussion was hot, both sides going strongly into the canvass on this distinct issue. The separation was not made on partisan lines. There were barrel-head and wagon speeches, brass bands, etc., and the issue was so clear that it offers a decided proof that the reform has reached a popular acceptance.

The civil service movement has actively sprung up in the city of St. Paul; and the long defunct association in Cincinnati has been reorganized and commenced active work.

Municipal Reform Leagues and Good Government clubs are springing into being in all parts of the country.

To sum up, the past year has been a great one for the progress of the reform; every step of progress opens new paths of need, and the enthusiasm of the reformers and all the ardor of their convictions are needed and should be kept vigorous and alert.

JAMES P. TOLMAN, Secretary.
To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in General court assembled:

The Newton Civil Service reform association respectfully remonstrates against the passage of the Veteran's Preference Bill, so-called (House Document No. 1040) and urges that it be rejected by this legislature as is recommended by the committee on public service but it desires such reference by far in preference to the passage of the bill.

The association respectfully represents that the bill is a serious blow at the efficiency of the service due to the public by officers in the employ of the state and of the cities and that it requires from the state and cities favors which will never be asked for by those who are filled with the spirit of the men who gave their lives for the country during the war of the rebellion. The effect of the bill will be to demoralize the public service as far as it applies, and it is an insult to the character of those who have once risked themselves for the good of the state.

The association appeals to you to regard the serious aspects of the bill and to defeat it for the sake of the public and of the veterans whom it is mistakenly supposed to benefit.

The following resolutions were adopted on the death of Hon. Leverett Saltonstall:

The Newton Civil Service Reform Association learns with deep regret of the death of the Hon. Leverett Saltonstall. He was one of our vice presidents from the first organization of the association and has always been a warm friend of Civil Service Reform. He has honored every public office that he has held, and his manly and upright course and affable bearing has won the respect and esteem of all who knew him. We feel that the death of such a man is a public loss, and we wish to put on record this, our tribute of respect for his memory and our regret for his loss.

A False Diagnosis.
La Grippe is confounded by many persons with a severe attack of catarrh, which in some respects resembles it. These individuals suffer severely with pain about the forehead, eyes and ears, with soreness in throat and stoppage of the nasal passages, and in fact are incapacitated for work of any kind for days at a time. These are catarrhal sufferers. Ely's Cream Balm has been used with the best results in such cases. The remedy will give instant relief.

The Bixby Fund.

Immediately after the sad accident last June, which caused the death of our late Chief of Fire Dept., Henry I. Bixby, a committee of seventy citizens, ten from each ward, was organized for the purpose of obtaining a testimonial fund for the benefit of his family. The city was canvassed and the subscription books when completed were placed in the hands of a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Arthur F. Luke, Chairman, Henry E. Cobb, N. Henry Chadwick, Josiah E. Bacon, William T. Farley, Frank J. Hale, R. H. Gardner, William P. Ellison and David Bates, treasurer, for collection.

This committee has just completed its labors and on Tuesday last, Mr. Bates, the treasurer, had the pleasure of placing the sum of $7,507.68 in Mrs. Bixby's hands, together with a share of stock in the Masonic Temple Safety Deposit Co. of Chicago, which had also been donated. The committee are also indebted to Messrs. Geo. H. Ellis, Edwin F. Allen and the Fanning Printing Co. for printing and stationery.

The total subscription was collected with the exception of the small sum of $38., and considering the financial pressure of the times, the committee feel that the citizens of Newton have generously shown their appreciation of the character and worth of their dead chief. The treasurer's report is as follows:

David Bates, Treas. In account with the Bixby Testimonial Fund.
To subscription, $7,448.75
To rebate on receipt books, 2.10
To interest on deposits, 56.83
Total, $7,507.68

Cash paid for subscription, $19.50
Cash paid for receipt books, 15.00
Balance paid Mrs. Bixby, $7,507.68

Spring is full of terrors to all whose constitution is not able to resist the sudden changes of temperature and other insubstantialities of the season. To put the system in condition to overcome these evils, nothing is so effective as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Take it now.

Don't Wear Bloomers.
"Be not the first by whom the new is tried, Nor yet the last to put the old aside."
The woman of today desires to be well educated, bright and accomplished. She must be able to participate in outdoor sports, as well as household duties. First and foremost of all healthful recreations of the day is cycling. Yet with a wheelwoman can still be a womanly woman, not a base copy of a man.

The majority of lady cyclists are non-advocates of the bloomer costume, unless worn under a short skirt. For advice, we refer to our highest authorities on Dress Reform, and the ladies tailors, who are busy at present manufacturing bicycling suits, since there is such a vast increase of wheelwomen this season.

In doing so the horse broke its leg and it was found necessary to kill it.

—About one o'clock last Friday afternoon two young men in a canoe were overturned at the silk mill dam by the capsizing of their boat. The two young men were good swimmers and swam against a strong current to shore. The canoe, cushions, paddles and other things dashed over the dam, and were lost. Later in the afternoon two more young men in a canoe were capsized at the same point. These young men were not such good swimmers as the first two and would have been drowned had not some bystanders thrown them a rope with which they were pulled ashore. This part of the river is dangerous as there is a whirl-pool and a very strong current there. The four young men may congratulate themselves on their lucky escape as this is the same place where Timothy Crowley and Annie Holt were drowned some three years ago.

—A bicyclist collided with a buggy at Wellesley Hills, Sunday afternoon. The bicyclist received a severe laceration of his hip. The ambulance was called removing him to the Newton Hospital for treatment.

A small boy was at a table where his mother was not near to take care of him, and a lady next to him volunteered her services. "Let me cut your steak for you," she said; "I can cut it the way you like." She added with some degree of doubt, "Thank you," the boy responded, accepting her courtesy; "I shall like it the way you cut it, even if you do not cut it the way I like it."—Detroit Free Press.

Rheumatism in Hips and Back

Eyesight Affected but Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures All.

"I was troubled with pains in my back and hips. My eyes swelled so that I could not see for two or three days at a time. I became so I could not walk at times. The first bottle helped my appetite and before the second was all gone my back was a great deal better and the pains had left my hips. I have now taken over five bottles and I am as well and as

as if I had never been afflicted with it. I shall continue to use Hood's Sarsaparilla for I believe I owe my life to its use." Mrs. M. A. Burns, West Gardner, Mass.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON THEATRE—The great Sandow is the sterling attraction booked to follow the "Black Crook" at the Boston Theatre, for a two weeks engagement, beginning Monday evening, April 29.
Sandow heads a company which won distinction and favor everywhere. called the Sandow Trocadero Vaudeville, and apart from the great athlete himself, is composed of artists who have won great reputations in their respective lines. The organization includes "The Lucifer" and "The Great Fire," the Musical Halls of London, "Tom Browne," the eminent double-note whistler; "Musical Call," "Billy Van," "Mlle. Marguerite," "Miss Scottie," the clever calculator and card playing colliedog, "Ben Dunham," "Amann," "The Marvellous Jordan Family," Gilmore's Band, the greatest and most perfectly equipped musical organization of the century, is booked for an engagement at the Boston Theatre, Sunday evening, May 5.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE—"The Fire Patrol," a thrilling drama with a number of exciting scenes and many novelties, will be the next attraction at the Bowdoin Square Theatre. While the play is sensational in character, it is constantly of absorbing interest, for its serious moods are quickly followed by those of lighter and merrier vein and afford pleasant relief to the more strained periods. It is a well written play, superior in many respects to the average drama, and a genuine fire and wagon and horses and a gold stamp mill and ore crusher in full operation are features sure to create the greatest enthusiasm.
A splendid production is promised, for the cast is strong and the scenic and mechanical equipment will be in every way worthy of the Bowdoin Square Theatre management. Manager Atkins of the Bowdoin Square Theatre has just received all of the models for Sutton Vane's new melodrama, "In Sight of St.
Pauls," which will be the great melodramatic production of the season at this theatre.

BOSTON MUSEUM—The favorite romantic actor, Robert Mantell is attracting great audiences and the Boston Museum, now one of the cosiest and most attractive playhouses in that city, has proved a popular resort during the engagement, which, by the way, is for two weeks. This week, Mr. Mantell presented his new play "The Husband" and the notices of the production by the critics of the Boston press were of a most favorable character. For the week beginning April 29, the repertoire is as follows: "Monbars" Monday and Tuesday evenings; "The Corsican Brothers," Wednesday and Saturday evenings; "Hamlet," Thursday evening; "The Marble Heart," Wednesday afternoon and Friday evening, and "The Lady of Lyons," at the Saturday matinee.

TREMONT THEATRE—Mr. William
Collier will be at the Tremont Theatre next Monday night for a two weeks' engagement, and will then answer the question the specific one—"Who is Jones?" From information gained by accident we are led to believe that Mr. Collier, the well known comedian, has some hypnotic control over this Jones. He describes him "as a diplomat who has no equal; in an emergency he is without a peer. He advises one in difficulties to send for Jones; if in distress to call upon Jones; when all else has failed and hope is dead, leave it to the effervescent, effervescent, diplomatic Jones." Furthermore Jones is a philanthropist. He propounds several queries and answers them like the propensities of old. He announces a lot given away to every child born in Paradise. A word to the wise is sufficient. Have your children born in Paradise. See Jones. Now, all these rather perplexing matters will be settled at the Tremont on Monday next, April 29, when the well known and always versatile comedian, William Collier, comes to town.

He will explain especially to the ladies on Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

PARK THEATRE—Boston will have an opportunity to see Sadie Martinot next week, as she follows "A Temperance Town" at the Park Theatre. Few actresses are more popular here or have occupied at various times so much of the public thought and gossip. Boston claims Miss Martinot.
It was there she began her career, and developed from a singing soprano into a dainty comedienne. This season she has been starring in a play called "The Passport," which is highly spoken of by the critics. Miss Martinot will play the part of a buoyant and fascinating society woman. Associated with her as leading man is Mr. J. H. Green, Newtonville, who is calculated not to make his audience forget his brains and wonder whether or not life is worth living, but to invoke incessant laughter.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic
to learn that prompt relief may be had
by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

'THE GODS, SOME MORTALS AND LORD WICKENHAM.'

This is the rather cumbersome title of a new novel by John Oliver Hobbes, author of "Some Emotions and a Moral," etc., which has just been published in attractive form by D. Appleton & Co. It tells of the hard fortune that befel a popular London physician, a man who won success in his profession by the hardest kind of work, and who naturally might have expected to have found some happiness in life, as he observed the moral laws, and did as near right as he knew how.
But his life was ruined by his marriage to a woman who had nothing but her beauty to recommend her, and was in fact a woman of the most unscrupulous kind. A boy he had an unhappy home, and found even worse things in his married life. The author is evidently a woman, in spite of her masculine pseudonym, and the hero is a woman's hero, with a tendency toward romantic ideals, and little knowledge of the practical, in spite of his profession. He could hardly have been happy, even had he married the rather shadowy heroine, who is drawn in rather unsubstantial form, but no man could have lived with the woman his own folly gave him as a wife, who is represented without a single redeeming trait. The author does not sympathize with the high opinion of her sex, as there is not a single worthy female character in the book, and the result is rather depressing to the reader. The story, however, is well worked out, and never flags in interest. Some of the scenes are very strongly drawn, and the book belongs to the popular realistic school of fiction.

THE MARRIAGE OF ESTHER.

Mr. Guy Boothby, author of "O the Wallaby," has written a new novel called "The Marriage of Esther," which has just come out in Appleton's Town and Country Library. Mr. Boothby, who comes from Australia, has entered the first rank of antipodean writers of romance, and the dramatic situations and sustained interest of this new romance leads with the life of Australia and has an interesting plot and a number of romantic characters.

HARPER'S.

Harper's Magazine for May includes, besides the second instalment of "Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc," the sixth part of Mr. Hardy's "Hearts Insurgent" and three short stories; "Litinaj Bonita," an Arizona love-story, by Owen Wister, illustrated by Frederic Remington; "By Hook or Crook," an amusing sketch of Boston life, by Robert Grant, with illustrations by C. D. Gibson; and "Dutch Kitty," a White Slave story, and of Julian Ralph's tales of "People We Pass" in East side New York, with illustrations by Clifford Carleton. There are besides a number of more serious articles which includes Alfred Parsons' "Some Wanderings in Japan," Rev.
Brookholst Morgan, D. D. gives some personal experiences in City Missions under the title "Men's Work Among Women." The Editor's Study discusses the common European view of America and other topics.

SCRIBNER'S.
The May number of Scribner's magazines contains the first instalment of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's new novelette
"The Story of Bessie Costrell," an entertaining paper on "Golf," the continuation of President Andrews' resume of the history of the last quarter century in the United States, in which he treats of the downfall of the "Carpet-Bag Regime;" instalments of Judge Robert Grant's "The Art of Living" and George Meredith's "The Amazing Marriage;" and a number of illustrated articles and short stories.

NEWTON WHIST EXPERTS.

THEY CAPTURE ALL THE PRIZES IN THE N. E. LEAGUE TOURNEY

Newton carried off the chief honors in the New England Whist Association tournament held at the Hotel Thorndike, Boston, last Friday and Saturday, in the contest for the president's trophy, sixteen clubs competed in the preliminary play and the Boston Press Club scored a handsome victory, with 11 wins, 2 ties and two losses. The Old Dorchester Club was second, and the Newton Club third.
These three teams qualified for the finals.
There were 64 deals played in the two preliminary rounds, and 32 more by each team in the finals. In this stage of the battle Newton beats both the Boston Press and the Old Dorchester, each by six tricks. The Boston Press won from Old Dorchester by three tricks.

By this victory the Newton Club tightens its grip on the permanent possession of the trophy, having won and defended it in six matches and the present tournament. It becomes the property of the club that wins it 12 times.

The league has adopted an amendment to the constitution, whereby the association becomes or will become with the assent of the clubs composing it, the New England division of the American Whist League.

There was a duplicate whist match for pairs Saturday afternoon. Messrs.
Sprague and Casey of the Newton Club were the winners.

The event Saturday evening was the contest for the Morse trophy. The competing teams were from the American Whist, Jamaica and Boston Press Clubs, and the Mercantile Library Association of Boston, Newton Club, Pastime Club of West Newton, Old Colony Whist Club of Taunton, Dartmouth Club of New Bedford, and Campello Whist Club of Brookline.

The winners were the Pastimes. The team comprises Messrs. Greenwood, Fletcher, A. S. Glover and W. B. Bosson.
It is probable that the next N. E. W.
A. tournament will be held next fall in some other city than Boston.

Our better halves say they could not
keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held, where it has been sold for years and is well known.
Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments
quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take.

Waban Whist Club.

The duplicate Whist Club of Waban, consisting of twelve gentlemen, celebrated the closing evening by a dinner at Young's hotel, on Saturday last. It has been an exciting contest all through the winter, each one having played every one against every one. When they met to play the final game last Saturday, Mr. A.
D. Locke was considered by his strong lead of twelve points, a sure winner for the first prize. But alas! it is the unexpected that always happens and the contended by Mr. Harry Dresser tying the leading man for first place. Mr. Wm.
Buffum was second, Mr. Wm. Gould third, Mr. A. S. Barnes fourth, Mr. James Morse fifth, Mr. J. E. Heyman sixth.
The last six men were a 1 in the mitis column, and from among them we refrain from stating their standing.

All are good players but some lead and others follow. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock. The guests were Mr. L. K.
Harlow, Mr. Alex. Dresser, Mr. T. Raymond; all had acted as substitutes at various times during the season. Mr. L.
K. Harlow had contributed a beautiful etching for the first prize. As there are two leaders the committee are in a quandary as to awarding it. Some one at the meeting suggested that Mr. Harlow make it two etchings but the gentleman lacked out of order. Considerable rivalry has existed between the two last men. Mr. C. J. Buffum presented in a neat speech the gentlemen that sustained that position with dignity, a valuable work entitled, "Kindergarten of Whist." It was a pleasant ending to a winter's enjoyment. At 8 o'clock the club disbanded for the season. Much credit is due the officers, Alex. Davidson, Pres.; Mr. Wm. Gould, Treas.; Mr. Harry Dresser, Sec.; for the success that has attended the winter's work.

The Minister's Desire.

"And now brethren and sisters," said Rev. Mr. Wilgus at the close of his sermon on fads, "we have had so violent attacks of the Tribly fad and the Napoleon fad, that I have hopes before I die of yet seeing a Bible fad started in this congregation."

And with a sigh the good man sat down, while the choir rendered the latest adaptation from Wagner.—Indianapolis Journal.

"Shall I write out Dodson's bill?" asked the clerk. "No," returned the head of the firm, after some deliberation. "I think you'd better have it printed. Get about a hundred copies or so. You'll need that number before he pays it, and time and money will be saved in the end."—Waterbury.

—At the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday the Pastor will preach, morning and evening. The evening solo will be by Mrs. Louise R. Spear.

—Criticism improves the world. Our true friends tell us of our faults; unless we can hear to be told of them, we will probably everlastingly hold on to them.

—Philip Sylvester, while riding on his wheel in Lexington last Friday, came in collision with a fruit wagon. He was thrown from his bicycle, but not seriously hurt. The wheel was pretty badly damaged.

The scholarship is to be named the "Leverett Saltonstall scholarship" in memory of the deceased's father.

—In an article by a well known special writer on tennis the following paragraph appeared: "During the coming season, it is probable that the tennis courts will see Fred Hovey but little. He is probably playing in the Longwood tournament that he may get another chance at the beautiful bowl in which he has won legs already, but with this exception and at Newport where he and Clarence hold the title, he will probably play but little. Hovey played on the Harvard varsity ball team in the year in which he lost the trophy to Bob Tenn, and to this many of his friends ascribe the loss of the championship in that year. Hovey is now practicing law in Boston, and this, it is said, will keep him off the courts for the most of the season."

—The citizens of our village, especially the ladies, are very much disturbed over the lack of school accommodations for the younger children, and feel that the school committee and city government should make some immediate effort to remedy the trouble. The fact being, that while all the rooms in the Mason school are full, and also the upper rooms of the Rice school, the lower rooms in the Rice school are so crowded with children in the lower grade that in a room designed to accommodate not more than 40 pupils there are now 120 scholars and 2 teachers. In order to make it possible to turn some of these have to be placed in the corridors a part of the time, which is likely to be injurious to their health, as well as comfort, and under such circumstances, scholars do not have a proper chance. A great many of the parents feel that if it is not possible to secure other accommodations, either in the school building or outside, it would be far better to dismiss the younger scholars, and have it understood that the city cannot furnish them proper accommodations for schooling. There is no desire to ask for unnecessary or expensive outlay for new buildings, but a general feeling that additional room should be added to the Rice school, sufficient to give accommodation to the scholars now there, and also allow reasonable increase of population. We understand that an effort is to be made to have the city government build such necessary additional room as may be necessary during the summer, so as to have it ready for the fall term. In the meanwhile, some other accommodation should be furnished at once for the scholars that have now entered.

—The village clock is too slow and a few passengers "got left," and so.

—Mr. David Blisdell and family will remove to Stoneham next week, where they have bought a pleasant house and two acres of land with fruit and shade trees, near Church square.

—The depot grounds will be as attractive as ever this summer. The boys have been at work there this week and the lawn and garden spots as a consequence seem to have taken on a new lease of life. The landscape gardener of the B. & A. contemplates the laying out of very handsome beds of plants and flowers.

—The child of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Brewer, some two months old, was put to bed at his grand-father's (Mr. Warren) last Saturday evening, apparently in its usual health. The parents then called at his father's on Institution Hill on their return in a few hours, the child was dead. A post mortem showed a clot of blood in the heart. They lost a child very suddenly about a year ago.

—A quiet home wedding was solemnized here last week at the home of Miss Walley on Ballard street. The contracting parties were Miss Florence Stuart and Mr. Alfred E. Armstrong. Rev. Mr. Hughes, pastor of the Methodist church officiated. A reception was held and at its close the happy couple departed on their wedding tour, the congratulations and good wishes of the numerous friends following them on their journey.

—A Domino party was very successfully given by the N. S. S. in Associates' small hall last Friday evening, April 19th. The matrons were Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Stone. The club members are Misses Alice Bond, Edith Parker, Florence Dowling, Ella and Edna Mason, Anna Brewer, Gladys Smith, Bessie Hunter, Mary Mitchell and Bessie Macomber. Their guests were Messrs. Hammond, Childs, Hamblin, Fitz, Whitney, Stiles White, Claflin, Walworth, Johnson, Nickerson and Paul.

—A very unique reception was held on Paul street, Tuesday afternoon from two to four o'clock, when Wallace W. Leonard Jr. of Germantown, Pa., assisted by his mother and grandmother, received a remarkable company of lovely, well-behaved babies were present. Among the guests were Isabel Hughes, Alice Weston, Margaret Merrill and Richard Cook. The genial host, of three months, received with a great deal of dignity, and altogether the occasion was a very pleasant and interesting one.

—The Wednesday club gave a reception to Miss Irwin, Dean of Radcliffe College, Miss Longfellow, Mrs. Arthur Gilman of Cambridge and Mrs. William Claflin at the home of Mrs. Adams D. Claflin on Wednesday afternoon, April 24th, from three to five o'clock. The club and some fifty guests had the pleasure of listening to a most interesting talk by Miss Irwin on what Radcliffe is doing in the study of sociology. After which Miss Longfellow read, in a charming manner, two of her father's poems, "Daybreak" and "Bells of Lynn."
